England tells France, "You have destroyed Germany, and Germany destroyed means ruin to English industry." Poincare replies for "Germany is not destroyed. In any case English industry does not concern France. We intend to make Germany pay for damage done to us, and shall proceed according to our judgment, not guided or restrained by

It's a tense, interesting situation. The next move is England's. Here those who have not chloroformed their judgment with mushy sentimentality will be glad that the United States is out of that European mixup and will allow no democrat or republican to put Uncle Sam's fingers, to be squeezed, into the Anglo-French quarrel.

Ella G. Bushnel Hamlin, president of the Trident Publishing company, in Iowa, writes: "I used to own a large-sized American copper, coined in 1787. It had a chain of 13 loops around the outer edge, and in the center the inscription, 'We Are One.' On the other side was a plow share and rising sun and the inscription, 'Mind Your Business.'

"Mind your business" ought to be stamped on every American coin and written across the face of every American bank note for the next 10 years.

Patriotic newspapers that urged young men to go to Europe and get shot for their dear country now mourn about the cost of a bonus and war pensions.

Were there no question of ingratitude, decency and honesty involved, the pensions and bonus should be paid, if only to remind those patriotic newspapers that howled for the war, that war is

You are informed by haggard, careworn profiteers that the compensation for disabled men and pensions will amount to $125,000,-000,000 in the first 57 years. And that amount doesn't include a bonus or "adjusted compensation for men not disabled." One hundred and twenty-five billion dollars in 57 years sounds a great deal. But the money would be spent here, and stay here, and n that period of 57 years the in-ome of the United States, based on present figures, will amount to it least three thousand billions, r 24 times 125 billions. In 57 ears, 125 billions is only 4 per ent of the national income.

Those patriotic newspapers used to tell you, although it was non-sense, that if our young men didn't go over and get shot, Germany would come here and conquer us, after finishing the rest of the world. Is 4 per cent too much for rescue from such a fate?

To get rid of "taxation without representation," which used to worry our ancestors of 1776, takes more than one revolution.

King George and his descendants tax us no longer. But their entire taxation was child's play compared with modern institutions that tax without representation.

There are all the well-organized corporations that "fix prices" and tax everything from gasoline to sugar. You know about them.

Then there are certain specialists in taxation. For example, an official food and drug commission estimates that drug peddlers collect $60,000,000 a year from their victims. Sixty dollars is said to be the average payment by drug ad-

And that special tax of $60,000,-000, in turn, is nothing at all compared with amounts collected by bootleggers. They probably pay out at least $60,000,000 a year for bribery, "protection," etc., and take in at least $1,000,000,000. It takes a rich country to spend the taxation that this country

Jury That Freed Illinois Governor Gives Clean Bill

Men Tried on Charge of Being "Fixed" in Case of Lem Small Found Not Guilty.

By Associated Press. Waugegan, Ill., July 17 .- "Not guilty" was the jury's answer today to charges that the panel which acquitted Len Small, governor of Illinois, here last June, was "fixed."

The verdict came after one hour nd 10 minutes' consideration of the evidence in the case of John B. Fields, Edward Kauffman and Edward Courtney, on trial for conspiracy to impede justice through jury tampering in the trial of the chief executive.

Fields, a member of the jury which equitted the governor in the Lake ounty circuit court here June 24, 922, and who was later appointed a deputy state game warden, was charged in the indictment on which the trial was based, with having accepted $350 rom defenders of the governor for nis influence as a juror.

The indictment was returned by the rand jury on April 2, this year. The rial began June 25. Kauffman and Courtney were nam- ful youth, Everett P. Wiesendanger
