

Many Subjects Discussed by Reserve Chiefs

Bank Governors Close Semi-Annual Conference at Washington—Meetings Behind Closed Doors.

Washington, March 29.—The semi-annual conference of the governors of the 12 reserve banks was concluded here today, after more than six hours had been spent in discussing general economic and financial conditions with members of the federal reserve board who participated in the final session. Much of the more than three days taken up by the conference was occupied in a general exchange of information concerning bank operations.

Acting Governor Platt of the reserve board issued the following statement at the close of the session, covering the reserve board's part in the meeting: "During the semi-annual conference of governors, which closed today, the federal reserve board, as usual, discussed with the governors many matters of operation, including the amendments to the reserve act contained in the agricultural credits act, changes in the board's regulations made necessary by these amendments, the open market operations of the system and many matters of a routine nature.

Many Topics Covered. "The board also discussed with the governors general economic and financial conditions, the conditions of reserves, open market rates for various classes of paper, the demand for credit and the volume of credit in use and gold movements, present and prospective."

Although there was no reference to discount rates in the formal announcement, it was admitted that the phase of the reserve banks operations was covered and that the mention made in the formal statement to the conditions of reserves, open market rates and the demand for credit constituted a guarded way of saying that attention was given to possibilities of a need for increased rates should the present tendency toward inflation continue.

The governors themselves declined to discuss that phase of their deliberations after the meetings, all of which were behind closed doors. Whether anything in the nature of rate increases on discounts results from the discussion obviously will not be known for several weeks, since applications to the board for permission to increase the rates must originate with the banks.

Secrecy Maintained. The secrecy maintained regarding other matters before the conference extended to the subject of the amendments to the board's regulations being drafted under the new farm credits act. It was made known in a general way that these amendments were of a perfunctory sort and were such as were required under any new law to serve as interpretative guide lines in carrying out the law's provisions.

It appeared that the discussion of gold movements had created considerable interest among the governors, most of whom were said to believe that gold exports will begin inevitably in the not far distant future. The relationship of the gold movement to the banking operations, it was explained, obtains through the fact that part of the gold now constituting this country's reserves still is regarded as belonging elsewhere, since it is believed certain that in the natural order of commercial and economic restoration the surplus held in the United States will gradually return to the sources from which it came.

Added Subscriptions to Brownell Hall Building

An increase in Mrs. J. M. Ballridge's subscription to Brownell Hall's building fund of from $1,000 to $5,000 was announced by Campaign Chairman Barton Millard.

He also announced $1,000 increases by F. H. Davis and C. T. Kountze, making $2,500 from Mr. Davis and $2,000 from Mr. Kountze.

The total of the Brownell fund at noon Thursday was $123,129.25, Mr. Millard said. Members of the board of trustees of the school, with other prominent men, started today "on the work of raising $75,000 more," Millard said. "We must have this additional amount," he said, "or we will not realize on the present pledges, and we would lose our $25,000 investment in ground, and our scholarship endowment fund of more than $90,000. We won't stop until we get the additional $75,000."

"Larry" Finn Bids Goodbye to Brandeis Store Folks

Lawrence T. Finn, for the past 19 years house detective at the Brandeis store, left Thursday night for San Francisco, where he will become house detective for the Emporium. Thursday night practically all connected with the Brandeis store assembled on the main floor and through one of their number, who voiced the universal good will held for "Larry," presented him with a big, handsome trunk and a splendid valise. Then the whole force marched by and shook hands with their popular associate, bidding him goodbye.

Armour's STAR HAM

Packing House Secrets

No essential industry functions on as small a profit margin as does the meat packing industry. Over a long period of years the earnings have averaged less than 3% on the dollar of sales and less than 8% on the capital actually invested in the business.

For Easter—The "Ham What Am"

Easter would hardly be Easter without Star Ham. From time immemorable ham has been a special Easter dish. Serve Star Ham and Eggs for breakfast or baked ham for dinner.
