

Recruits Must Shine for Florida Sun if Robins Are to Make Showing

Manager Wilbert Robinson Has No Prediction to Offer for His Team—Fair Array of Pitchers

Infield of 1923 Brooklyn National League Team Is Doubtful With Only One Veteran in Fold—Ivy Olsen on Reserve for Coming Season.

By THOMAS L. CUMMISKEY.

By Universal Service.

LEARWATER, Fla., March 21.—Wilbert Robinson, apparently called "Uncle Robbie," a leathery, deeply-creased faced man of around 60, is attempting to make something out of very little with the Brooklyn baseball club.

He is as patient as they come. He is wise in the wisdom of many long, arduous campaigns as player and mentor. He will need all he has in every way to do much with the club, from all indications. Were it not for pitchers, at which he is a wonder in developing, we'd speculatively cast the club into the cellar for the finish next October.

He had no prediction to offer. The present situation in no way warrants it. Unless newcomers shine something after the manner of Florida sun, it may be much worse than last year when Brooklyn finished in sixth place, sixth in team batting and fifth in fielding.

The infield is doubtful, with only one veteran, Jimmy Johnston, at short, and three rookies likely for the other positions. Jacques Fournier, hard-hitting first baseman, formerly with the Cardinals, and Andy High, who did well at third last year, are holdouts. Money, of course, Fournier wants $1,000 more than offered and High the same amount. High has been offered $4,000 and $1,000 extra if he plays 75 games. But he wants $5,000 flat.

May Play First.

Fred Schelmer, a star with Little Rock, may do as first baseman. He has been starting with the pitchers in bringing victories to Brooklyn in exhibition games with the Braves and Senators.

At second Jack Stewart from Birmingham is trying to make the grade. Fielding is not enough, but hitting is doubtful. This chap is fast foot. He is sure to start the season. At third Bill Muller, from Mobile, has been doing well so far.

Ivy Olsen, the veteran of veterans, will be a reserve man, probably. Walter Kealey, a promising infielder, is off. Catching will be O. K. with DeBerry, Hungling, Taylor, and either Charley Hargreaves or Long. Hargreaves looks pretty good.

Outfield Fair.

The outfield will assay fair with Capt. Zach Wheat in left, Neil in center, and Tom Griffith in right. Turner Barber, former Cub, will be substitute left fielder. Bert Griffith will be substitute right fielder. Gene Baker, tried by the Braves and Red Sox, may stick also.

"Dutch" Reuther, who won 21 games last season, Burleigh Grimes, who won 18, and "Daddy" Vance, who also took 18, all look in fine condition. On them "Robbie" pins main hopes of getting something. Other veterans are Gladstone, Mammaux, Long, Shriver and Decatur.

In George Smith, erstwhile Philly, Robbie thinks he has a pitcher who will win games for him. He has got Smith delivering side-arm balls in addition to other stuff. Harry Harper, ex-Senator and Yankee, just now is left as a hawk, is likely to stay around, as Tuckner is the only other left-hander.

Dickerman Shows Promise.

Leo Dickerman, six-foot four, from Memphis, with a fine fast ball, has been shooting over brilliant stuff in exhibition games. He is sure to be retained.

Brooklyn will carry nine pitchers this season. It is a question whether Mammaux will be held.

Charley Schmidt, old Detroit star catcher, has signed to help Robbie coach the pitchers.

Brown Elected Captain

of Lincoln Ball Team

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee.

Lincoln, Neb., March 21.—John Brown, Lincoln high school all-around athlete, will pilot the 1923 baseball team. Brown was captain of the football and basket ball teams this year.

Krug on New Job.

Los Angeles.—Marty Krug, second baseman of the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league, today was ready to lead the Angles in their workout as their new manager, succeeding Wade Kilfer, who has left to assume the management of the Seattle club, of which he is part owner.

Golf Facts

Q. In the course of a recent four-ball match at our club a case came up where a player of one side accidentally stopped the ball of the other player. No one was sure of the rule, so the player who stopped the ball was declared out of further play on that hole, and the other player was allowed to play the ball from where it was stopped. Was that the correct thing to do?

A. If a player of one side stops an opponent's ball in a four-ball match, his side loses the hole then and there.

Q. In a case where a ball hits a hole in a tree beyond its reach, what is he entitled to do if he then a stone or other object and dropped it, could he count that as a stroke and then go on to play the ball from where it stopped?

A. A ball that lands in a tree where a player cannot get at it to play it with a club must be considered as in play. It is not to be treated as a stroke unless it is struck by the player.

Q. A ball that if one player plays it from another hole, is further from the hole, the ball thus played out of play can be recalled at the other player's option, regardless of what kind of stroke is being played. B contends that there are conditions under which the stroke may not be recalled. Will you kindly advise me what the rule is in this case?

A. If it is a stroke, a single match, if a player plays out of turn his opponent has a right to recall the stroke. But in a three-ball, best-ball or four-ball match, such a stroke can be called only on the putting green.

(Send in your questions to Tom Brown, if an immediate answer is desired, in care of the newspaper self-addressed envelope.)

A TIP FOR THE BOUND.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

William Kavan Boxing Commissioner

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee.

Lincoln, Neb., March 21.—William P. Kavan, an attorney, today was appointed boxing commissioner of Omaha by Governor Bryan. This is a part time position and pays $100 a month. Mr. Kavan served overseas during the war. He is assuming his new duties on April 1, succeeding John Kilmartin.

Harry Wolverton Will Manage Seattle Club

San Jose, Cal. March 21.—Harry Wolverton will be retained as manager of the Seattle baseball club. This announcement was made here this afternoon by Wade Kilfer, former manager of the Los Angeles baseball club and one of the new owners of the club following a conference with Wolverton and communication with others who are associated with him in the purchase of the club.

Wolverton will be given a free rein in the management of the club and Kilfer will retire from managerial activities, acting as secretary and treasurer of the club.

Nick Williams present business manager is to be retained also in that capacity, Kilfer said.

University of California's Defeat of U. S. C. Last Saturday in Track and Field Games, Made Them Appear Better Than Ever. Especially when U. S. C. boasts such a star as Charley Paddock.

University of California's defeat of U. S. C. last Saturday in track and field games, made them appear better than ever. Especially when U. S. C. boasts such a star as Charley Paddock.

Red Recruit Player Arrested for Desertion

Orlando, Fla., March 21.—Danny Deaver, recruit player, with the Cincinnati National league club in training here, was arrested today charged with desertion from the United States army. Deaver admitted the charge, it was reported.

Louis Widings, treasurer of the Cincinnati National club, endeavored to secure bail for Deaver's release. Deaver was in the army in February, 1922, and served 10 months, being stationed at Fort McDowell on the Pacific coast. He was drafted into the army team and later was asked to join the Cincinnati club. He declared a scout for the club promised to obtain his release from the army.

Brooklyn will carry nine pitchers this season. It is a question whether Mammaux will be held.

Charley Schmidt, old Detroit star catcher, has signed to help Robbie coach the pitchers.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Eddie Loos says: It is important on a shot except a very short putt to bring the club back inside the line of sight prolonged on the backswing. This means that the arms swing back turns on an imaginary perpendicular axis. This means that the arms swing back maintain a proper radius, the club head inside the line of sight. Failure to make it do so will likely mean that the arms have either extended out after the club head or that the club head has swung forward, either of which means that the ball will be struck in an unbalanced manner.

Davies Explains Correct Way to Play Hit and Run Shot

By STANLEY DAVIES.

(Golf Instructor Field Club.)

The hit and run shot is the one most used for a distance ranging from one to 130 yards from the green. I say the most used, although many times one has to play a cut shot when there are traps right in front of the green.

I find that the common mistake made in this shot is starting the club head up immediately with the hands and wrists, making a stroke resembling a chop.

The correct way to play this shot, however, is to start shoulders and left arm and club on the backward journey together to the vertical. This will give a complete arc and will enable one to come in behind and up to the ball on the downward swing.

When playing the downward swing do not make the common error of trying to lift the ball with the wrist, but swing the left arm and club with the shoulders up to the ball. This will place you in the same position that you were when addressing it.

At the moment of impact the left hand has command of the club and the correct method of timing is applied, holding the left arm and shoulder a moment while the right hand guides the club head up to the ball, following through immediately.

Allow the left hand to be turned slightly at the moment of impact with the right hand. This does not mean that the left hand loses control of the club. Make sure that the left hand is turned over just enough to keep ball low. At completion of the shot the knuckles of the first and second fingers of the left hand can be seen, so judge the amount of its turning accordingly.

Canton Bowler Takes Lead in A.B.C. Singles

Milwaukee, March 21.—K. Schario

Canton, O., bowling in the singles of the American Bowling Congress tournament, today went into first place by scoring 695 pins, topping the total of Elmer Lee, Milwaukee, 693, made last Saturday by two pins. Schario's scores were 244, 208 and 242.

E. Muller and S. Summers of Milwaukee today rolled into first place in the doubles event, totalling 1,273 pins. Muller had a 417 total, and Summers contributed a 656 total.

A. Atkinson, anchor man on the Cloyburn alley five of Milwaukee, established what officials of the A. B. C. believe to be a world's record for a three-game total in A. B. C. competition, when he turned in games of 222, 258 and 243 for a total of 723, late last night.

A new hair brush has been designed with renewable bristles. It can be folded like a book and carried in a vest pocket.

Brennan May Retire.

New York.—Bill Brennan has recovered, but will not box for an indefinite period and may retire from the ring.

Bears Get Sox Recruit.

Halbank, a White Sox recruit, has joined the Denver hurling staff at Guthrie, Okl., where the Grizzlies are spring training.

Manages Sun Nine.

C. W. Montague will manage the Sun Printing company baseball team and is ready to schedule out of town games. He may be reached at 7429 Dodge or by telephoning Harney 5420.

Daughterly Signs Contract.

Coach R. H. (Bud) Daugherty has signed a contract to remain at Dakota Wesleyan university at Mitchell, S. D., for another year, according to a faculty announcement. He plans to start spring football about April 10.

Joie Ray to Race.

Chicago.—Joie Ray, Illinois Athletic club middle distance runner, will race against Ray Bucher, former national collegiate and eastern intercollegiate two-mile champion and others here Friday night in a Bankers' association track meet.

William Usher Loses.

William Usher lost an interesting game of three-cushion billiards to Williams last night in the state tournament now in progress at the Erie Holmes recreational parlors. The score was 45 to 23 in favor of Williams.

Movies Teach Athletes.

Members of the Ohio State university tennis team are using movies to help improve their game. Coach Raymond L. Grissmer has obtained "slow" action pictures of "Bill" Johnston, former national tennis champion, and Gerald L. Patterson, Australian singles title holder, and compares these with motion pictures of state men, bringing out the faults of each individual.

Harsch Beats Stephen.

Heinie Harsch scored a big victory in the Interstate pocket billiard tournament at the Paxton parlors last night when he defeated Ralph Stephen, state champion, by the score of 123 to 112.

Harsch played in good form throughout the evening and collected several spectacular shots. He also made several high runs, one of 23.

In the afternoon, Frank Riley easily defeated "Vic" Bellis by the score of 125 to 87 in a fast game.

Riley plays Harsch this afternoon, while Barber of Des Moines meets Tisher tonight.

MOBILE.

First Race—$100, claiming, 3-year-olds and up, about five furlongs. High Value, 116 (Noyes), 115 (Noyes), 114 (Noyes), 113 (Noyes), 112 (Noyes), 111 (Noyes), 110 (Noyes), 109 (Noyes), 108 (Noyes), 107 (Noyes), 106 (Noyes), 105 (Noyes), 104 (Noyes), 103 (Noyes), 102 (Noyes), 101 (Noyes), 100 (Noyes), 99 (Noyes), 98 (Noyes), 97 (Noyes), 96 (Noyes), 95 (Noyes), 94 (Noyes), 93 (Noyes), 92 (Noyes), 91 (Noyes), 90 (Noyes), 89 (Noyes), 88 (Noyes), 87 (Noyes), 86 (Noyes), 85 (Noyes), 84 (Noyes), 83 (Noyes), 82 (Noyes), 81 (Noyes), 80 (Noyes), 79 (Noyes), 78 (Noyes), 77 (Noyes), 76 (Noyes), 75 (Noyes), 74 (Noyes), 73 (Noyes), 72 (Noyes), 71 (Noyes), 70 (Noyes), 69 (Noyes), 68 (Noyes), 67 (Noyes), 66 (Noyes), 65 (Noyes), 64 (Noyes), 63 (Noyes), 62 (Noyes), 61 (Noyes), 60 (Noyes), 59 (Noyes), 58 (Noyes), 57 (Noyes), 56 (Noyes), 55 (Noyes), 54 (Noyes), 53 (Noyes), 52 (Noyes), 51 (Noyes), 50 (Noyes), 49 (Noyes), 48 (Noyes), 47 (Noyes), 46 (Noyes), 45 (Noyes), 44 (Noyes), 43 (Noyes), 42 (Noyes), 41 (Noyes), 40 (Noyes), 39 (Noyes), 38 (Noyes), 37 (Noyes), 36 (Noyes), 35 (Noyes), 34 (Noyes), 33 (Noyes), 32 (Noyes), 31 (Noyes), 30 (Noyes), 29 (Noyes), 28 (Noyes), 27 (Noyes), 26 (Noyes), 25 (Noyes), 24 (Noyes), 23 (Noyes), 22 (Noyes), 21 (Noyes), 20 (Noyes), 19 (Noyes), 18 (Noyes), 17 (Noyes), 16 (Noyes), 15 (Noyes), 14 (Noyes), 13 (Noyes), 12 (Noyes), 11 (Noyes), 10 (Noyes), 9 (Noyes), 8 (Noyes), 7 (Noyes), 6 (Noyes), 5 (Noyes), 4 (Noyes), 3 (Noyes), 2 (Noyes), 1 (Noyes).

MOBILE.

First Race—$100, claiming, 3-year-olds and up, about five furlongs. High Value, 116 (Noyes), 115 (Noyes), 114 (Noyes), 113 (Noyes), 112 (Noyes), 111 (Noyes), 110 (Noyes), 109 (Noyes), 108 (Noyes), 107 (Noyes), 106 (Noyes), 105 (Noyes), 104 (Noyes), 103 (Noyes), 102 (N