

Group 3 Election Was Railroaded, Governor Claims

Bankers Accused of Voting by Proxy in Naming Candidates for Guarantee Fund Commission.

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Lincoln, June 14.—Charging that certain leaders in Group 3 of the Nebraska State Bankers association voted proxies wholesale "in line with tactics of the old time political conventions" in selecting three members for the guarantee fund commission, Governor Bryan today asserted that he would never again sanction such a device. The governor refused to divulge the names of those he charged were guilty of "railroading the election."

The meeting of Group 3 was held at Norfolk several weeks ago. The banker, originally named by Governor Bryan to serve on the commission, was not re-elected despite strenuous efforts of the administration to put him on the list from which the governor is to choose one to serve on the commission.

"Since the meeting I have learned of the tactics pursued at the election and I'll never again countenance such procedure," the governor said. "Those interested in electing certain men obtained proxies from all absent bankers and voted them in one solid bloc for their choice."

The three bankers selected, one of whom will be named to serve on the commission, are Rollie Leigh of Wayne; Jabe Gibson of Norfolk and Woods Conroy of Pierce. The defeated Bryan candidate was C. C. McLeod of Stanton.

Four other group meetings have been held and the last is to be held at Gering today. At all of these meetings, except the one at Norfolk, the election went to satisfy the governor and his candidates were selected.

"There was nothing to object to at the other meetings," he said. "Ten days after the Gering meeting the governor must, under the law, select one of the three men chosen at each group meeting to serve on the state guarantee fund commission. Those serving at this time were named by the governor immediately after the bill was passed by the legislature pending elections by group meetings."

The governor announced appointment of the following inspectors to positions of state bank examiners to fill vacancies which have occurred or will soon be forced: J. J. Tooley, Broken Bow; M. R. Sullivan, O'Neill;

Department Commander of Spanish War Vets Gives Flag Day Statement

Bruce J. Newton, department commander of the United Spanish War Veterans, Wednesday night issued the following statement for Flag day:

"Today is Flag day. The Spanish-American war veterans with all other good Americans, stand for the observance of this day by the manner prescribed. It will do the hearts of every member of the United Spanish war veterans and ladies' auxiliary who are in encampment in Omaha today good to see the flags flying from every mast. Societies, organizations and individual residents should set forth the colors today and pay them homage."

"We of our organization are in addition to our encampment, celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Spanish-American war, and tonight at the Brandeis theater with the Elks we will hold Flag day exercises."

"The sight of the flag should always be a welcome sight, but today let us all remember again to repeat those words of Old Glory, that mean so much. I pledge allegiance to my flag, and to the republic for which it stands; one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

"Bruce J. Newton, department commander, United Spanish war veterans."

W. A. Whisenand, adjutant, asks that Omahans unfurl the flag from flag poles, business blocks and private residences today in observance of the occasion.

Bryan's Proclamation. Lincoln, June 14.—Declaring that the American flag represents equality before the law, a type of civilization "the superior of which is nowhere to be found," Governor Bryan in a proclamation issued here recommended to the people of the state that the flag be displayed from all public buildings and homes in the state on Flag day Thursday. The text of the proclamation follows:

"June 14 is now generally recognized as Flag day. It is usually celebrated by display of the American flag. I think it particularly significant to display the American colors because of what they stand for. The flag represents the proposition expressed in the motto: 'E Pluribus Unum.' It is our national emblem and represents the nation composed of 48 great states, compact, cemented together and intended to be indivisible; a nation with one constitution, to the support of which every officer from the least to the greatest is sworn to support and defend."

A. J. Barac, Petersburg; F. A. Boedeker, Nehawka.

seven of the Bankers association in session at Gering today nominated H. C. Peterson of Chappell, James T. Whitcomb of Mitchell and W. S. Rodman of Kimball for the guarantee fund commission. Mark Spanogle of Bridgeport was elected president, J. T. Shields of Oshkosh; vice president, T. L. Green of Scottsbluff, treasurer, and Maurice Christianson of Sidney, secretary. The meeting next year will be held at Bridgeport.

The convention condemned the Dearborn Independent for a recent article derogatory to the sugar beet industry, and expressed confidence in the future.

Lincoln Highway Alive

With Hikers on Way West

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Columbus, Neb., June 14.—Movie-struck girls, waitresses hunting new jobs, hoboes, single men and floating laborers are passing almost daily through Columbus as hikers. All along the Lincoln highway from Manhattan to the Golden Gate there is scarcely an automobile tourist who is not asked from 10 to 20 times a day to give a lift to some man or woman.

Two parties of automobile tourists traveling west from the eastern seaboard said that in the course of four weeks journey from the east to the west, spending 24 days on the road in travel, they gave lifts to 192 hikers, passing up many more.

"The 192 we picked up," said one of the men, "were by no means all that we passed. It would be safe to estimate that we picked up only one-third of the hikers. Most of the girls range from 18 to 29, and the men from 18 to 60."

Hebron to Have Pageant

Hebron, Neb., June 14.—Thirty-five school districts in the county have signified their intentions of entering floats in the historical pageant that will be given the last day of the Thayer county fair at Deshler, August 31.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS. Be not too sure of anything. Lost rules awakenings. Little Bear. Little Bear has a shock. Old Man Coyote sat at the foot of a tree and glared up at Little Bear. Old Man Coyote sat at the foot of a tree and glared up at Little Bear. "Woof, woof," just as she had seen Mother Bear do. As for Old Man Coyote, he was both angry and disappointed. At the same time he was uneasy. He felt that Little Bear was too small a Bear to have wandered very far from her mother. He was tempted to hide nearby and wait for Little Bear to come down, but he knew that if Mother Bear should come along he would be much better off somewhere else. So after snarling some dreadful threats at Little Bear, he turned and walked away with as much dignity as he could. Little Bear watched him. As long as he was in sight she thought of nothing else. She was too excited to be lonesome. But after he had disappeared, Little Bear remembered her troubles, and after this narrow escape they seemed greater than ever. It wasn't long before she was whimpering again.

But Little Bear didn't come down from that tree. She didn't intend to come down. That is, she didn't intend to come down for a long time. She meant to stay up there so long that that dreadful fellow who had chased her up there should be hidden somewhere near he would grow tired and give up. She felt safe in that tree, and she knew she wouldn't feel safe on the ground. Having nothing to do but sit there in that tree, she had plenty of time to think how lonesome and miserable she was. The more she thought about it, the more lonesome and miserable she became and the more she whimpered and cried.

"Now it happened that shortly after Old Man Coyote disappeared, another soft-footed prowler happened along that way and heard the whimpering of Little Bear. A look of eager, hungry interest came into a pair of savage, yellow eyes. Little Bear, happening to look down, saw them glaring up at her. She stopped crying. She didn't like the looks of those eyes, but she wasn't exactly afraid. Wasn't she safely up in a tree? Little Bear pushed out her upper lip just as she had done at Old Man Coyote. She didn't like the looks of Yowler, but still she wasn't much afraid, for Yowler was on the ground and she was up in a tree. And then Little Bear received a dreadful shock. Yowler the Bob Cat had started to climb that tree, and was coming up quite as easily as Little Bear herself had climbed it. (Copyright, 1922.)

Remarkable Tonic Brings New Strength to Thousands of Weak and Ailing

Discovery of Lyko, the Great General Tonic, Gives Aid of Science to Run-Down People

As you watch the crowd going along the street, how easy it is to see the difference in the people who make it up. Some are well, strong, vigorous, full of the vim and energy that win in social and business life. Others are weak, emaciated, lacking in all that counts for power and success—mere nobodies in active affairs.

And yet most of these run-down people could give you a hand and be strong if they would only help Nature to restore their bodies to a normal condition. What they need is an efficient general tonic and regulator. If they will do what thousands of other people once weak and lacking in energy—now strong and well—have done, they will use Lyko to get on their feet again.

It is simply amazing to read of the wonderful help Lyko has given to people who had become worn out in mind and body, many of them discouraged, hopeless of regaining their health and strength. Mr. Johnson, a resident of Kansas City, was amazed at the way Lyko built up his run-down constitution. He says, "When I began taking Lyko I was thin and gaunt, weighed only 130 pounds and felt a great lack of pep. Now I weigh 147 pounds, am full of energy and never feel tired."

Lyko is a scientific preparation containing pure medicinal ingredients each of which has a beneficial action on some part of the system. It has a mild but effective laxative action which gets rid of constipation.
