

Gompers Issues Plea for Support of World Court

Labor Federation Head Says International Tribunal Is Step Toward Peace Be- tween Nations.

Washington, May 3.—Unqualified endorsement was given President Harding's world court stand by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who asked for "nonpartisan unity" in support of the proposal.

"With the proposal for the United States to enter the international court of justice, I am in full accord," Mr. Gompers said. "That is an initial step that will inevitably lead to participation in all efforts to maintain peace between nations.

"Through the adjudication of issues between peoples and governments there will be developed standards of international morality that will disclose principles upon which we can base wider organization of the field of international relations. With the present world organization of commerce and industry there must come not only world organization of economic agencies, but also of political.

"The cornerstone in the political structure may well be the international court of justice. Action on the proposal is of paramount importance if we save our civilization. It transcends the issues of party politics and should have support irrespective of party affiliation.

"Those of us who believe in the whole league of nations program will find in it an indication that the United States does not repudiate its international responsibility. Those of us who believe in the administration's pledge to assume that responsibility through some association of nations will find opportunity to manifest good faith.

"Nonpartisan unity in support of this proposal may again bring a message of hope to nations in dire need. Let us neglect no opportunity for progress."
