

Beatrice Fairfax PROBLEMS THAT PERPLEX.

A Dilatory Lover. Dear Miss Fairfax: I have been thinking of coming to you for advice as I have a problem I cannot solve and would like to have your advice. I have been going with a young man who is 7 years my senior. He cares for me and loves me when I am with him. Then again he acts as if he doesn't even like me. He takes me to movies some times and if I am to a dance he brings me home. But when he is with me he talks about the other girls and then if he's with them he talks of me to them. But he doesn't know I know it. He often makes dates with me and says he'll come. I look for him but he never shows up. Never lets me know before if he couldn't come but keeps me waiting. Now Miss Fairfax can you tell me what to do, stop going with him or shall I tell him of his mistakes. W. M. D. I think the best plan would be to have a little heart-to-heart talk with him and see what he says. It might be well to give him some of his own medicine. Try missing an engagement he makes with you once in a while. Two Pals: The hope box is always a part of every girl's life and it would be very nice to begin putting away little pieces of lingerie and linen. But of course girls of your tender age could not seriously be considering marriage. If your parents do not object, you have a perfect right to go around with any of your young men friends. I think you both know as well as I do that it is not proper to let your "true" friends "love you up."

Sitting out dances in a car is not wrong if your attitude is right, but if you go out with a predetermined intention to "spoon" of course, it is wrong. Your writing is legible. It is not proper to go out for a day's outing without a chaparron. Edith: A boy of 19 is too young to assume the responsibilities of a home, especially when he has no money saved for that purpose. I would advise you to wait at least two years.

A Savory Dressing for Vegetable Salads.

An egg dressing that is very good to serve with a combination green salad (cross, lettuce, dandelions, romaine and chicory) is made by mashing to a paste with a fork two chopped hard boiled eggs. Add a few drops at a time, half a cupful of salad oil and blend in half a teaspoon of French mustard, a quarter of a teaspoon each of salt, powdered sugar and paprika, one tablespoon of tarragon vinegar and two tablespoons of tomato catsup. Mix well, and just before serving, stir in a tablespoon of chopped chives.

A Delicious Macedoine to Be Served Hot or Chilled.

Melt three-quarters of a tablespoon of butter, blend in half a tablespoon of flour and add gradually half a cup of milk. Stir constantly, bring to the boiling point and add half a cup of grated bread crumbs, the lightly beaten yolks of two eggs, one cup of cooked macaroni, cut in half-inch pieces, half a cup each of cooked chicken and sauted mushroom caps, cut in strips, one tablespoon of chopped canned pimento, half a cup of stiffly whipped heavy cream, one teaspoon of shredded parsley and a teaspoon of salt. Stir until thoroughly mixed and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a mold lined with buttered paper, cover with buttered paper and bake until firm. Serve either hot or cold. If the former, with a hot asparagus sauce, and if the latter (as in the menu), with a chilled asparagus salad.

ADVERTISMENT TELLTALTE SYMPTOMS OF WOMAN'S ILLS Every woman who suffers from backache, headaches, dragging-down pains, nervousness, irregularities, displacements, irritability, or despondency should recognize in such symptoms some derangement of her system which should have attention before some more serious ailment develops. These conditions are often evidenced by a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude and sleeplessness. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been pre-eminently successful in overcoming such conditions, and it is now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for woman's ills.
