Timely Hitting Wins Close Game for N. Y. Team

Clouts by Witt and Dugan, Combined With Pair of Costly Errors, Beats Boston, 4 to 2.

Boston, April 27.—Timely hitting by Witt and Dugan, combined with two costly errors that helped to give New York two runs in the second inning brought a 4 to 2 defeat to Boston today. Jack Quinn, pitching his first game since a small bone was broken in his right hand at Madisonville, Ky., three weeks ago, relieved Fullerton in the second inning and pitched well.

Darkness Ends Game.

Washington, April 27.—Washington and Philadelphia battled to a 10-10 tie here today, darkness ending a heavy hitting, loosely played game after 12 innings. Ricoda's walk and steal, followed by Miller's single, gave the Mackmen a run in the 12th. The locals countered after two were out in the same inning. Galloway fumbled Judge's grounder and he scored when Welch and McGowan collided in racing for Goslin's drive, which went for a double. Score:

Cleveland Beats White Sox.

Chicago, April 27.—Chicago's defense went to pieces when Cvengros weakened and Cleveland overcame the locals' lead tied the count and then won out in the seventh by bunching hits off Leverette. It was the sixth consecutive game the Indians won from the White Sox. Kamm's hitting and fielding was a feature. He cracked out two hits, a single and a double, and drove in four of Chicago's runs. In the field he worked perfectly, starting a double killing which nipped the Indians' first rally in the second inning.

REEL REMARKS

By the M. P. Editor

Research workers on Paris of the 15th century making their investigations for "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" picture, discover that Paris at that time had practically no blonds among its population. If they mean real blonds, who's going to say he can count them nowadays?

The city of Rameses II is to be constructed by Cecil de Mille on a desert location for his newest picture, "The Nth Commandment." More than 3,000 persons will take part in the picture. Most of the scenes will be modern.

Anyway, there's one town that appreciated "Bella Donna." New York city announces that it broke a theater house record there.

Col. Charles Hernandez, veteran of the Cubans wars of 1874 and of 1898 rounded up many of his fellow soldiers of those days for parts in Richard Barthelmess' "The Bright Shawl."

Jane Novak's next one is to be entitled "Divorce." Then should come "Alimony."

She Loses Job; "Judge" Arrested

Woman Turns Detective After Becoming Suspicious of Circular Letter Employer."

When Mrs. Helen Ohlandorf, a typist, inserted a want ad for extra work, she had no idea it would separate her from her job and lead her into the career of a detective.

Not even when "Judge Wallace," whose real name is said to be L. J. Simmons, and whose address is given as 1007 South Forty-eighth street, answered the ad, had she any inkling of the consequences. This is her story: "Judge Wallace" told her he had a quantity of circular letters to get out.

One Husband Enough.

Then he offered her $125 a month, and a bonus of $500. She accepted, and resigned her other position. He told her he was connected with a local grain company. He told her she could go to work for him Monday, but that she should give her employer a week's notice.

He invited Mrs. Ohlandorf to accompany him to various places of amusement. She refused.

He called on her at the El Beudor apartments, and on his second visit asked her how she would like to be Mrs. Wallace. She told him she had had one husband and that was enough.

Vagrancy Charge.

He told her he was planning to build a house. And when she spoke to him of her plan for buying a Ford coupe, he assured her it would be foolish.

"You can use my Cadillac anytime you want," he offered.

Mrs. Ohlandorf became suspicious. Thursday night when "Judge Wallace" called, she had him arrested. He appeared in police court Friday on a charge of vagrancy. Now Mrs. Ohlandorf wants her old job back.

Washington, April 27.—Entrance into the affairs of Europe as a means of furnishing additional markets for farm products, is advised in a report on agricultural conditions, made public by the Department of Agriculture. The recommendation is contained in the report of the committee called by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace "to consider the agricultural outlook and to prepare a statement which will provide a basis upon which readjustment to meet the economic situation may be made by agricultural producers, reported on foreign and domestic demand and certain leading products.

"It is of the most vital interest to American agriculture," the report says, "that the United States lend aid in every way possible to the settlement of the reparation and other European problems."

The report dwells on the failing foreign demand for farm products, an argument which is being made the basis for abandonment of the previous policy of American isolation from European affairs which administration forces will urge in the Mississippi valley.

Experts on Committee.

The report was made by a committee of wellknown financiers, economic experts and farm spokesmen. Included among them are George E. Roberts, National City bank, New York; Carl Snyder, Federal Reserve bank, New York city; Wesley C. Mitchell, national bureau of economic research, New York city; B. M. Anderson, jr., Chase National bank, New York city; E. N. Wentworth, research department, Armour & Co., Chicago; B. W. Snow, Bartlett-Frazier company, Chicago; C. Reed, George H. McFadden & Brothers, Philadelphia; Warren M. Persons, Harvard university, Cambridge; George F. Warren and F. A. Pearson, Cornell university; Thomas S. Adams, Yale university; H. A. Wallace, secretary Corn Belt Meat Producers' association., Des Moines, Ia.; H. W. Moorehouse, American Farm Bureau federation, Chicago; H. C. Moulton, Institute of Economics, Washington; Walter W. Stewart, Federal Reserve board, Washington; Frank M. Surface and E. G. Montgomery, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington; William T. Foster, Pollack Roundation for Economic Research, Newton, Mass.

The report dwells upon the falling demand for farm products in Europe, admitting the outlook on the European demand side seems slightly less favorable to our farmers in 1923 than it was in 1922.

The unfavorable factors are listed as follows:

Unfavorable Factors.

First, the progressive piling up of government debts on the continent of Europe, with its effect upon exchange, currency and business, and, second, the Ruhr situation.

"The only possibility for an important increase," the report says, "in purchasing power lies in the ability of Europe to expand her manufactured exports."

Describing the favorable factors with respect to foreign demand, the report cites the following:

"First, the influence of American prosperity upon the demand for European goods, and second, the possibility that the slight business recovery that has occurrend in a number of European countries may gradually gain momentum. Despite the tariff Europeon exports to the United States in recent months have been considerably larger than for the same period a year ago. American prosperity increased purchases by the United States in South America, Asia, Africa and Australia, which enables those countries to purchase somewhat more in Europe, thus giving Europe funds with which to buy United States foodstuffs and other commodities."

Competition Continues.

On the subject of competition, the report says, "We cannot therefore, confidently offer any reason for the expectation that our farmers will meet any less severe competition in European markets during the coming year than they have met during the past year."

The present prosperity wave is viewed with suspicion by the committee.

"The domestic demand for agricultural products," the report continues, "will be active so long as the present prosperous condition of business with full employment continues. Beyond a period or six to nine months in the future most authorities at present hesitate to make business forecasts, but most competent observers seem to agree that we may expect general prosperity to last at least six to nine months longer. If this opinion is correct demand will be distinctly more active next autumn in so far as the demand for farm products depends upon the purchases of American families not themselves on the farm."

The significant statement is added that there has been an enormous movement from the farm to the cities during the two years ending December 31, 1922, totalling 1,120,000 persons.

Nurses Have $11,000.

Total subscriptions reported at noon yesterday by workers in the campaign for $25,000 for the Visiting Nurse association was $10,000. One thousand memberships also were reported. House-to-house canvass is being made and the booths at downtown hotels and office buildings will remain open until this evening.
