Bather Is Drowned in Carter Lake

Lawrence Dunn, South Side, Is Pulled Under When Weeds Entwine His Body.

Friends Try to Save Him

Death by drowning claimed one person among the thousands of Omahans who sought relief from the intense heat which maintained a steady pace of 98 degrees for nearly three hours yesterday afternoon.

Lawrence Dunn, Thirteenth and Edwards streets, South Omaha, lost his life at 5:30 yesterday afternoon when he became entangled in weeds while swimming across Carter lake. He sank the third time while John Ericson and John O'Connor, 5414 South Thirteenth street, companions, were endeavoring to reach him.

Friends Attempt Rescue

O'Connor was in a rowboat following Dunn and Ericson when the former became entangled in the weeds, which, with octopus-like tenacity, clung to his body in the shallow water near the north shore. He was pulled under and became strangled.

Body Found in Hour

The body was recovered with grappling hooks an hour later by George Hartman and F. A. Pardon, Carter Lake club members.

Washington, June 24.—Backed by every agency at the command of the Harding administration, the United States government will seek to force the consolidation of all American railroads into a few great transcontinental systems by enactment of compulsory legislation in the next congress.

U. S. Ownership Alternative

The government will write a threat of federal ownership into the proposed legislation as an alternative to voluntary consolidation in accord with the administration unification plan.

Three Successive Steps

The method of compulsory consolidation has three successive steps, Cummins revealed, and he declared it a "policy that would never be questioned by any court of law."

Must Have Transportation

"If we should fall in our consolidation plan entirely, we will have permanent government ownership of at least 100,000 miles of railroads. These will be the weaker roads and while this is unthinkable, the nation must have adequate transportation, even if the government must enter the railroad game, buy and operate a number of carriers."
