

Michigan Man Says Has Evidence Mount Suicide
By Associated Press.
Ludington, Mich., June 2.—Roscoe Conkling Fitch of Ludington was preparing to go to Chicago today, ready, he said, to substantiate the story he told here yesterday to representatives of the state's attorney's office from Illinois to the effect that Leigh

Mount, supposed to have been slain during a class rush at Northwestern university in 1921, in reality had committed suicide.
Fitch's statement, made here in the presence of the attorneys and his father, Virgil A. Fitch, prosecuting attorney of Mason county, Michigan, is said to have been based on a letter written by Mount to Doris Fuchs, a girl friend, and on reports said to have been stolen from the Burns Detective agency.
