

Leader of Episcopal Church Dies

Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle Will Be Buried at St. Louis Friday—Had Been Ill Since February 28.

Council Now in Control

By Associated Press. St. Louis, Mo., April 17.—The funeral of the Right Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, presiding bishop of the Episcopal church in the United States, who died this afternoon, will be at 2 P. M. Friday. The body will lie in state at Christ church cathedral in the forenoon. There will be no sermon and only simple hymns.

His death followed several weeks of illness, which started with a severe attack of grip. The bishop was 86 years old.

The bishop's two sons, George M. and Arthur, the only surviving relatives, were at his bedside when the end came.

Death came at 9:03 o'clock. He had been ill since February 28, when he suffered an attack of grip.

With the aged prelate's death passed the system of awarding by seniority the office of presiding bishop of the United States, which Bishop Tuttle held by seniority since 1903. Under an arrangement voted at the Episcopal general convention of 1919, however, direction of the church's affairs has been placed in the hands of a council with an elected bishop as head.

Bishop T. F. Gallor of Memphis heads this council at present.

Trotting of the bells at Christ church cathedral, the seat of the Missouri diocese of the church, Bishop Tuttle's diocese, was begun as soon as news of his death was received.

During his illness, the venerable churchman was at times unconscious for long periods, while at other times he sat up, took nourishment and read from his prayer book.

Said Simple Prayer. "Now I lay me down to sleep," was the prayer he would mumble. It was his favorite consolation prayer. He has never given up the habit of repeating this prayer, he would say.

Conductor Bishop Frederick Freest Johnson becomes, by automatic process, the bishop of Missouri, succeeding Bishop Tuttle. He is 56, and before coming here he was bishop of the South Dakota diocese. He is related to the family of the late Mrs. Tuttle.

Last August, the bishop presided at the opening of the general convention in Portland, Ore., and received congratulations from all parts of the world.

Uncertainty of Life. Bishop Tuttle's last public appearance was at a funeral February 27. He preached the noonday service in the cathedral February 16, commenting on the death of Bishop Williams of Detroit. Bishop Tuttle spoke of the uncertainty of life and alluded to his own advanced years.

Dr. George M. Tuttle and Arthur Tuttle, a mining engineer in Mexico, are his surviving sons. Mrs. Tuttle died in 1899.

The communists dissolved, according to Ruthenberg's fellow officers at the national headquarters, after voting at a secret convention here April 7 that they believed "the support which the Workers' Party of America has already won among the working masses will enable it openly and publicly to carry on the struggle for communism in the United States."

Sister of Youth Slain by Chido on Stand at Inquest

Johanna Bonacci Testifies She Feared Her Brother Frank Who Was in Habit of Carrying Weapon.

Johanna Bonacci, 17, sister of Frank Bonacci, who was shot and killed Saturday night by his uncle, V. P. Chido, testified last night at the inquest which was held in criminal court No. 1 in the courthouse before a crowd of eager spectators.

"My mother had threatened to shoot me," she said after County Attorney Henry Beal, who is personally conducting the inquest, had directed her to tell what she knew of the affair.

"I shot and when I shot, I shot to kill," he is alleged to have said.

The trouble, it is said, arose from the fact that the Bonacci family wished Johanna to marry soon, and both she and Chido, were against the plan.

During the cross-questioning by attorneys the girl recited her version of the events leading up to and following the fatal shooting. She made little gestures with her hands, black and gloved, her sentences were long and seemed to indicate the strain she was under.

Other witnesses testified that the dead man was in the habit of carrying a gun.

Premier Bonar Law Will Retire in Fall

London, April 17.—Premier Bonar Law, in the opinion of high officials of the government, will surely retire in the autumn owing to poor health.

The prime minister's supporters scout the idea that he will be forced out. Opponents in his own party as well as in the two liberal wings are afraid of the "big stick," in the shape of a threat that if he is defeated he will advise the king to send for Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the laborites, to form a cabinet.

This threat, which has held many opponents in line, is counted on to insure his retention in office until he is ready to retire voluntarily.

Alien Law Studied by Government

Labor Problems Consideration at Secretary's Meeting—Makes Report.

Oppose Opening Gates

Washington, April 17.—Declaration of E. H. Cary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, that the restrictive immigration law had made imminent a serious labor shortage, served today to draw the attention of government officials to the immigration question and the labor situation.

Both immigration and labor conditions were touched upon by the cabinet at its meeting, and secretary Davis presenting a report which it was said later at the White House convinced President Harding that Judge Gary was quite correct in his statement that a labor shortage was threatened.

The portion of Judge Gary's statement, as made at the annual meeting yesterday in Hoboken, N. J., of the United States Steel Corporation's stockholders, criticizing the restrictive immigration law and blaming it for the threatened labor scarcity, however, brought replies from several quarters.

Replies to Gary. Chairman Johnson of the house immigration committee in a formal statement declared there should be no relaxation in the restriction of the act and ascribed criticism of the statute by large corporations to a desire for cheaper labor. Senator Hefflin, democrat, Alabama, also issued a statement in reply to Mr. Gary, declaring that congress, instead of liberalizing the present immigration laws, should at its next session strengthen them.

Secretary Davis' report was written prior to Judge Gary's address, but declared "throwing open the gates at a time of prosperity in order to flood the country with workers and non-workers would serve to bring prosperity to an end."

Mr. Davis added that unemployment now has been reduced to a minimum and that wages were rising, supplementing his report with a verbal statement to the president that a shortage of workers already existed in some of the skilled trades, particularly the puddlers in the steel mills.

Under these conditions, with labor everywhere in demand, the labor secretary's report said, "it is inevitable that there should be agitation among some for the lifting of immigration restrictions."

Two Features Urged. The report presented two features of legislation which Mr. Davis hopes to have enacted by the next congress to supplement the present law fixing immigration quotas for the various countries.

"I propose that we establish strict but just tests of physical and mental health and that we make those tests placed on the numerical restriction now under immigration," said Mr. Davis.

"I would have those tests made absolute in order that the applicant for admission may not be led to spend the savings of a lifetime on a long sea voyage to find out whether he can enter the United States. I feel that nothing would strengthen our whole immigration policy so much as this move, and one result would be to end the heart-rending scenes which every day confront our agents at Ellis Island and other ports of entry."

In furtherance of this proposal for selective immigration, Mr. Davis informed the president that inquiry was now being made by his department in the possibility of moving the whole examining machinery of the immigration bureau to foreign countries under present laws.

The other proposal outlined in the report concerned enrollment of the admitted aliens which Mr. Davis has previously advocated as a means of helping the immigrant to acquire the qualifications to be an American.

A Word From President Harding Relative to The Better Homes Show

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON.

"It gives me especial pleasure to record my endorsement and approval of 'Better Homes Show.' It may be trite, but it is everlastingly true that the home is the cornerstone of our civilization. Better homes, more attractive homes, homes whose occupants will find true refreshment and real inspiration to increased effort for education and culture—such homes are the ones which assure greatest security to our society. I cannot but feel that the effort you are making is one which deserves a wider projection, and would be glad if your example might presently be an inspiration to a nation-wide enterprise of the same kind. Yours very truly, WARREN G. HARDING."

The Better Homes Show Will Be Held in Omaha the Week of April 30th to May 5th.

Mountain of Water 70 Feet High Hits Ship at Sea, Captain Says

Tacoma, Wash., April 17.—A mountain of water that rose from the sea was described by Capt. George G. Mitchell of the Nawasco liner Brush. Captain Mitchell said that on the morning of March 20, while the Brush was 50 miles off the coast of Mexico, sailors saw a long, unbroken black line on the sea. This line approached the Brush rapidly until it was seen that it was a wall of water fully 70 feet in height. The ship was made ready for the onslaught, and Captain Mitchell said when the water hit the vessel it seemed as though a great hand grasped the ship and elevated it into the air.

There was not a breath of wind at the time. For six hours the loss of the Brush shows the vessel walloped in swells equal to those off Cape Horn. The ship was driven miles off its course. Captain Mitchell has sent the facts to the government officials for an explanation of the phenomenon and to discover if an earthquake might have been responsible.

Air Records Are Shattered by Army Aviators

French Sustained Flying Time Is Exceeded by Americans—Speed Marks Are Lowered.

Dayton, O., April 17.—A new official record for sustained flying was set by Lieut. J. A. MacReady and Oakley Kelly in the army monoplane T-2 at 8:02 tonight. At that time, they had completed the 71st lap of the 31.8-mile course, and had been in the air 24 hours, 24 minutes, 54.4 seconds, eclipsing the French record of 34 hours and 19 minutes by five minutes and 54 seconds.

Lieut. Harold Harris, flying a De Havilland B-4, established a new record for 1,500 kilometers, making the distance in 8 hours and 9 minutes, or at the rate of about 114 miles an hour.

Records Are Broken. The previous record made today by Lieutenants MacReady and Kelly was at the rate of 73 miles an hour. The French record was 62 miles an hour. Lieutenants MacReady and Kelly also established records for 2,500 kilometers of 21 hours, 37 minutes, 30.10 seconds, and for 3,000 kilometers of 26 hours, 1 minute, 32.10 seconds.

Harris maintained an average speed of 114 miles per hour throughout his flight. His time for 1,500 kilometers was 8 hours and 9 minutes, and for 2,000 kilometers was 10 hours and 33 minutes.

This flight began at 6:28 this morning and was conducted over the triangular course, over which Lieutenants MacReady and Kelly are flying to set a new endurance record.

Harris landed at 5:21 p. m. and appeared in excellent condition. He expressed great satisfaction over his success. Harris also holds the world's speed record for 1,000-kilometer course, set here in an aerial derby March 31.

Harris flew a rebuilt De Havilland 4B in his flight.

First word from MacReady and Kelly was received this afternoon, when a note dropped from the monoplane T-2 was found at Wilbur Wright field.

"Wilbur Wright Field: We will probably land about 9 or 10 o'clock. Have searchlights placed to give us the longest approach and landing area so that we can land into the wind from our left side to the lightest part. Provide some means that will enable us to tell the direction of the wind—smoke might do."

Immediate preparations for the landing were begun, as soon as this note was received.

Youth Captured After Gun Battle

Two Pals of Escaped Industrial School Inmate Elude Fremont Officers.

Special Dispatch to the Omaha Bee. Fremont, Neb., April 17.—A volley of bullets in a thrilling chase resulted in the capture of Jack Galbreath, 17, Lincoln, escaped inmate of the industrial school and alleged auto thief, and the recovery of a stolen car in Fremont this morning.

Galbreath's pal, Lewis Stevens, Omaha, and Orville Vincent, 19, Lincoln, eluded the officers after they abandoned a car stolen in Fremont near Rawlhide creek, east of the city. Police were in hot pursuit when the car was left behind and the fugitives split up. Galbreath alone was overtaken.

Galbreath admitted that the three boys escaped from the school a few days ago and have been making their way eastward via stolen automobiles. They stole three different cars in Kearney, Grand Island and another city before procuring a Maxwell in Fremont, it is claimed. Neighbors saw the boys taking the Fremont car near the H. M. Kilder residence and notified police. In the chase that followed Galbreath was forced to leave the car. Stevens was later taken in custody by the police. Galbreath led the officers to a spot east of the city where they had hidden a Ford car stolen at Grand Island before obtaining another car in Fremont.
