Mother Explains How She Obtained College Degree

Barnard Graduate Believes Housewives Should Be Successful.

By KATHERINE BOUTON CLAY. International News Service. Newark, N. J., June 8.—When I first set out, two years ago, to complete my college course, after an interval of 10 years spent in bringing up my family, the idea of appearing in the limelight at the completion of my plans never occurred to me.

At that time—and now—I felt that every mother should have an outside interest—that she can be more, not only to herself, but to her family, if she can occupy her mind in something outside the daily routine.

Announcements Dwindle. The mother with a proper outside interest looks at things in a larger way; the little troubles and annoyances which are bound to occur dwindle to their true relative unimportance.

Mothers are but a part of the whole, and we live fully only as we live in touch with the rest of the world.

Since my graduation from Barnard college, where I was awarded an A. B. degree, I have been asked how and why I had done it—a woman in her thirties and the mother of three children.

Answer Is Easy. How I did it is easy to answer. Each day I made use of every minute of my time, either in home work—the care of my children—my household duties—or in study. Much of "study time" was on subway trains.

The why requires little more thought. I think every woman cherishes the hope of carrying out some plan begun in life and still unfinished—existing perhaps only in the land of our unrealized but treasured dreams. So, when my three children became of an age allowing me to have part of my time, I decided to complete the plan of my girlhood—a college degree.

MRS. COFFMAN ILL SEVEN YEARS

Saved from an Operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sidell, Ill.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side, which was almost unbearable, and I could not even let the bed clothing rest on my body at night. I had been sick for seven years, but not so bad until the last eighteen months, and had become so run-down that I cared for nobody, and would rather have died than live. I couldn't do my work without help, and the doctors told me that an operation was all there was left. I would not consent to that, so my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my household and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house, and when my two little girls reach womanhood I intend to teach them to take it. I am never too busy to teach some suffering sister of my help, and you can use my name and letter to spread the good news of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines.—Mrs. Ida M. COFFMAN, R. B. 2, Sidell, Ill.
