

Lincoln, July 2.—Nebraska's corn crop in general is a little late, but otherwise very satisfactory, according to the monthly report of A. E. Anderson, agricultural statistician of the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

Most of the corn crop has been cultivated once and some of it twice, the report said, adding that a considerable portion of the crop was planted after June 1 and some after June 15, and most of the fields are in fine shape at this time.

"The stand of corn is really better than expected under the adverse planting conditions," the report said. "The average is large, especially in the southwestern Nebraska, and with the reserve supply of subsoil moisture this section should raise a large crop this year."

Many Visit Storm Area

Wymore, Neb., July 2.—Hundreds of auto-tourists of people visited the storm-stricken area east of Wymore and extending southeast to the Kansas line. The damage to crops was complete and it is said that the $100,000 loss first reported will not cover it all.
