

Omaha Man Gets Important Post in Traffic Body

President of Baker Ice Machine Company Is Named on Executive Committee of Middle-West Marine.

J. L. Baker, president of the Baker Ice Machine company, has been named a member of the executive committee of the Middle-West Merchant Marine.

Other members of this committee are F. C. Bryan, traffic manager of the Allis-Chalmers company of Milwaukee; Robert S. Alter, vice president of the American Tool Works of Cincinnati; Carl Weeks, president of the Armand company of Des Moines, and A. McCred of Detroit.

"The Middle-West Merchant Marine committee seeks to accomplish the following things," said Mr. Baker.

"To develop ways and means for the concentration and storage of all surplus agricultural products in the middle west group of states by means of adequate warehouse property located, including other products besides purely agricultural products.

"To provide a plan of marketing all of such products as are consumed and marketed in the United States and for marketing all of the surplus products which are not consumed in the United States, including a financial institution created and controlled directly by the shippers and owners of such products.

"To formulate a plan accompanied by proper and adequate maps for the reorganization of the present railroad transportation systems so that adequate means will be provided for railroad transportation to the several deep water ports of the south Atlantic and north Atlantic states, together with the proposed inland water ways.

"To work jointly with the ocean transportation companies in providing adequate assembly transportation for all of the products exported from the territories above named.

"To revise the present unequal and unjust railroad transportation rates and lay down a new scale of rates both for interstate transportation and also for transportation to deep water ports for export purposes. Such rates to be brought to the attention of the proper authorities now existing whose duty it is to cause the matter of adjustment of rates to be brought to the attention of the railroad companies so that agreements can be secured on the proposed revised scale of rates and rates are put into effect at the earliest possible date.

"The same effort should be used in the readjustment of ocean transportation rates to all of the foreign markets to which American goods are exported and from which the United States purchases products of any kind for import."

"It will probably serve a good purpose to take note of some of the unequal and unjust rates now in effect in railroad transportation from the city of Omaha alone.

"The carload rate on machinery from Omaha to New Orleans for export is 7 1/2 cents per hundred pounds. The corresponding rate from Dallasburg, Ill., to New Orleans for export is 4 1/2 cents per hundred pounds. A difference of 3 cents per hundred pounds. The same is true of the two points to New Orleans are practically the same. The corresponding rates from Ohio and Pennsylvania points into New York city are scarcely one-half of the above rate.

"If we assume shipments of similar products from effective territories to New York and New Orleans, the western products are at once placed at a very great disadvantage. It seems that we are shipping to a South American port, into the ocean rates from New York city to all South and Central American ports are exactly the same as from New Orleans. The difference in distance is in the vicinity of 1,600 miles. The import rates to the points mentioned suffer about the same inequality to the disadvantage of the central west.

"A study of freight rates in general affecting the central west will reveal an indefinite number of inequalities which have long existed and which could be readjusted and proper rates made so as to give all territories equal shipping facilities on land and sea.

"All parties interested in both export and import should come to the relief of this committee and lay down their requests and demands so that the committee can work with greater energy and be benefited by the immediate support of all interested parties."

Children Go 30 Miles a Day by Bus to Attend School

How would you like to have an automobile bus picking you up at your doorstep each morning and whisk you off to school, and then return you to your home at night?

You'd like it? But, perhaps, it wouldn't be so pleasant if the journey was a matter of 15 miles or so.

Scottsbluff county in the western part of Nebraska is a district of great open spaces and quite often a man's next door neighbor may live a mile or so away, perhaps even farther. There was a time when the matter of higher education wasn't a point of great importance in Scottsbluff county. The citizenry was too busy trying to scratch a living from the land.

Then came the Interstate Irrigation project and the North Platte valley became a land of fertile fields. The problem of eking out an existence became easier of solution and here and there districts of the county began to devote more attention to ways and means of educating their children.

One district—Lake Alice, where is located one of the large storage reservoirs of the Interstate reclamation project—found its high school problem particularly baffling, for its district contained 43 square miles.

The buses used to carry children of the Lake Alice school to and from class. This picture was taken when the students were about to start out for an outing.

But the Lake Alice district was populated by determined men and women and they refused to let a little thing like distance deter them in their plans for a high school.

So in 1915 the Lake Alice consolidated schools were established and three automobile buses purchased by the board of education to transport the boys and girls to and from school. The entire district of 43 square miles is covered by these three buses. The aggregate distance covered by these buses each day is 90 miles. Some of the students travel 20 miles a day in order to attend classes. Rain or snow the buses operate.

Another problem that confronted the Lake Alice board of education was that of housing its teachers. So a new 11-room teacherage was erected in 1920 at a cost of $15,000. Here eight teachers can make their home. There also is an apartment for the superintendent.

The Lake Alice school maintains a regular four-year high school course and its graduates are accepted at the state university. A well-equipped manual training department also is maintained.

"Singing Mike" Adamo, alias Mike La Porte, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary by District Judge Goss yesterday on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting last fall of Alice Rinehart in her room at 2182 Chicago street.

Adamo was found guilty of the crime by a jury in Judge Goss' court several weeks ago.

On the stand, "Singing Mike" asserted that the girl was shot accidentally, during a struggle, with his own gun which he had given her to keep in her room. He said he did not remember the details of the shooting distinctly, but that the two were quarreling.

Suspect Held for Shooting in 1916

Man at Whose House Loot Was Recovered Partially Identified.

Sam Marzano, 821 South Twenty-eighth street, at whose house police recovered loot valued at more than $2,000, stolen in at least 11 different robberies in Omaha, has been identified by the police Berillon department as Sam Trentini, 53, who is alleged to have shot with intent to kill, his niece, Christiana Trentini, 13, and Sam Separazzo, in Omaha on October 30, 1916.

Identification was made difficult due to an accident which altered the contours of Mangano's fingers, but Lieut. A. C. Anderson made careful measurements, and is convinced of the identity.

Trentini, he says, became Mangano when he married a widow and took her name.

His niece, Christiana, was 13 at the time of the shooting. He was angered because she ran away with Separazzo.

Trentini is held for investigation in connection with the recovery of the loot, which is thought to be part of more than $50,000 stolen from local stores and homes.

Detectives Saturday morning revealed that, in addition to the loot from local robberies, they found approximately $10,000 worth of dope at the Mangano place, together with a quantity of dynamite caps and dynamite.

Mangano, who was released Saturday on $2,500 bond, later was re-arrested on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act.

His arrest on this charge makes the 11th of the present week in the police drive against dope selling in Omaha. Detectives said they believe they have broken up the heart of the Omaha dope ring.

Constipation Remedies

Constipation in normal persons is caused principally by eating too highly concentrated foods. Such foods as contain an excess of sugar, starch or fat are completely indigestible and relieve the intestines of much of their normal work. This causes the intestines to shrink.

The treatment of mild cases of constipation and the prevention of constipation in normal persons is largely a matter of habit or diet.

Our Washington information bureau has compiled a helpful diet and instructions for the treatment of constipation and will send a copy to any reader on receipt of an addressed, stamped envelope and the following coupon.

Miss Howard in Bad Shape. Simple Intestinal Antiseptic Surprises Her.

"I was afraid to eat anything, even rice, because I always had trouble with my stomach. I was also troubled for three years with constipation. After taking one of those bottles Adolika I can eat anything and feel fine. My doctor has also had stomach trouble so bad that the only thing that agreed with her was hot water. She has about the same results with Adolika." (Signed) Adolika Howard Intestinal Antiseptic.

This is now offered in the public as a preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a COMPLETE system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adolika, acts as follows:

It tends to stimulate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacilli in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against harmfulness. It breaks out all cases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is the strongest, the most complete, the most powerful matter Adolika draws from the alimentary canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it after more food matter it brings out which was poisonous to you. In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach and sick headache, one spoonful Adolika ALWAYS brings relief and long standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports From Physicians.

"I congratulate you on the good effect I had from Adolika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. J. Langlois
