Paintings of Southwest at Fine Arts Gallery

Of the exhibit of paintings by William Penhallow Henderson, to be shown in the Omaha Society of Fine Arts gallery from May 17 to June 2, The Chicago Daily News of April 12, 1923, said:

"The exhibition of paintings by William Penhallow Henderson at the Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. galleries is something of a departure for this gallery, which has always clung to the rather conservative type of painting. But the note of refined Whistlerian color which appears in some of the work of Henderson always links him up with the old. There are several pictures here that represent that more exquisite side of his art, one with his favorite budding peach tree, another a summer landscape, but most of the exhibition is made up of his New Mexico pictures, which depict the picturesque relics of the Indian and Mexican civilizations. Many of his themes are similar to those painted by Ufer, Higgins and Blumen, which have hung so often on these same walls, but his treatment is not like that of any other Indian painter. Perhaps his colors are more expressive of the soil than those more refined Parisian ones used by the other painters and he has succeeded in getting that indigenous quality in his art which Faust made such a plea."

Boxer Gets a Second Lesson.

Never judge by size alone. Least you your judgment shall alone. — Jimmy Skunk

Of all conceited young Bears none was ever more conceited than was Boxer before he met Prickly Porky on the Lone Little Path. Until then he had expected everybody to step aside for him. But Prickly Porky hadn't stepped aside, and when

"I guess that silly young boaster will have more respect for the rights of others now," muttered Prickly Porky.

Boxer in a rage had undertaken to make him step aside something had happened. It had happened so suddenly that Boxer didn't know just how it had happened. He had reached out a paw toward Prickly Porky, and now that paw had several of Prickly Porky's sharp little spears sticking in it. Boxer limped off to one side, and there he sat down and examined that paw. All the time he whimpered and whined, for that paw certainly did smart and ache. There were six of Prickly Porky's little spears, right in the tenderest part. Of course, when Boxer touched them they hurt more than ever. But Boxer knew that he must get them out. Common sense told him that. He knew that he couldn't put that paw to the ground with those things sticking in it. So he got hold of one with his teeth and pulled. It hurt, it hurt dreadfully. Boxer whined, but he got the little spear out. It took him some time to get up his courage to pull the second one out, and it was a long time before he really pulled out the last one.

While he had been doing this Prickly Porky had pulled his head out from under the old log, and calmly gone his way down the Lone Little Path. "I guess that silly young boaster will have more respect for the rights of others now," muttered Prickly Porky. Then he chuckled to himself as he thought of Boxer's surprise when he had swung that tail of his around and struck that paw. "I don't believe he knows now how it was done," chuckled Prickly Porky. All this time Wolf Wolf, Boxer's twin sister, had been laughing at Boxer. You know she had been wise enough to go around Prickly Porky. "It serves you just right," said she. "Yes, sir, it serves you just right. You've been altogether too conceited and boastful. I guess this

So it happened that on the third day Boxer was by himself when he met Jimmy Skunk. Now, no one could look more innocent and harmless than did Jimmy Skunk. Jimmy came ambling along, attending strictly to his own business. Instead of running at sight of Boxer, he acted just as if he didn't see Boxer. He pulled over an old piece of bark to look for fat beetles. He caught one almost under Boxer's nose.

Now, Jimmy Skunk carried no little spears. No one could look more harmless than he. Compared with Boxer, he was a little fellow, a very little fellow. Boxer, still angry and smarting from his meeting with Prickly Porky, wanted to see some terribly aid for all women with small feet run from him. So with an ugly grew he struck at Jimmy Skunk. He didn't hit Jimmy. No sir, he didn't hit Jimmy. But suddenly Boxer felt very sick, indeed. There was something in his eyes that almost blinded him, and the air was filled with an odor that almost choked him and made him feel very sick. Boxer had had his second lesson.

The next story: "Boxer and Wolf Wolf Separate."

Thermometer Drops to 43; Fair and Warmer, Forecast

Forty-three degrees above zero was the lowest temperature recorded in Omaha Tuesday night.

Lower temperatures were reported elsewhere in the state. Culbertson's thermometer dropped to 27; North Loup, Valentine and Broken Bow reported a temperature of 28.

Prediction was fair and warmer for last night, with probable showers Thursday.

The German republic is the first nation to pass a law providing maternity aid for all women with small feet.

Farm Loan Act to Be Discussed

D. P. Hogan, President of Omaha Bank, to Address C. of C. Members.

D. P. Hogan, president of the Federal Land bank of Omaha and a member of the Federal Farm Loan board at Washington, will discuss the federal farm loan act at the dining room of the Chamber of Commerce, under the auspices of the financial group of the junior division of the Chamber next Wednesday night.

Mr. Hogan will discuss the farm loan legislation from all angles. The purposes for which it was enacted, the practical working out of the provisions of the act with regard to both types of banks and the future possibilities of those institutions.

Mrs. Halsey W. Wilson will conduct a special course on styles in the new school for women politicians.

Benefits of Waterway

Outlined by V. B. Smith

Meeting of the Sales Managers' association of Omaha was held Tuesday night in Hotel Fontenelle. Nearly 60 members attended.

Victor B. Smith spoke on the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterway project and pointed out the benefits it would give Omaha and the middle-west. The east, he stated, is against the proposition, but must be educated to the necessity of the undertaking.

George Carey gave a short talk on the work of the foreign trade committee of the Chamber of Commerce and its efforts to encourage foreign trade, using the merchant marine as a distributing agent to other ports.

4,000,000 PEOPLE

Annually use organic Nuxated Iron to build up red blood, strength and endurance.

There are thousands of people who are aging and breaking down a time of life when they should be enjoying that perfect health which carries dedance to disease simply because they are not awake to the condition of their blood. Without organic iron your blood carries no oxygen, and without oxygen there is nothing to unite with the carbon in your food so what you eat does you no good. It is like putting coal into a stove without fire. You can now obtain organic iron like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, legals, and apples from any drugstore under the name of Nuxated Iron. Nuxated Iron also contains the principal chemical constituent of active, living nerve force; it is, therefore, a true blood and nerve food. It helps create and rebuild new and stronger red blood cells. It feeds the body the substances which nerve must have to give it that vital, electric, magnetic power which is stored in the nerve and brain cells of man. Nuxated Iron often increases the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, run-down men and women in two weeks time. The manufacturers guarantee successful results to every purchaser or they will refund your money.

EN-AR-CO Motor Oil

Guarantees Less Repair Bills Because It Gives Real Lubrication

LOOK FOR THIS SIGN

EN-AR-CO Gear Compound

For Transmissions and Differentials

En-ar-co Motor Oil Is Real Lubrication

Here's Why—All refiners make lubricants just as cooks make biscuits, yet there is as much difference in oils as there is between the delicious light, flaky biscuits mother makes and heavy, soggy apologies for biscuits some restaurants serve. In each case the raw materials are practically the same, but the "making" is different.

In making En-ar-co Oils we average over a million tests a year. It is only by this multiplying of tests that perfect products can be made. This thoroughness in our Scientific Refining process is the protection offered to users of our products.

Your motor will run better and last longer if the Lubricating Oil is taken out every 500 miles and fresh oil put in. We do it for you with
