

THE MORNING BEE

MORNING-EVENING-SUNDAY
THE BEE PUBLISHING COMPANY
NELSON B. UDDIKE, Publisher. E. BREWER, Gen. Manager.

BE TELEPHONES
Main Office—17th and Farnam
Co. Bluffs - - - 15 Scott St., So. Side, N. W., Cor. 24th and N.

AN UNTOUCHED HERITAGE
Around the world the school bells ring, calling the children to their books.

When the time comes for the history lesson, however, local pride steps in, and in each country the children learn a different lesson.

There are countless ways in which the course of events in one country influences that in another.

Mr. Harding is quoted as indicating the belief that all the factors of the story of mankind, which form an essential unity, must be weighed and appraised if any are accurately to be understood.

Such a course would lay heavy requirements on the teaching profession. At most, the boys and girls in schools could not much more than catch the realization that they were parts of a world system and heirs to all the past as well as integers in a modern nation.

ONE OUT OF MANY.
Soon Willa Cather's red-headed hero will be off to war. Those who are reading her novel, "One of Ours," which is appearing serially in The Omaha Bee, realize by this time that Claude was not particularly happy in Nebraska.

He did not profit much from his attendance at a denominational college near Lincoln. The author's discussion of this incident in Claude's career quite naturally views the situation through the eyes of her character.

It was no more the fault of the school than of the rugged farm boy that he was unhappy there. One cannot call him irreligious, for his was a tender, lofty soul.

THE PIE THAT BLOOMS IN THE SPRING.
An inspired poet will some day tune his lyre and the world will be given a deathless song, hymned to the praise of rhubarb pie.

Our physical as well as our spiritual nature yearns for a bit of green, something to remind us that spring is not far behind. It is true that all the year round service of tomatoes and lettuce and the like is made possible by modern market gardening.

When grandma comes I'm glad clear through. Because I know I'll get a new. And pretty dress. She always brings me many useful, pretty things.

When grandma comes I'm glad clear through. Because I know I'll get a new. And pretty dress. She always brings me many useful, pretty things.

Now, thanks to modern transportation, we get tomatoes and the like from as far away as Porto Rico through the winter, and the movement is progressive until our own gardens begin to bring forth their yield.

SAYING HOWDY TO A COW.

"I never saw a purple cow," a comic rhymester wrote, but there are many children in New York City who never saw a roan one or any other kind.

Even so, the city editor of the New York World may have thought he was giving out a hard assignment when he told a reporter to go out and find a boy who had never seen a cow and then take him to Central park and show him one recently presented to the city by the Dairywomen's league.

"So that's a cow," said Lawrence, evidently uncertain whether the milk came out of her horn or her tail.

"On the right side," said the keeper.

"I didn't see anything there," the boy replied.

"Gee, you could put out a fire with her," Lawrence was more familiar with condensed milk, and asked where that came from.

If this incident has any value, it is to suggest that in the cities is growing up a generation unacquainted with nature and unfamiliar with the fundamental processes of food production.

DIFFERENT SIDES OF THE SHIELD.

Two great figures stepped down their high places in service of the people when the Sixty-seventh congress expired on Sunday, March 4.

And how do these veterans feel, on leaving the greatest representative legislative body in the world?

Several months ago, when he announced his intention to retire, Mr. Williams said: "I'd rather be a dog and bay at the moon than serve another term in the United States senate as at present constituted."

On his way home to Danville, Mr. Cannon said: "This country is a hell of a success."

Edgar Howard, who has had the experience of having been vamped diplomatically and financially by England the United States should hesitate a time before running the risk of being vamped by the world.

John Sharp Williams is an able man; he is reputed to be the ablest of the group he sat in the senate with, yet he will be remembered as the man who could make the galleries laugh, whose acid tongue bit into many a colleague's pride, and genial and wholesome as he is in private life, could not adapt himself to the changing views of the world.

A little prewar stuff has been ordered restored to its owner by an Omaha judge. Who will be a popular guy for the next few days?

Samuel Gompers, who has been dangerously ill, promises soon to be dangerously well again.

Whether the French or Germans are becoming tired of the Ruhr endurance contest, the rest of the world is losing interest in the game.

The Turks are willing to talk it over again, which should interest European hotel proprietors.

Homespun Verse

By Robert Worthington Davis

WHEN GRANDMA COMES.

When grandma comes I'm glad clear through. Because I know I'll get a new. And pretty dress. She always brings me many useful, pretty things.

Divided on World Court

Some Nebraska Editors Prefer National Aloofness to Any Association With European Affairs—More View Peace Tribunal With Hope—No Sentiment for League of Nations.

Nelson Gazette. The wisdom of the United States entering the world court at this time may honestly be questioned. There are so many perplexing problems to be solved here at home that until we can find statesmen able to lead us out of the wilderness we would prefer to refrain from taking on any additional responsibilities not absolutely necessary to our nation's survival.

Bloomington Advocate. P. M. Crane: We believe that the United States should keep out of the European war. We performed our duty to humanity when we went across and settled the world war.

M. A. Brown: It is not so much a question as to whether the United States shall participate in European affairs as it is the extent of that participation. It seems proper and the time right to function in a world court functioning for conciliation, mediation, or even arbitration, a court with strictly a moral purpose, with no weapons of force or coercion.

Norfolk Press. Marie W. Wicks: The United States should not enter the world court, a camouflaged name for the league of nations, if such entry is to mean that Uncle Sam is to put over our men and money the rotting carcass of European diplomacy.

Falls City Journal. Aaron Dickson: The world court can no longer avoid universal problems and can meet them only by sitting in council with other nations of the world.

Geneva Signal. Frank O. Edgecombe: I approve the world court policy outlined by President Harding.

Pierce County Call. C. D. Brande: We believe that the United States should enter the world court as suggested by President Harding. We are not in favor of the league of nations as advocated by ex-President Wilson.

Columbus Telegram. Edgar Howard: We have the experience of having been vamped diplomatically and financially by England the United States should hesitate a time before running the risk of being vamped by the world.

Nebraska City Press. J. H. Sweet: American entrance into a world court must be conditioned on two premises—no article 19 under which American troops would be required to participate in international donnybrooks, and no acceptance of mandates over hell-raising principles seeking an "angel" in Uncle Sam's American participation in a world court for humanitarian purposes.

Grand Island Independent. A. F. Buscher: The interests of America will be jeopardized, not promoted, by the step toward the so-called international court, which President Harding advised.

Lehigh World. Charles R. Kuple: It is our humble opinion that this country should keep out of all foreign entanglements and alliances, even to the extent of joining the world court.

Oakland Independent. C. G. Carlton: Since the world court is the main creation of America's brainiest men, Elbert Root, whose patriotism and loyalty is above questioning, the court must be safe for the United States to enter.

Daily Prayer

We are bound to thank God always.—11 Thess. 1:3. Our Father, we thank Thee that Thy mercies are still upon us, and that Thy love wraps us round about. We bless Thee for the joys of existence, and for every good and beautiful thing Thou hast put into our lives.

Songs of Courage by John G. Neihardt Nebraska's Poet Laureate

SHOULD WE FORGET? I wonder if the skies would be so blue. Or grass so kindly green as 'twas of old. Or would there be such freshness in the dew.

Common Sense

What's Wrong With Your Character Picture. Have you ever asked someone whom you believed to be truthful to point out some of your disagreeable traits or habits?

The Governors Will Be Safe. It is a good thing that the next convention of governors to discuss prohibition will not be held until April.

The Divided Mandate. York, Neb.—To the Editor of The Omaha Bee: I see frequent mention of Governor Bryan's fond belief that he is carrying out the "will of the people."

More Tutenkhamuns. Having revived "Uncle Tom's Cabin" for us, the theatrical magnates surely aren't going to allow "East Lynne," "Peck's Bad Boy" and "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl" to rest quietly in their graves.

What They Mostly Are. The very latest definition of an "aim" is that most of the time it usually is an "aim."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Only One Issued. One German "mark" whose phenomenal rise made the whole world sit up and take notice was Bismarck.—Pathfinder.

NET AVERAGE CIRCULATION for FEBRUARY, 1923, of THE OMAHA BEE Daily 71,558 Sunday 78,661

B. BREWER, Gen. Mgr. V. A. BRIDGE, Cir. Mgr. Subscribed and sworn to before me this 10th day of March, 1923.

W. H. QUIVEY, Notary Public

Handy Household Alibi

A Book of Today

Not until page 260 of the 310-page book "Pagan Love," by John Murray Gibbon, does any pagan love begin. For not until that page is the great secret revealed, the big punch delivered, to wit: that Frank A. Neruda is a woman.

The book has the virtue of holding the reader's interest fairly well, though verisimilitude is stretched to the breaking point. The author, a former editor of "Black and White" London, is now in the advertising business and is also president of the Canadian Authors' association.

40,000 friendly customers since 1912. Our quality work and our exceptionally low prices have made us the leading dentists in the middle west. McKenney Dentists 134 Farnam St. - - - Omaha

Throw Your Old Dictionary Away It Is Out of Date

As dead as an old newspaper—its information won't fit your work of today—out of date is out of use. Thousands of new words—never put into any previous dictionary—make The New Universities Dictionary exclusively up to date.

The Omaha Bee

NEED OF A NEW DICTIONARY was forced upon the nation by unprecedented advances in science, the arts, and by upheavals of war and politics.

Greatly Reduced Size

Thousands of New Words Absolutely necessary in writing and speaking of present-day activities. Thousands of these words, never before in any previous dictionary, are now fully defined and placed in the homes of readers by the enterprise and foresight of this paper.

The New Universities Dictionary

Thorough, complete, new and authoritative, was perfected in the manuscript by the contributions of

- PERCY W. LONG, A.M., Ph.D. - Harvard
CLARK S. NORTHROP, Ph.D. - Cornell
JOHN C. ROFE, Ph.D. - Pennsylvania
FORREST S. LUNT, A.M. - Columbia
MORRIS W. CROLL, Ph.D. - Princeton
GEORGE J. HAGAR - Editor-in-Chief

Each of these distinguished educators teaches in The New Universities Dictionary how fashions in words changed and outgrew the old dictionaries. They tell in this book how to build and punctuate sentences—how to acquire refinement, culture and force in speech and writing.

The New Universities Dictionary is more than a vocabulary—it is twenty-two dictionaries and an exhaustive inventory of today's English.

The supply is limited; readers of this Newspaper should act at once. The price is nominal, mere cost of manufacture and handling.

Richly bound in textile leather, black seal grain, red edges, gold stamping. Printed from all NEW type, large and clear—EASY on the EYES.

HOW TO GET IT

Get It Today GOING FAST Yours for Only 3 Coupons and 98c MAIL ORDERS FILLED—SEE COUPON Clip Coupon Today From Page 8

Don't Let 98c Stand Between You and Education