Babies Stay at Home With Doting Relatives While Parents Travel

Fond mothers have been 'twixt the devil and the deep blue sea planning summer trips when they have babies to care for. Fortunately are those who have doting grandparents to leave the children with, safe from the perils of infant travel. When Mrs. Malcolm Baldrige left Tuesday for Maine with Mr. Baldrige it was with the calm assurance that little Malcolm, Jr., would have the best of care. He is spending the next three weeks with his grandmother, Mrs. R. W. Connell, and his uncles, Herbert and James. Little Richard Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Peters, is having a happy time at his own home during the absence of his mother and father. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Johnson, with Beatrice and Margaret, have moved into their daughter's home to take care of the child while Mr. and Mrs. Peters are motoring to Duluth. Another junior, William Latta, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Latta of Tekamah, spent a month here with his grandmother, Mrs. M. E. Waterman, and his aunt, Mrs. Blanche Paterson, returning last week to his home to welcome his parents, who have just come back from Yellowstone park. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allison will leave little Katherine with Mrs. Catherine Allison at Rosemere lodge when they motor to the Broadmoor at Colorado. Mrs. Wayne Selby solved the problem of her tiny sons by leaving one, Wayne, with his father and taking the other, Dicky, with her on her California trip this summer. Mrs. Lewis Burgess, who returns the first of August from New York City, was one of the more courageous travelers, for she took her little son, Ward II, with her on the three months' trip.
