

Traffic League Opposed to Plan of Car Pooling

System Would Create Another "Middle Man" and Increase Charges, Report States.

The proposed National Security Owners Car Pooling plan is merely the injection of another central body between the shippers and the carriers, according to the view taken by the committee on transportation and instrumentalities and car service of the National Industrial Traffic League at a recent meeting in Chicago, J. A. Kuhn, traffic manager of the Omaha Grain exchange, who attended the meeting, reports.

Increased Charges.

The pooling plan, which is known as the Warfield plan, is for a national organization to take over the building of new cars and rebuilding old cars, making the organization a central distributing agency for all carriers of the United States," Mr. Kuhn said.

The American Railway association takes the position that machinery, better than under the plan proposed, is now available to meet any emergency which may arise in regard to car service; that the adoption would increase rather than decrease operating expenses, with a resultant increase in charges against the public; that the railroad transportation machine already is so hampered by restrictive governmental regulation that a further limiting of the power of individual initiative and enterprise such as involved in the proposed pooling plan is inimical to the highest usefulness and efficiency of the railroad management.

Await Reply.

"The committee seemed inclined to the view that the pooling plan simply means the injection of another central body between the shippers and the carriers, thus eliminating practically the only instrument of competition left to the individual railroad."

"It was, however, decided to await the reply of the National Association of the Owners of Railway Securities to the opposition presented by the American Railway association, and the committee will meet again in the near future before making its recommendations to the league as a whole."

Representatives of the Warfield plan, as well as representatives of the American Railway association, were present during the two-day session of the committee and every phase of the situation was discussed.

Rules Too Rigid.

"It was admitted by the railway representatives that some of the car service rules as at present interpreted were too rigid and that they would be revised so as to make them more elastic."

Shortage of power rather than the pooling plan, which is known as the Warfield plan, is for a national organization to take over the building of new cars and rebuilding old cars, making the organization a central distributing agency for all carriers of the United States," Mr. Kuhn said.

Rector Pleads Guilty to Charge of Manslaughter

Slayer of Charles Foley Says He Meant to "Right a Wrong"—Sentence Is Deferred.

Russel Rector, 35, teamster, who has been held in county jail on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Charles Foley at his home, 1808 Grace street, the night of March 4, threw himself on the mercy of District Judge Goss yesterday afternoon.

He pleaded guilty to manslaughter. "I went there that night to right a wrong," he told the judge. "I wanted to effect a reconciliation with my wife if I could. We had been separated seven months. I didn't know she was going to get a divorce."

He told the judge he asked Foley for his wife, and they got into an argument. He said Foley struck at him, after which he pulled a gun and shot at Foley three times. "I will have to investigate your case before I can pronounce sentence," Judge Goss told him.

Banker Now in Pen to Be Tried for Fraud

Willard V. Mathews, former president of the Pioneer State bank, now serving a sentence of one to 10 years in the penitentiary, will be tried with 24 others on charges of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud.

Federal Judge Woodruff, on application of United States Attorney Kinsler, signed an order of habeas corpus yesterday commanding Warden Fenton to have Mathews in federal court next Tuesday at 9.

Omaha's Greatest Dress Event Takes Place Saturday!

It's to Be a Sale Without a Precedent in the Dress-Selling History of This City

Selling Starts When the Store Opens at 9

A tremendous dress purchase that was consummated only through the offer of "spot cash," and this happened only after many days had been spent in the negotiations. While the maker was "standing pat" for considerably more money, at last, through persistent efforts of our buyer, the deal was made, and now they're ready for your inspection and selection. You'll agree with us—nothing like it ever happened in Omaha before.

Your Choice any DRESS

1990

Values in the Lot up to $89.50

The Sale Lasts All Day, Providing Not Sold Out

Many stores would withhold a greater portion of these dresses and mark them much higher in price—it could be easily done. That not being our policy, we give all an equal chance to select a dress regardless of what the maker expected to realize on them. Not one dress is reserved. The one low sale price is conclusive of Hayden Bros.' policy of passing these good things on to customers.

You Know What to Expect

Through friendly co-operation with this famous dressmaker was such a rare dress opportunity made possible. Previous dress sales have proven our statements in this ad—this sale will eclipse them all.

The Largest Single Dress Purchase Ever Brought Into Omaha

The fabrics are of the better sort—fine Canton crepes, flat crepes and other silks in qualities such as are usually found only in expensive dresses.

The styles include every phase from those for the dapper and petite miss of 14 years to the woman who wears size 44. And they represent every fashion tendency produced so far this season.

The workmanship shows that nicety of fit and finish in every detail possible only at the hands of clever designers and expert dressmakers.

Principally one and few-of-a-kind—dinner gowns, street and afternoon dresses, sport frocks, business frocks.

WE REPEAT: Every dress is a new spring style from makers of high repute. Every dress is perfect from standpoints of quality and fashion.
