When you select your cleaner you should think of the difference in the Old Way and The French Way of Cleaning Clothes. Read the copy below; it will clearly describe these methods and will make it easy for you to decide where to send your clothes.

Dirty Gasoline

Most cleaners use the old 'vat' system of cleaning. They put your clothes into great vats, which revolve; these vats are filled with gasoline. With each new turn of the washers' the gasoline becomes dirtier and dirtier, until, when the time is up, the gasoline is as black as your hat.

Clean Gasoline

The French Way System is known as The Running Stream System. A steady spray of clean, high test, gasoline flows over the clothes all during the time they are in the 'washer'. As this clean gasoline passes over the clothes it drains away, out at the bottom, carrying with it all the dirt as it comes from the clothes.

And then, when the time is up, your clothes are thoroughly cleaned; they are sweet and fresh; they are full of their original lustre, the dirt is gone, the cleaning done just to your liking.

Send your clothes to the French Way. Prices for cleaning clothes are alike everywhere in Omaha. Don't take chances. Send your clothes where you are certain the newest and best methods are used.
