

Two Mothers Will Fight for Child

Mrs. Iva Gonaway Seeks to Recover Daughter From Foster Mother.

When is a mother not a mother; and if not, who is? Some district judge will have to decide whether Mrs. Iva Gonaway or Miss Mary Kerrigan has the most claim to be mother of Doris Clooney, 11.

Doris is now living with her foster mother, Miss Kerrigan, at 6010 Florence boulevard.

Mrs. Gonaway, 139 South Twelfth street, yesterday filed suit in district court to obtain possession of the child, whom Miss Kerrigan adopted in Judge Crawford's court in 1921.

After Mrs. Gonaway was divorced from her first husband, Thomas C. Clooney, in 1914, and until her second marriage, the child was cared for by a sister. The sister moved and the child was adopted by Miss Kerrigan.

Mrs. Gonaway charges that Miss Kerrigan commercialized the youth of Doris and was going to place her in the movies.

Miss Kerrigan denies the charges and says she will make a determined fight to keep the girl.

Rabbis Against Sale of "Sacramental" Wine

An attempt is being made by Jewish rabbis of Omaha, both of the reform and orthodox churches, in co-operation with rabbis of other cities to have congress abolish the amendment of the Volstead act which permits the sale of wine for sacramental purposes, according to Rabbi Frederick Cohn.

"The reform rabbis of the country have already gone on record as opposed to the amendment which permits the commercializing of sacramental wine," said Rabbi Cohn. "Enough wine is sold each year to last many years, if used for sacramental purposes only."

Rabbi Alexander Segel of Temple Beth Israel, Fresno, Cal., is circulating a petition among rabbis which calls on congress to take action and abolish the sacramental wine amendment, according to word received here.

"Under the law as it now is, the use of wine is no longer sacramental, it is sacrilegious," Rabbi Segel is reported to have said by press dispatches.

Man and Wife Discharged.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dills, 1116 1/2 South Thirteenth street, arrested on complaint of Henry Grayson of Clearview, Okla., who said that he had been robbed in their house, were discharged in municipal court yesterday. Grayson told police, he owns 280 acres of oil land in Oklahoma, and that he was robbed of part of $400, a first payment on the sale of his land.

A. F. of L. Flays Seattle Council

Suit of Attention to Reds in Threatens Suspension as Russia and India.

Seattle, Wash., May 10.—An ultimatum from the American Federation of Labor to the Central Labor council of Seattle, threatening it with suspension from the federation, reported in news dispatches from Washington last night, followed an investigation made here by C. O. Young, it was learned here today. Young, an organizer for the federation, reported direct to Samuel Gompers, president, it was said.

It was stated that Mr. Gompers warned the Seattle council three weeks ago that it was devoting too much attention to affairs in Russia and India and too little to the labor movement in the United States. One complaint made against the council was that it had endorsed Hulet M. Wells and Anna Louise Strong, leading radicals in this section, as its observers at the third international in Moscow.

"Sheik of Douglas Street" Sued by Wife for Divorce

William R. McLean, "the sheik of Douglas street," who scrubbed floors in the city jail for 30 days last February after his bride of two weeks found letters from another woman in his pocket, and exposed his theft of an electric hair curler which was given to the other woman, was sued for divorce yesterday.

His wife, Mrs. Marie McLean, whose parents live on a farm near Florence, asks for the restoration of her maiden name of Welchert. Before her husband got into difficulties she was employed by the telephone company.

Radio Operators Must Appear for Examination

Radio station WOAW in the Woodmen of the World building received a communication Thursday from the office of the supervisor of radio, Department of Commerce, stating that Laurence E. Luton, United States supervisor of radio and assistant radio inspector, will arrive in Omaha Saturday.

Examinations will be held at 9 Saturday morning in the civil service room at the postoffice for radio operators, amateur first class, and commercial first and second class. All radio operators holding amateur second grade licenses, within a radius of 50 miles of Omaha, must appear for examination on this date to get first grade licenses.

No second grade licenses will be issued for three months after the examination.

Commercial, experimental, special, technical and training school radio stations also will be inspected by Mr. Luton, who states that amateur stations which have been interfering with reception of broadcasting programs will be inspected to ascertain why the interference exists, and if due to any violation of the United States radio communication laws, the penalty may be enforced.

Fremont "Houdini" Severs Chains; Near Riot Quelled

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee, Fremont, Neb., May 10.—Chains as an additional precaution on the cell of Arvin Lundberg, Dodge county "Houdini," were found severed by jail attaches today, following another near riot among the prisoners.

Tuesday, an outbreak in the jail compartments was quelled after Kurt Lambrecht, 24, held for chicken stealing, was severely beaten when attacked by other prisoners. It was learned that he had been accused by his companions of "squealing" in regard to the chains that had been sawed on Lundberg's cell.

Jail attendants were summoned to the compartment today by another disturbance. They found tables and chairs overturned and broken, dishes smashed, garbage pails upset and a general state of disorder. The cell inmates at first refused to eat, until they were allowed the freedom of the corridors. They threw away the food and emptied the plates on the floor. Threats of short rations ended the strike when time for the noon meal came around.

Police Aid Wanderer.

Too proud to appear before his children in Chicago until he has found a job, Tim Nolan, 68, applied at police station Wednesday for lodging. He was brought to Omaha by a motorist who found him walking from Plattsmouth.

He said he had not eaten since Tuesday morning.

Policemen took up a collection for him and he was also given a meal.

A Policy Founded On Low Profits

Shoe retailers figure $3.00 to $4.00 profit on a pair of $10.00 shoes. This is customary the country over and Omaha dealers are no exception. We have noticed that the big successful retail stores are those whose "profit" policy is figured low and have decided to build our business on this same policy.

We are selling the finest shoes on the market. Many of our lines are handled in other Omaha stores. Our low "profit" policy gives you the regular $10.00 values for $6.00. We ask that you "shop" around town, compare shoe values with those we offer.

Just bear in mind that we "figure" volume business with low profits. This policy gives you lower priced footwear. It gives you smarter and newer styles. Our volume keeps the new creations coming each week. Come let us show you these greater values. Don't pay your dealer "big" profits when you can enjoy better shoes for far less money.

Perfect Through and Through

If you could see the "inner construction" of a Bond tailored garment before it is completed, you would immediately be impressed by the wonderful workmanship.

You would see the genuine "Hymo" front with hundreds and hundreds of minute stitches. You would see a firm linen tape securely stitched around the edge of the garment—the edge never wrinkles—never puckers. You would see the construction of the typical Bond concave shoulder—made flexible to conform perfectly to the human shoulder.

Then examine the finished garment—see the hand-felled hand-shaped collar—made to hug the neck. See the hand-made button holes. See the hand-set sleeve—how well it hangs.

All these special features of construction is Bond's latest and greatest contribution to the clothing industry. It represents the last word in protection to "style lines." The tailoring makes them "stay put."
