When The Brandeis Store representatives traveled to Europe during the spring, they did your shopping for you, in the markets of France and other places in Europe. things they bought for us are just beginning to arrive, and I've gone into every de partment that is showing these new imports, just to experience the thrill one always feels when seeing and handling things exotic and out of the line of every-day life.

PIQUANT PIERROT-

The perfume doll brings to you the mystery of Paris-at-night-the hypnotic charm that haunts yet eludes. Truly, Pierrot and his daintily pretty Pierrette are souls materialized out of the bewitching perfume that hides in the ingenious bottle their ruffles cover. I desired them so greatly that I carried them off to grace the corners of my vanity dresser. And the perfumes are so expressive, so intriguing and so intoxicating! I touched the tips of my ears with a drop of it-just to make Bud wonder!

No matter how busy we are, we choose most of our clothing in the anticipation of fun. For morning golf or evening motoring, the luxuriously soft scarf of camel's hair or the dainty broad one of knitted silk will be as comfy as you can imagine and twice as good looking. And then the Deauville Scarfs which have taken possession of the Paisley vogue, show us what the French can do in producing exquisite harmony in colors. For your colorful costumes there are handkerchiefs of high plain shades or Oriental prints—a few in black, which, having been slighted as a mourning shade, has intruded among those approved at sport-

"TEA FOR THREE"

-or tea for a dozen-it will be a festive occasion if you use one of the linen sets shown on the Main Floor-West. European needlework means more than deftness of touch which places each stitch with a precision that assures its perfect blending into a satin-like whole. It means artistic sense in designing which pre-conceives a thing of beauty; artistry of execution which develops that beauty in every detail. Through the mediums of satin stitch, seed stitch and Azure work-that ingenious open embroidery having the appearance of filet lace-an effect of contrasts is achieved such as one would never believe possible, when one takes into consideration that white thread only is used upon pure white linen. Sets of twenty-five or thirteen pieces are shown in round or plaque shapes.

TWINKLE TOES

The grace and piquant charm of the ballet pleases you in a tiny French doll. One with a beautiful coiffure and impudent tilt of her head. She kicks up her pretty heel and rests amid the billowy flounces of her dainty ballet skirt. She is in the Art Department-Third Floor-West. There, also, may be found silk candle shades, lined in rose and decorated with gold braid and ribbon flowers. A boudoir memorandum book. with gold edged pad has a binding of tooled leather in polychrome finish. Boudoir lamps, powder and rouge boxes, dainty feminine novelties worthy of one's companionship in intimate retirement are shown in this department.

AND THEN HOME

Without a bit of weariness, with no baggage lost and no trunks smashed and no nosey customs officers to bother with and no flat pocketbook. You see, each little piece I purchased was bought for meand for you-under the most efficient system. There was no waste of moncy in procuring these goods and bringing them here to Omaha. Therefore, no big price to pay for them after they get here.

CURTAIN RAISER

This, of course, is not the finish of the show. It is not even the first act. rather the overture of promise, for these goods will be arriving almost daily for several months to come. I am keeping close watch on new arrivals and will be glad to tell you about them as soon they are here.

Now that our purchases, made on our great European shopping tou are beginning to arrive, Mary Louise will make regular trips through the store, describing the imported novelties she finds.
