Coat Hangers.

"A coat hanger changed my life," said the well-groomed girl who dated her immaculate toilet from the time when she received for Christmas a fixture which held six coat hangers and which slid out on rollers from a closet shelf, bringing all her gowns into full view. It was first strong incentive to neatness.

No matter how many hangers there are on any fixture, the hangers themselves have strong individuality. Wire hangers, while convenient for hanging trousers and skirts on the straight bottom, soon take the shape from a coat or dress, and leave quite pronounced marks on silk. If the wire is looped on the arms the case against the metal hanger is not so great. If wound with cotton batting, the metal style is very good, and inexpensive as well as non-slipping.

The plain wood hanger is more practical as far as conserving the shape of the garment is concerned, but unless it has a bar across the bottom for holding skirts or trousers its field of usefulness is limited. It is simple and quick work, however, to pad the wooden hanger so that its efficiency is raised.

One may now buy a form fitting coat hanger for the man's coat or ladies' suit. It is made of enameled wood, in broad width where the shoulders rest, and the back of the shoulders rests on a sloping shape resembling the back shoulders of the human being.

A coat hanger with very long arms is better for hanging up silk and satin dresses than one with short arms, because if the sleeves are held up at the waist and skirt will not fall at the sides and become wrinkled.

For hanging trousers on coat hangers there is a style equipped with wooden snaps which slide across the straight bottom of the hanger. This is more secure, and does not take away the shape of the trousers as does the straight bar alone.

There are many advantages to the folding hangers, and the metal ones wound with tape and shaped with long loops for arms prove satisfactory for traveling.

If a wide rubber band is wrapped around the ends of any of the coat hangers that are unpadding, there is small danger of dresses and coats slipping off onto the floor.

Now a QUICK Quaker Oats

Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

Quick as Eggs

A dish that's almost ready

There's a Quick Quaker Oats at your store now. Just like the Quaker you have always known—perfect in quality, exquisite in flavor.

But also the quickest cooking oats in the world. No other brand cooks anywhere near so quickly.

The secret is this:

In Quick Quaker, the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and are partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

They are ready in 3 to 5 minutes—as soon as eggs.

In Quaker Oats—both styles—we flake the finest grains only. Just the rich, plump, flaky oats. A bushel of choice oats yields but ten pounds of these extra-flavor flakes.

But think what they mean. That flavor has won the world to Quaker. From all the world over, lovers of oats send for this premier brand.

Millions of mothers serve them every morning, so children will love oats.

Now you have Quick Quaker, if you wish—a five-minute dish. Get that or the regular, but insist on this Quaker flavor for the children's sake.
