

Underwood Sees Conflict's Havoc on Battlefields

Finds Glories of Rainbow Division Still Shine—Europeans Fail to Understand U. S.

By Universal Service.

Senator Owen W. Underwood of Alabama, just returned from a four months' tour of Europe and the Holy Land, has written a story of his pilgrimage for Universal Service in three gripping chapters, the last of which follows:

By OSCAR W. UNDERWOOD.

Washington, July 11.—At Nancy we paid a visit to M. Coue and watched him at work with his patients, folk who come to him from all over the country side. He made an extravagant claim to them. He told them "the cure is in you, not in me." He charges nothing. At the gate of his place is a little wooden box; those who wish to give and are able, drop something in.

We found the glory of the Rainbow division still bright in the battlefield skies of Fleury and Chappes, and the land white with the crosses of their valor. We lingered along the old Roman road where, in 709 the Franks defeated Attila, the Hun, and where in 1918 Gouraud, who is now honoring America by a visit, stopped the enemy on the red 15th of July and crushed him back to Paris.

Twenty-five hundred Americans—and let it be not forgotten that a regiment of American negroes fought with them—gave their lives here for France and humanity. After that battle Ludendorff knew Germany could not win the war.

For 40 miles, where the Americans followed the driven foe, no habitation stands today. We saw heaped up quantities of wire entanglements, still lying there. We saw a few wrecked and rusting tanks there. We saw what was left of a great field gun. We saw a little grass trying to grow and soften jagged trenches. But in all that 40 miles, in the fourth year of peace, we saw no human habitation.

Everywhere we went in Europe the people had one sentiment for the American soldier: "Cheers for the living, tears for the dead."

But, they cannot understand America today.

For the first time, since Benjamin Franklin went to the court of Versailles, the United States of America has no foreign policy. Never, since we declined to be a colony and became a nation among the nations, has it been more necessary for us to have a foreign policy.

Danger of Coal Miners' Strike Is Reported Nil

Washington, July 12.—There is no anthracite coal strike in the air.

This assurance was given yesterday by a government authority on coal, who is keeping in close touch with the progress of the joint wage conference at Atlantic City.

Around August 20, it was stated, the miners will agree to the operators' proposal, twice rejected within the past week, that they continue at work after September 1, in event a new joint wage agreement has not been entered into, pending conclusion of negotiations.

By August 25, operators and miners are expected to be in agreement on all essential points of controversy. It may, however, be necessary to continue the joint conference beyond that date to dispose of minor points.

Man Claims He Asked for Time; He Gets 15 Days of It

Cleveland, O., July 12.—Whether Charles Taylor, Cincinnati, asked two policemen the "time" or for a "dime" doesn't matter much now.

He was arrested charged with being a common beggar.

The arresting officer said he asked for a "dime."

"They didn't hear right, judge," he said in municipal court. "I asked for the time."

"Well," said Judge Terrell reflectively, "fifteen days should be about right. You can spend that much there."

Passing of Bowl of Goldfish Is Sign of Divorce

Marjorie Rambeau Does It and That Means Suit—Couple Had Agreed to Formality.

San Francisco, July 12.—Marjorie Rambeau, actress, soon will file suit for divorce against her husband, Hugh Dillmann, the actor.

She said so herself here between acts of a rehearsal of a play in which she is appearing at a local theater. In New York last year Miss Rambeau said that a bowl of goldfish was to be passed whenever she and her husband concluded that the psychological moment of separation had arrived.

Carefully picking up a jar of fish yesterday afternoon Miss Rambeau said:

"I am sorry that the fact had to come out. But it is true. It is simply a case of incompatibility on both sides—that's all."

Miss Rambeau will file her action in this city during her six weeks' professional visit here, she said, on formal grounds of cruelty.

Dillmann is playing with a stock company at Buffalo. He and Miss Rambeau were married in March, 1919, in New York. Two years before Miss Rambeau had obtained a divorce from her first husband, Willard Mack, author and actor.

27 I. W. W. Reject Clemency Offer; Are Sentenced

Los Angeles, July 12.—Twenty-seven alleged members of the Industrial Workers of the World were convicted of criminal syndicalism by a jury in the superior court here yesterday and within an hour after the return of the verdict had been sentenced to serve 1 to 14 years each in San Quentin penitentiary.

Tonight arrangements were being made to transport them to the penitentiary in a special car tomorrow, together with 17 other alleged I. W. W. previously convicted under the criminal syndicalism law. The plan to rush the convicted men north was in accordance with their request, expressed after they had filed notice of appeal, that they be taken to San Quentin "as quickly as possible."

"Liquor Syndicate" May Enmesh Police Officials

Des Moines, Ia., July 12.—A "liquor syndicate" is attempting to enmesh Des Moines police officials, according to Chief of Police Hammond, who has conducted an investigation of the force during the last week and dismissed several men. The "syndicate," he declared, "is backed by local capitalists and seeks to break down liquor law enforcement agencies by corrupting members of the force."
