

Sees Father First Time in Memory

Mrs. L. L. Doyle of Fremont Reunited With Parent After 30 Years.

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Fremont, Neb., July 17.—Mrs. L. L. Doyle, 50, wife of a Northwestern brakeman, today enjoyed the pleasure of meeting her father, John Smith, Sioux City, for the first time that she can remember. Placed in an orphanage shortly after her birth when her mother died, Mrs. Doyle, her brother and sister, lost their identities when they were adopted by foster parents. Mrs. Doyle started to locate her father and other relatives in 1921 when she made an investigation of the records at the orphanage near Chicago where she had been placed. This attempt led to the discovery of her brother in Livingston, Mont. The other sister, Mrs. F. R. Whue-lock, Sioux City, also took steps to locate her missing sister and brother and through the orphanage, all three were soon reunited.

A newspaper story telling of a man named John Smith who sought to locate his children who had been placed in the same orphanage near Chicago, led to a correspondence that later confirmed the relationship of the three children and the father.

Cattle Thieves Are Forced to Abandon 2 Milch Cows

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Fremont, Neb., July 17.—Cattle rustlers were forced to abandon two valuable milch cows stolen from the farm of C. Sisson, six miles east of Fremont, Monday night when their truck became stalled in a field as a result of the heavy road. The missing cattle were found four miles from the Sisson farm.

The tracks of the truck wheels show that the thieves led the cattle for a distance of half a mile before they were loaded and carried off. Attempting to reach the highway by a short cut proved their undoing.

A. F. Goode, Retired Farmer, Dies; Funeral Is Today

A. F. Goode, 77, retired farmer, died Monday morning at his home, 324 North Thirty-fifth street. He is survived by a wife and seven children.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2:30 at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-third and Davenport streets. Burial will be in West Lawn cemetery.

New Era Baptists Open Convention

Negro Churches of Nebraska Send Delegates to Meeting Here.

The sixth annual session of the New Era Baptist Sunday school and Baptist Young People's union conventions being held at the Pilgrim Baptist church, Twenty-fifth and Hamilton streets, the rest of this week, were formally opened at 10 Tuesday morning.

Rev. Paul Calhoun, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, delivered an inspirational address. The introductory sermon was given by Rev. William Franklin of the Pilgrim Baptist church, Omaha.

Delegates from the negro Baptist churches in Hastings, Beatrice, Grand Island, Norfolk, South Sioux City and Lincoln will attend. The delegates range from 12 years in age up.

Today will be occupied in organizing the meeting. An address of welcome will be delivered tonight by Mrs. Jane Johnson of the Pilgrim Baptist church.

Robert Daly, 6, Drowned in Lake Near Creston, Ia.

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Creston, Ia., July 17.—Robert Daly, who would have been 7 next month, was drowned in McKinley lake near Creston when he was caught in a current, swept off his feet and went down in nine feet of water.

In company with his mother, Mrs. S. M. Daley, daughter of E. Johnson, 206 South Bureau street, Creston, Robert had come to Creston to visit from his home in Oak Park, Ill. Two years ago Robert's brother died.

Famous stage beauties use this harmless lemon cream to bring that velvety, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.

Munger to Hear 100 Booze Cases

Second Offenders May Get Prison Sentences, Says District Attorney.

Three clerks are being kept busy in the office of District Attorney J. C. Kinsler sorting evidence and preparing various documents, getting ready for the grand of federal court which opens Monday, July 23.

More than 100 liquor cases will come before Judge Munger, who will preside.

Kinsler declares every effort will be made to send persons convicted the second time for selling liquor to the federal prison.

"That's the only way we will be able to win back the respect for federal law," said Kinsler. "Fines are of no consequence to successful bootleggers."

Fremont Man Faked Suicide Wife Claims in Divorce Bill

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Fremont, Neb., July 17.—In addition to threats against her life, Ella L. Lahman, wife of Henry C. Lahman, Scribner, in an application for divorce, charges her husband faked his suicide and fired a revolver through a window to give her the impression that he had committed suicide.

A year ago Mrs. Lahman filed suit for divorce, but the couple later adjusted their differences and the case was dismissed. Recent false accusations by her husband, she says, charging her with relations with a salesman for the Packard Automobile company of Omaha, in addition to alleged attacks and quarrels during the last year, have caused her again to appeal for a divorce and the custody of their two daughters, Gladys, 9, and June, 7.

Boy Narrowly Escapes Being Killed by Train

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Grand Island, Neb., July 17.—Harvey Fee, 15, of Lincoln, narrowly escaped death at Wood River, 15 miles west of here, late Monday when the car he was driving was struck by a Union Pacific train, hurled 15 feet and wrecked.

The young man crawled out from the wrecked car apparently unhurt. He said he did not see the approaching train until too late to avoid the collision.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.
No one ever yet was pleased Or happy made by being teased.
—Peter Rabbit.

Danny Meadow Mouse Teases Peter. Danny Meadow Mouse was right. Peter Rabbit was back the very next morning. Curiosity brought him there. He thought that perhaps he might have better luck in trying to find Danny's new home. Danny was watching for him. He popped out of one of his private little paths in the tall grass right in front of Peter.

"Hello, Peter!" said he. "What have you come back for?" "Just to be neighborly, Danny," replied Peter. "You see until yesterday I saw nothing of you for so long that I just had to come over here again this morning. How is Nanny?"

"Very well, thank you, Peter. Very well indeed," squeaked another voice, and Nanny Meadow Mouse herself appeared from another private little

"Hello, Peter!" said he. "What have you come back for?" path, which was so much like a tunnel in the tall grass. "It is fine to see an old friend," she added. "We have very few visitors these days."

"If you'll tell me where your home is I'll be glad to call often," replied Peter artfully.

Danny grinned, but he took pains that Peter shouldn't see that grin. "Follow me, Peter," said he, and turning, disappeared in the private little path.

Peter started after him eagerly. But the same thing happened that had happened the day before. The grass was so tall that Peter couldn't see Danny, and he couldn't follow that private little path. After two or three jumps he stopped. "Where are you, Danny?" he called.

Eagerly Peter hurried in that direction. But as before he could see nothing for the tall grass. "I can't see you, Danny," he cried.

"Here I am," squeaked Danny, this time from another direction.

Again Peter hurried in the direction of that voice, and again he failed to find Danny Meadow Mouse. "Aren't you coming?" squeaked Danny, off at one side.

"Of course," cried Peter. But when he reached the place that voice had seemed to come from, Danny wasn't there. It was very provoking. "Why don't you wait for me?" he cried indignantly.

"I am waiting," squeaked Danny just a little ahead of him. This time he really did wait, but even when Peter was so close to him that he almost stepped on him he didn't see Danny in that tall grass. "Watch your step, Peter, watch your step!" cried Danny, from almost under Peter's very feet. It startled Peter so that he jumped back. But he saw Danny this time.

"Now, see if you can't follow me better," said Danny, and turning, disappeared.

Peter did his best, but it was of no use. He simply couldn't keep track of Danny Meadow Mouse in that tall grass. Danny pretended to become impatient. "I guess it is no use trying to show you that new home of mine, Peter Rabbit," said he. "If you can't follow me I certainly can't lead you to it. I've wasted all the time I can this morning. Good-by, Peter. Come again." And that was the last that Peter heard from Danny Meadow Mouse that morning.
