Butler Aims to

to Merchants and Policemen in Plan.

Police Commissioner Butler announced Tuesday that he will take up with Omaha business men in the near future a proposition to light Omaha's alleys by popular subscrip-

He says installation of one or two arc lights in every block of alley would be not only a protection to the merchants whose shops abut on the alley, but a protection to citizens and to policemen as well. "As things are now," he explained,

"a gunman can hide behind a banana crate or anything else that happens to be handy, and take a pot shot at a policeman passing the alley, and nobody would know about trick, possibly in front of Nebraska Clothing Co., gold ring with 2 diamonds and one sapphire. Finder please call HA. 0224 business men, he will not work business men, he will not work through the Chamber of Commerce. He plans to appoint some reputable business man to form a committee Omaha merchants. Mr. Butler estimates the cost of the plan at about $12 a year for each merchant. He has not yet named the man who will head the committee, but said he will do so shortly.
