By RALPH WAGNER.
THE Knights of the Stuffed Gauntlet will trot forth tonight to do battle in the squared arena over at the City auditorium. Eight followers of the gloves have been engaged by the Spanish American War Veterans, and in all, 30 rounds of action are on the program.

In the main event we have William Francis Ryan and Morrie (Kid) Schlaifer. The former purchases his clothing in Cincinnati, while Schlaifer receives his mail in this city. These two welterweights are down on the card for a 10-round mill and should grind out plenty of action.

Schlaifer is well known in Omaha. He's fought in an Omaha ring about as many times as the next one. His ability to fight is no secret.

But just a little dope on this Ryan person. "Billy" is no novice when it comes to slugging the leather mittens.

He started sailing on the sea of fistiana in 1915 and has been cruising around with success ever since. "Billy" has fought 'em all, tall and small. His fistie record is dotted with knockouts.

He's taken the count. Jack Britton knocked out the Buckeye in the 11th round back in 1920.

The Cincinnati lad is a fighter who battles along about the same lines of Schlaifer. He's one of those sluggers who is bound to make things snappy while he is in the ring.

In his training bouts he has shown plenty of aggressiveness and a good, quick left that carries quite a jolt. His right mitt isn't paralyzed and comes into play pretty often.

Ryan has an entirely different style of fighting than Jimmy Karr, Schlaifer's last opponent. The Buckeye's style is more on the order of "Billy" Wells, the English welter.

As for Schlaifer. The "Kid" is in good condition and can be relied upon to put up his usual good fight.

All the fighters will tip the scales at 3 this afternoon at the Business Men's gymnasium.

Jimmy Shevlin, the popular manager of Ryan, chirps quite freely that his protegee will put the skids under Schlaifer. If the easterner can turn this trick he is "made" in Omaha.

It's a trick no welter has been able to perform in Omaha. Ryan and Shevlin gave The Omaha Bee newsboys a short talk on the ring game last night at The Omaha Bee. Shevlin is a former circulation boss of one of the Cincinnati papers.

In the semi-windup, Earl Puryear meets Connie Curry, the latter of Sioux City, in a 10-round bout. This fust should be an interesting one from the start.

Two preliminary bouts are on the program.

Golf Facts

Copyright, 1923.
Q. Suppose a player's ball stops in a water hazard, settling in water some three inches or so deep, and in getting ready to play the ball he permits the clubhead to touch the water, though he does not touch the ground nor move the ball, is there any penalty?
A. It has been ruled that the player loses the hole in match play and two strokes in medal play, if he allows his clubhead to touch the water in addressing the ball under such circumstances.

Q. If a player discovers a worm cast between his ball and the hole on the putting green, can he mash it down with his foot or putter?
A. No. A worm cast on a putting green is considered a loose impediment and must be removed and not pressed down. It may be either lifted with the hand or scraped aside with a club.

Q. A and B are playing a single match, incidentally using balls of the same make. They both play good long approaches to the green, and when they come up, A believing that the ball further away is his, picks it up. B, who has a hole in mind, picks the ball from the cup, he discovers that he has made a mistake and held the ball. Does this count as holes for B? If not, is A penalized?
A. No. Under these circumstances, the ball is replaced and the hole played out with each player playing his own ball. (Send in your questions to Inis Brown. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose stamped self-addressed envelope.)

A Tip for the Round.
Bernard Darwin says: Against the many temptations of the golf course, the sovereign remedy is control. It must be practiced even as putting or playing other strokes, and does not mean the mere refraining from throwing clubs and the like. It means, for example, the avoiding of slack half-hearted shots. In this respect the leading professional is a wonderful example. The professional knows that one careless shot betrays another, and he cannot afford to get careless.

Yost Concludes Speaking Tour

Chicago, April 12.—A four weeks' swing through the Pacific and mountain states in the interest of developing the mind, morals muscles and determination of American youth, was completed by Fielding H. Yost, athletic director of the University of Michigan, who arrived here today en route to Ann Harbor.

Mr. Yost talked to 15,000 high school boys and girls and college men during his trip. In some cities he made five talks a day.

To the older youth his theme was uniformity and harmonious relations in intercollegiate competition, with the idea that properly conducted athletics develops the mind, heart, (that is the moral side), muscle and determination, laying the foundation for good character and success.

To the younger auditors, Mr. Yost talked of the benefits of cooperation and loyalty, and the lessons to be learned on the athletic field in how to discover the places in business for which a student is best fitted.

The teams will line up as follows:
Kirschbraun & Sons Fairmont
Paterson Brown
Moore Swingwood
Suzler Glover
Rudolph Batten
