By THORNTON W. BURGESS

A child that's spoiled—alas, his soul into a nuisance soon will grow.
—Old Mother Nature.

A Spoiled Darling.

Everybody in the Green Forest knew that Littlest Bear, the smallest of Mother Bear's triplets, was a spoiled darling. That is, everybody knew it but Mother Bear and Littlest Bear herself. Mother Bear would have been very indignant, very indignant indeed, had any one told her that she was spoiling Littlest Bear. As for Littlest Bear, she didn't think anything about it at all. She had her own way in everything, and that was all she cared about. Having her own way made her selfish. She grew more selfish every day. Also, she grew

When Mother Bear first led them out into the Great World she told the triplets that they must do just as she did. At first all three did. When Mother Bear stopped the three little Bears stopped. When Mother Bear sat up the three little Bears sat up. When Mother Bear tested the air with her nose the three little Bears tested the air with their noses. Whatever Mother Bear did the three little Bears did in exactly the same way.

But little Bear grew tired of doing just as Mother Bear did. She didn't see any sense in it. It got so that she was always the last to stop when Mother Bear stopped, the last to sit up when Mother Bear sat up, the last to test the air when Mother Bear tested the air. After a while it got so that she didn't do these things at all if she didn't feel like it. If Brother and Sister failed to do as they were told they were almost sure to have their ears boxed, but Littlest Bear got off with no more than a scolding.

If Brother or Sister lagged behind they were likely to get a spanking. But if Littlest Bear lagged behind Mother Bear would wait for her to catch up, or even go back to look for her, and never was she punished.

It didn't take her long to find this out, and the result was that she worried Mother Bear more than the other two little Bears together. It always is that way with spoiled children. If Littlest Bear got into trouble Mother Bear promptly got her out of it, and rarely warned her to be more careful next time. But if Brother or Sister got into trouble they were sure to be punished.

Brother and Sister soon learned that when Mother Bear sent them up a tree and told them to stay there until her return she meant just what she said. They were disobedient just once and the spanking they received was a lesson they never forgot. Littlest Bear had disobeyed with them, but Littlest Bear hadn't been spanked. She got off with nothing worse than a scolding. It was because she was the littlest. So it wasn't long before she tried it again. Mother Bear returned and found her playing on the ground, instead of up in the tree.

"I was so tired holding on up there that I just had to come down," whined Littlest Bear.

"Well, perhaps I did leave you up there too long," said Mother Bear. "If you were as big as your brother or sister it would be different. But you mustn't disobey again. Something dreadful might happen to you." "Yes'm," replied Littlest Bear meekly. But the very next time

Mother Bear sent them up a tree Littlest Bear was down just as soon as Mother Bear was out of sight. What was worse, she teased Brother and Sister because they didn't dare come down. Littlest Bear was a spoiled darling. There was no doubt about it, she was a spoiled darling. (Copyright, 1923.)

Fifty Persons Injured When Pavilion Collapses

Scranton, Pa., May 31.—Nearly 50 persons were injured, three seriously, last night when the supports of a pavilion at Lake Winola gave way and more than 100 dancers slid or fell to the ground, 15 feet below.

Sioux City Flood Peril Over.

Sioux City, Ia., May 31.—The flood peril on the streams which pass through Sioux City passed early this morning and the swollen streams were rapidly going back to normal today. The weather is clear and all danger is considered over. Last night the police warned all persons on the lowlands to be prepared to leave their homes. The damage done by the high water is not believed to be heavy.

For Bride or Graduate

The BRAMBACH BABY GRAND

No gift could be more appropriate for the bride or graduate than a Brambach Baby Grand. For the graduate it will be an incentive to a musical education—to the bride it will be an ideal addition for the new home, and will be a great source of pleasure.

The Brambach Baby Grand is especially adapted for the home or apartment where the space is limited. It occupies no more space than an upright piano—and costs no more than a good upright.
