

Eyes of Nation Turned to West on Fourth of July

British Ship Sets Historical Precedent by Firing Salute to Harding — Many Sport Events.

Chicago, July 4.—Far from Lexington and Concord, in distance as in time, were the principal events of interest for 110,000,000 Americans in the observance of Independence day. For the nation's eyes were turned to the west, where, on the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence from British rule, a British warship fired a pre-

In the west, too, in the midst of the Montana cow country, the pugilistic championship fight between several thousand persons gathered to watch Champion Jack Dempsey of Utah defend his title against Tommy Gibbons, the St. Paul heavyweight challenger.

Fireworks Engage Interest.

Balloon racing, automobile racing, horse racing, parading, speech-making, yachting and other sporting events familiar to Fourth celebrations, as well as the customary, though somewhat restricted, traditional use of fireworks, engaged the interest of some sections of the population.

Eleven children in St. Louis suffered burns, and two persons were wounded by revolver shots in Chicago, in reports to the police of those cities, in spite of efforts to make the national holiday safe for democracy and human life and limbs.

Safety organizations and public officials in most cities were endeavoring to enforce laws against explosives and fireworks in an effort to carry out "safe and sane" ideas of the celebration of the day.

Events of Day.

Among the principal events for the day were the elimination halloo races at Indianapolis, preliminary to the James Gordon Bennett international race to be held later in the year; the 250-mile national automobile championship race on the Kansas City wooden track; the Lew Tender-Sailor Freedman, lightweight boxing contest at Michigan City, Ind.; a parade of veterans of three wars and peace monument exercises at Atlanta, Ga., and the Lake Michigan Yachting association races at Milwaukee, Wis.

While the nation generally was making a holiday, some thoughtful Americans were reminded of sacrifices paid their country in far away foreign capitals, of celebrations by patriots in American colonies and communities scattered around the globe. Peru, in South America, made July 4 a national holiday, and in Paris a monument to American volunteers in French armies in the world war, provided by the contributions of the French populace, was unveiled today.

In that new home-- Where Will You Attach Your Lamps?

One of the most important things to plan, in building a home, is proper electric wiring and the placing of fixtures and convenient outlets.

Colin Campbell, famous small home designer, says: "Attention to little things is especially necessary. There should be plenty of electric fixtures of the best sort. A few dollars extra for added plugs so that fixtures can be placed where they are wanted will be money well spent."

G.O.P. State Head Advocates Changes in Direct Primary

Declares if Party Accountable for Nominees It Should Have Opportunity to Reject Unfit Candidates.

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Aurora, Neb., July 4.—In his speech in the courthouse yard of Aurora today, Judge E. B. Perry of Lincoln, chairman of the republican state central committee, announced his belief in changes in the direct primary which would permit parties to nominate their candidates and which would allow them to refuse the party name to those individuals who are not entitled to its use.

Judge Perry took a pronounced stand in favor of the primary, but such a primary as would permit parties as political organizations to continue to live.

Won't Abolish Primary.

He declared that if the party must be held responsible for the party nominees, then the parties should be given a chance to prevent a candidate who is unfit from becoming its nominee.

"No party should be compelled to accept as its candidate a man who is known to be corrupt and unfit for the office for which he is a candidate," declared Judge Perry. "We are not going to abolish the direct primary as a means for selecting our candidates, but we are going to make the direct primary workable. We are going to adapt it to our conditions so that we can compel our best men to accept public office."

Retain Freedom.

It is Judge Perry's idea that party conventions should be allowed to name candidates to appear on the primary ballot as the convention favors. This will not prevent individuals from becoming candidates in the primary, it will not prevent organizations within the parties from having their candidates, he said.

In his address Judge Perry declared that the causes of the revolutionary war and the war of secession in '61, and of the world war in 1914 to 1919, were similar, if not identical.
