Art Lecture Today

Dudley Crafts Watson will speak before the Society of Fine Arts on Sunday, April 22, at 4 p. m. His subject will be "Art and American Re-Creation." Mr. Watson's reputation as a lecturer on art is well established. Besides being director of the Milwaukee Art institute and developing its work as a vital factor in the life of that city, he has assisted in the organization of a number of art association in the various small cities of the west. Another of his important functions in the art life of the western country is his service every year as the director of art at the Minnesota state fair. Last year dur-ing the week from September 2 to September 9, 100,000 attended his lec-

Last Sunday, April 15, a record attendance visited the exhibition of foreign paintings in the galleries of the Omaha Society of Fine Arts. The greater portion of these were school children and teachers who had been especially invited to attend. Mrs. N. P. Dodge was hostess for the afternoon and will serve for the remaining Sundays in April. For Sunday afternoon, April 29, a musical program has been arranged. The West Sisters quartet, Hazel Smith Eldrege and Harry Disbrow will present the program. The public is invited as usual,

The exhibition of foreign paintings from the Carnegie International in 1922 is attracting a large number of people. It has been pronounced by many to be the best exhibition held in Omaha in years.
