

Brothers Given Year's Top Price for 108 Steers

Young Raisers of Greeley Ship in Six Carloads Averaging 1,394 Pounds—Conditions Favorable.

Roger and Joseph Mulcahy, young stockraisers of Greeley, Neb., brought to the stockyards yesterday six carloads consisting of 108 head of steers averaging 1,394 pounds, for which they received not only the top price for the day, but the high price paid for steers so far this year.

The consignment was handled through Melady Brothers and purchased by Wilson & Co. for an eastern order. The cattle were highly finished.

"There are plenty of cattle around Greeley," said Roger Mulcahy, "but the fact that corn is scarce and high has had a tendency of forcing cattle to market. Crop conditions are showing up favorable considering the late spring and general conditions in Greeley territory are more prosperous and satisfactory than they have been for several years.

Gain Here in Weight.

"My brother and I are pleased with the prices we received. The cattle showed a gain in Omaha over their weight at home."

The brothers said they expected to ship in another consignment of cattle in the near future, which will about finish them for the season.

The top price of the year was received at the stockyards yesterday for a load of cattle by Herman Splittgerber of Pierce, who brought in a load of 20 head of finely finished long-geared Herefords, which netted him $10.75 a hundred. They averaged 1,359 pounds.

Mr. Splittgerber said cattle were getting scarce in his section, but that there was a large supply of mature hogs ready for the market. He said general crop conditions were satisfactory.

Average 900 Pounds.

E. T. Reimers came to the stockyards yesterday from Brule with two loads of yearling steers and heifer calves that averaged 900 pounds and sold for $9.85 a hundred.

"Calves are good money-makers," said Mr. Reimers, "although they are not bringing the prices paid for fat cattle. I bought these calves on the local market last fall when they cost me $5 a hundred, and they made a gain of 2.7 pounds per day.

Ernest Rosche of Creston brought in two loads of steers yesterday averaging 1,328 pounds, and they were of such good quality that he received $10.70 a hundred for the shipment. He said cattle were fairly well shipped out of his neighborhood and that, although corn was late, it promised to turn out a big crop.

Mother Bear's Patience Is Tried. By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Patience may be taxed too much; Retribution waits for such Bear.

For several days after her experience with the bees Littlest Bear was a model little Bear. A better little Bear couldn't have been asked for. But after she began to feel really herself again, having fully recovered from the effect of those stings, she began to get back into her old habits and doing about as she pleased. She was forever dropping behind, so that Mother Bear often had to stop and wait for her. But, because she was the spoiled darling of the family, Mother Bear never punished her.

One day Mother Bear took them over to the Laughing Brook fishing. Now fishing is, as everybody knows, largely a matter of patience. Mother Bear had discovered that a certain kind of fish were working their way up the Laughing Brook, and that in certain places where the water was very shallow one who was quick enough might scoop some of them out onto the bank.

When she reached one of these places Mother Bear told the triplets to keep still and watch. Presently a fish started out of the deeper water and struggled up through the swiftly moving shallow water. Mother Bear pointed it out to the cubs.

"Now you go back there on the bank a little way and watch me. I'll show you how to catch fish. But you must keep perfectly still," she said.

So the three little Bears went back on the bank and sat down to watch. Mother Bear chose a place at the very edge of the water where she could watch and see a fish when it first left the deeper water to begin its struggle up through the shallow water. There she waited, motionless and watchful.

The three little Bears watched eagerly. The minutes slipped away. Nothing happened. No fish appeared. The cubs began to grow tired of doing nothing. They grew impatient. Littlest Bear became the most impatient of the three. She began to wiggle. She no longer watched Mother Bear. Presently she got up and began to walk about. Brother and Sister remained right where they were as Mother Bear had told them to. Littlest Bear wandered off a short distance.

Presently she wandered a little nearer to the Laughing Brook below

"There's one! There's one!" cried Littlest Bear excitedly.

where Mother Bear was keeping her motionless watch. Littlest Bear's quick ears caught the sound of a tiny splash. She took two or three steps nearer the water and waited. There was another little splash. She caught sight of a fish just starting up through that shallow water.

"There's one! There's one!" cried Littlest Bear excitedly. And, rushing to the edge of the water, she began to dance about in great excitement.

That fish turned and darted back into the deep water. Mother Bear turned her head and growled a sharp warning to Littlest Bear. Littlest Bear hung her head and went back to join Brother and Sister. Then came another long wait. Littlest Bear grew restless again. Presently the same thing happened again; Littlest Bear frightened the fish that would have gone up within reach of Mother Bear. This time Mother Bear's growl had an ugly sound. Her patience was being sorely tried.

Armour Head Waxes Wrathy

Says U. S. Lending Thoughtful Ear to Those Who Decried Big Business.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, June 6.—Instead of endeavoring to aid the packers in solving problems of distribution and improving their ability to serve the public, the government is lending a thoughtful ear to those who decry big business, Edson White, president of Armour & Co., declared in an address prepared for delivery today at the weekly meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

"It would seem that the relationship between the business and the nation's prosperity is so apparent that only the feeble-minded would fight business," he said.

"Business is the target for a great many men who are quite the reverse of being feeble-minded. Men who are strong-minded to the point of being asthmatic. There is no monopoly and no danger of monopoly in the meat business. There are no patent rights or trade secrets which prevent any man who wants to engage in the handling of meat, and if it ever came to pass that fat profits were being made at the expense of the producing and consuming public, those very profits would attract such competition and so divide the business that the evils complained of would be eliminated."
