Miss Gordon Announces Bridal Attendants.

Miss Ruth Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Gordon, who is to wed Dwight Chase of Portland, Ore., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chase of that city, formerly of Omaha, has chosen her sisters as wedding attendants. The ceremony will be performed the evening of June 12 at the bride's home, and will be followed by a reception. Miss Helen Gordon is to be maid of honor, and Miss Dorothy, bridesmaid. Rex Elwood will serve as best man. Dr. E. E. Hosman will perform the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Victor West of the Walnut Hill Methodist church.

Miss Gordon is one of Omaha's best known musicians, and has been a soloist in the First Congregational church. She and Mr. Chase on their arrival in Portland will be members of a quartet in the First Methodist church there.

Lyman Cross Wed.

The wedding of Miss Fred Overstreet, daughter of Mrs. Overstreet of Trumbull, Neb., to Lyman Cross of Omaha, took place at Lincoln, Saturday at the Kappa Delta sorority house. After a wedding trip to Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Cross will make their home in Omaha.

Masses of pink peonies and lavender iris banked the improvised altar, and lavender and pink ribbons led from the altar to the stairs down which the bride and her maid of honor descended.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Lucille Cline sang, "At Dawning," by Cadman, and "Because," by D'Hardelot. To the strain of the wedding music from Lohengrin the bride and her attendant, Miss Phebe Whigman, appeared on the stairs. Miss Whigman wore a pink tulle frock, with hat and slippers to match, and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. The bride's gown was of lavender brocade satin. With this she wore a large lavender hat, and carried a colonial bouquet. The bride and her maid were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Wilkinson. Rev. H. H. Harmon read the marriage rites.

Clara Waived Extradition to Fight for Freedom In U. S.

"Tiger Woman" Tells of Opportunities to Escape After Arrest in Honduras—Confident She Will Be Vindicated of Murder Charge if Given Chance to Tell Story in Court.

In the final chapter of the narrative of Clara Phillips' own life story the "Tiger Woman" tells of the departure from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, her final decision to come back to the United States and fight for a new trial and the last minute refusal to accept her liberty in Honduras. Clara's last words express confidence in ultimate vindication.

By CLARA PHILLIPS. By Universal Service.

We used to play ball on the inner court of the police station. We also used to pick the flowers for our room which the men in prison had planted. Time went very fast in Tegucigalpa, despite our imprisonment.

You can imagine our interest in all persons coming to the station. We watched everyone. One day in the early part of May, sister spied someone she thought was from Los Angeles. She called me to the window. Sure enough, it was Morris Levine, of Los Angeles. I had known him well during the trial, but decided that this was no time to see anyone from Los Angeles. I determined to play a game of hide and seek for awhile.

Had Secured Pictures. You can imagine my surprise when I later learned that he had not only seen me, but had secured some very good pictures of me from a roof across the street. I had naturally desired to avoid identification. We knew after his arrival that it was a mere matter of time before the Los Angeles officers would come. Offers of Honduran romances, became more frequent than ever.

Ten days later Mr. Biscailuz and his party arrived. They were waiting for the extradition papers. We were showered with conditional offers of freedom. We were expecting to return on April 30, when the sentiment of Tegucigalpa in our behalf grew very strong. Realizing the situation, Mr. Biscailuz and the American minister were kept quite busy. They decided to move us out of Tegucigalpa.

On the night of May 22 about 11 Etta Mae and I were awakened by Chief of Police Retes and Deputy Sheriff Walter Hunter. They entered our room, snapped on the light to our great surprise, and told us to be dressed and ready to leave at 3. That was but another surprise we experienced while there. We did not sleep any more that night and were ready at 3.

Trip Like Roller Coaster. The trip the next day was like traveling on a roller coaster. We were being driven so fast. We crossed high mountains and drove through pine forests. We were much afraid of the fast driving and we clung tight to each other. All the while my little sister would say to me: "Don't be afraid, dear. God will protect us." She has been the sunshine of my soul since she joined me in Mexico City. The first night of the trip we stopped at Jaral in a little old building. Beside three Tegucigalpa guards.

openly. Mr. Biscailuz and other members of the party heard it. That night, as I was going to my room, I noticed that all five guards assigned for duty by the commandant were asleep. The next day a Spaniard came by my room, and when he got an opportunity he let me know he would help me get away, even if shooting was necessary. I turned him down, of course. I was faced by a great problem.

Decided to Go Back. Should I accept my freedom in Honduras, or should I go back to the states and fight for my good name? And if I did go back and lost the battle, just how long a sentence would I have to serve? I debated these questions within myself all night long.

At last I decided that I preferred to go back. Although my freedom was at that time being obtained in the Honduras courts on a writ of habeas corpus, I waived extradition in the belief that the California officers would give me a chance to be heard and to reveal things to them that have never been truthfully told. I decided to face the issue squarely. The next day we boarded the steamship Copan. Many problems kept me awake on the Copan. It was my fight for the future that concerned me—plans to readvertise for bids. Cochran told the board the figures submitted were too high.

No Sleep That Night. None of us slept that night. It got so cold that we were glad to be up and on our way quite early. Over bumpy roads and through forests we went. All the time I kept thinking and debating—freedom in Honduras or a fight for vindication in the states. That day we rode in little Ford trains, that is, Fords with railway car wheels that run over regular tracks! When we got to Puerto Cortez we were taken to the Cuyamel hotel.

At first I was slated to go to the prison of Castillo de Omoo, but through the efforts of the American officers I was permitted to stay at the hotel. Here the commandant of the district visited me with a message from a high official, instructing him to do anything he could for me. The message was delivered quite

BUSINESS IN PAST WEEK LARGEST SINCE WAR TIME

Every Department of Dressers Swamped With Extra Cleaning Orders.

"In the past week our business was the largest in our history since war time," Mr. Albert Dresher of Dresher Brothers said in an interview today. "Every department was swamped with work. The hat department, the rug department and the lace curtain department in particular have been over-rushed."

"I never realized that there were so many old straw hats in Omaha," Mr. Dresher said. "But we were prepared to meet the emergency, because we have been training skilled workmen in every department."

Dresher Brothers spend $1,500 for scientific cleaning methods. They spare no expense in turning out correct work and are prepared to handle any emergency. They are not only dyers and cleaners, but hatters, furriers, rug experts, tailors and maintain a cold storage plant for furs, rugs and clothing.

Their branches are located at Burgess-Nash, Brandeis, Dresher, the Tailor and on the South Side at 4625 South Twenty-fourth street. Telephones Atlantic 0345 and MA rket 0050.
