Reparations Should Be Based

Justice Out of Question

By MARK SULLIVAN.

They say that Germany "hasn't paid" or "isn't paying" or "won't pay." You hear that everywhere, especially in France, from all those who support the theory of strong measures toward Germany.

Then you come to Germany, and perfectly sincere Germans, speaking in complete good faith, tell you that immense sums Germany has paid; and ask you, with highly emotional indignation, to look on this, which Germany has given up, and on that, and on the other.

And both sides are right. The confusion lies in the fact, to state it paradoxically, that what the allies, especially France, have got is not equal to what Germany has paid. The Germans think they have done their best, that they have strained themselves to the point of ruin. But the allies, on their part, say they haven't received any considerable amount of reparations, and France points to her ruins, which she is restoring from her own pocket, and toward which the Germans have contributed comparatively nothing.

The explanation is that when the Germans talk about it they think in terms of what they have given up. But when the French talk about it they think in terms of what they have got.

One figure that illustrates the difference is the cost of the armistice. (Turn to Page Three, Column One.)

Mother Takes Children to Station With Her—Two Other Homes Raided.

When Mrs. Louise Cova, 1417 South Sixth, was arrested last night by Ernest Fee, head of the police morals squad, on a charge of unlawful possession of a still, she insisted on taking her family to jail with her. Four children, the oldest 13 and the youngest a baby, clung to her while she gave her name and address to the desk sergeant.

The raid was conducted after Fee had smelled mash cooking when he previously passed the house.

The officers discovered a half-hidden trap door in the dining room which led to a tunnel. The tunnel ended in a cave 20 feet from the house. A still was in operation when they entered the place.

Mrs. Cova was released on $1,500 bond and returned home with her family.

A short time later the police raided the premises at 3113 1/2 South Eleventh street and confiscated several hundred bottles of beer. William Haverly was arrested as keeper of a disorderly house and seven men who were drinking in the place as inmates of a disorderly house.

At 1305 South Fifth street the squad arrested 10 inmates and confiscated 700 bottles of alleged beer. The officers did not arrest the woman in charge because she had a 6-month-old baby. She was told to report in municipal court Monday morning.

Men Tried for Kidnaping
Woman Found Not Guilty

By Associated Press.

Lumberton, N. C., July 21.—A verdict of not guilty on three counts of an indictment on which they were tried was returned here this afternoon after 50 minutes by the jury in the trial of Jule Brogden, Mike Lawson and Johnson Hedgcock. The men were indicted and tried for kidnaping, secret assault and assault on a woman as a result of the kidnaping and flooding near Proctorville, N. C., on April 14, of Mrs. Mary Watson and Mrs. Hattie Purvis.

Following the verdict of not guilty on the three minor charges, Solicitor T. A. McNeill immediately no prossecuted the indictment charging first degree burglary, conviction on which would have carried with it the death penalty. The three defendants were released.

Bad Check Used to Buy Presents Cause of Arrest—
Forged Draft to Cover Losses.

An alleged forged check for $12, given in payment for shirts and neckties which were to be a present to her sweetheart Saturday, resulted in the arrest of Miss Anna Fennern, 25, 202 South Thirty-seventh street, on a charge of forgery, involving more than $2,000. All of the bogus checks except one for $55 were passed this month, it is claimed.

Miss Fennern had merchandise charged to the account of Mrs. Emma S. Edgerly, 5110 Cuming street, with whom she made her home two years ago. She is said to have cashed $55 worth of bad checks against Mrs. Edgerly in June.

About July 1, W. G. Dickey, insurance adjuster, 1029 Park avenue, advised for an office girl with a knowledge of stenography. Miss Fennern answered it. She was employed by Mr. Dickey.

Had Power of Attorney.

Mr. Dickey explained to her that his former stenographer had the power of attorney, enabling her to sign his checks during his absences from the city, but that this power had been stopped by the bank.

From then on Mr. Dickey gave no thought to his checking account and was surprised to be notified Monday by the bank that his account was overdrawn. He investigated, but according to police, Miss Fennern informed the bank that the error had been found and that the shortage would be covered.

She is alleged to have then forged a draft on the Chicago office of Mr. Dickey's firm for $1,000 and deposited it to his account to cover the shortage. It is claimed $1,048.50 had been withdrawn by Miss Fennern.

Girl Given Chance.

Yesterday a request for information about the draft came from the office of the firm and Mr. Dickey investigated. The United States National bank assisted and the forgeries were discovered. Miss Fennern was given until Monday morning at 9 to make the checks good.

Then came the check to the Omaha National bank against Mrs. Edgerly's account. The account had been closed on July 1, so the bank officials investigated.

According to police Miss Fennern has confessed to the forgeries. They say she used the money to speculate in real estate.

Success of Move to Help Distressed Growers Shown in Quotations—Market Closes Strong.

Action Business Matter

The wheat buying movement being promoted by a joint committee of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce and the Omaha Grain exchange already has stimulated the market, according to statements by grain men at a meeting of the committee yesterday noon in the Chamber of Commerce.

The committee will endeavor to obtain co-operation of other grain centers and chambers of commerce in the wheat growing district.

Former Gov. S. R. McKelvie attended the meeting and was asked for an expression on this movement which he endorses, although believing it is only an emergency measure of relief.

Is Matter of Business.

"We should not give the impression that the farmer is insolvent. The purchase of wheat should be on the basis of a business proposition; that it is a safe investment and will be worth more later," Mr. McKelvie said. "It is not quoted now at its real value. The farmer who holds his wheat will be handsomely paid. Get across the idea that the person who buys wheat is not engaging in a dangerous venture."

Members of the committee reported that the wheat buying movement is being reflected in the quotations, the effect being felt here and at other markets. Export buying is on 1 cent better basis than the bids received a week ago and the week on the local grain market closed stronger than the opening.

Governor McKelvie stated that there is a strong disposition to hold on to wheat, although it was admitted by some members that many farmers for financial reasons are required to sell their wheat at an early date.

Relief Is Foreseen.

Grain exchange members of the joint committee expressed their opinion that this movement will be communicated to other grain centers and that the buying of wheat will be stimulated to a degree that will bring considerable relief to the farmers.

George A. Roberts of the Grain exchange stated that the movement is meeting with wonderful success, adding that he knew of many who are (Turn to Page Two, Column Six.)

State Appeals Payment Ruling on Oil Case

Lincoln, July 21.—The state department of agriculture has appealed to the supreme court from a Douglas county decision that it must pay back to the various oil companies all in excess of the cost of inspecting oil in the state.

The oil companies several weeks ago secured an injunction, claiming that the state was charging 6 cents a barrel in 50-barrel lots, which was, they asserted, in excess of the cost of inspecting and therefore illegal. The supreme court at that time said the companies were right.

The suit now brought to the supreme court is to determine whether the state must pay back the money collected between the time the injunction was denied in Douglas county and the date it was allowed by the supreme court.

New Organization Is Training School for Younger Lads
Who Want to Become Boy Scouts.

A-ke-la-We-e-e-e-l! do-o-o-o-o-o-u-r best!

That's the pack howl of the wolf cubs, the English junior organization of boy scouts, which has just been introduced into the United States. Omaha is one of the four cities in the country that can boast of a pack of the Wolf Cubs. The other three are Detroit, New York and Seattle.

The Wolf Cub system offers the small boy under 12 years of age, the youngest a lad may be admitted to the boy scouts according to scout law, an elementary school in which to prepare himself for the higher order. It is the boy scout organization on a smaller and less strenuous scale, the Wolf Cubs taking in their packs youngsters from 8 to 12 years of age.

Smaller Boys Want In.

Lads of this age, according to local scout officials, are continually trying to squeeze into a scout troop, with the result that when a few do become scouts, the older ones begin to lose enthusiasm and interest in the activities. They do not like to play with the younger lads. What high school boy of 17 or 18 can interest himself in the thoughtless pranks of the grade school lad of 10 or 11?

The junior scout organization, known as the Wolf Cubs had its beginnings in England four years ago and is officially linked with the scout movement of that country. Today it is estimated that there are 20,000 "cubs" in London. At the last annual rally, about 60,000 from all portions of Great Britain were present. The movement is also strong in Canada, but is just being launched in this country.

Omaha Among First.

The introduction of the Wolf Cubs into Omaha is due to Earle A. Stirling, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 31 for eight years. Two years ago Mr. Stirling conceived the idea of a junior scout troop in which the younger boys might be taught the essentials of how to live up to the boy scout motto, "Be prepared." Accordingly, he organized the Brothers of David in September of 1921.

Later, in February, 1922, after the English organization had been brought to his attention, the Brothers of David were incorporated into the Wolf Cubs, with laws and organization similar to the British order.

There are now 50 Wolf Cubs in Omaha, composing five packs. They have a temporary summer camp in the Florence woods on grounds provided through the courtesy of Byron R. Hastings, Omaha real estate man, who is a member of the advisory board of the organization.

The cubs spend every weekend at the camp, $1 to defray food expenses being the only charge. The program and management of the camp is much the same as that of the scout camp at Gifford. The camp is supervised by a health inspector, camp (Turn to Page Five, Column One.)

Money That Established Meat Industry Here Loaned
by Benjamin F. Smith—Story of His Success
Just Made Known in New England.

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee.

Rockland, Me., July 21.—Until the sensational exposé became public today, few people in New England realized that the Benjamin F. Smith, who died here recently, leaving an estate of nearly $55,000,000, was the same Smith who years ago loaned the money that helped build the city of Omaha, became a prominent banker and forced Armour & Co. to pay nearly $1,000,000 for the South Omaha stockyards.

The story of the Smith family and the rise of the Smith fortune is, in the opinion of those who know it, the most romantic in all New England history. It is doubtful if it can be matched anywhere outside, perhaps, the famous Rothschild family.

After an eventful career which made history in New England, Smith looked around for new fields to conquer. Smith and his brother heard much about the west, particularly about a small town called Omaha.

Brother Sent Here.

So the brothers decided to send of their number Francis Smith to Omaha to start a small banking house. Francis was given nearly all of the capital the Smith brothers had accumulated. He built a little one-story building in what is now the center of Omaha. Deposits for the bank were not very easily obtained, but nevertheless the Smith brothers had capital enough to make quite a few profitable loans.

On all money loaned by the Smith brothers the rate was 5 per cent a month, and most of the loans were in amounts of $100 and $200. Most of (Turn to Page Two, Column Four.)

Klansmen Paraders Defy Anti-Mask Order

By Associated Press.

Topeka, Kan., July 21.—Hundreds of white robed knights of the Ku Klux Klan in full regalia, masked and carrying fiery crosses, began a four-mile parade on Kansas avenue, in the main street through this city, and North Topeka, promptly at 9 o'clock.

The klansmen wore masks despite an order issued by Attorney General C. B. Griffith late this afternoon, that Sheriff Robert Miller and Mayor Earl Akers prevent them from so doing. The city's police force was busy keeping great crowds back to leave room for the marchers and no attempt was made to stop the parade.

On a long banner carried by a score or more marchers was the sign: "Three million of us in the United States; 100,000 in Kansas; 6,000 in Shawnee county."

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee.

Sioux Falls, S. D., July 21.—Negotiations have been concluded for the purchase by a bond syndicate of $1,730,000 in state bonds for the construction at Rapid City of a state-owned cement manufacturing plant.

Here are four representatives of an Omaha Wolf Cub pack demonstrating their howl.

When the cubmaster comes on parade, the cubs salute him by squatting, as shown, in a council circle and throwing back their heads in the pack howl, "A-ke-la-We-e-e-l! do-o-o-o-o-u-r best!"

Note: This is the only time that a cub howls; a cub always grins and bears it.

Breslau, July 21.—Seven dead and a score wounded was the total casualties reported tonight, following the uprising against the high cost of living in Breslau.

Hotels, stores and shops were plundered by mobs all during the afternoon and night and the places usually were wrecked after food had been cleared out.

The hard pressed police, who tried to prevent the sacking of the stores, fired into the crowds several times.

The outbreak is looked upon by all parties as the harbinger of civil war to sweep Germany in the autumn. The communists, socialists and nationalists each are organizing with an intensity that forbodes grave times.

Trouble Expected.

The socialists, numerically the strongest party in Germany, have sent instructions to all district leaders and to all labor organizations connected with the party to organize "defense formations" of workmen throughout the country. Socialist spokesmen claim to have information that the nationalists will attempt to overthrow the present form of government this fall and to set up a dictatorship.

The organization of these defense formations is being done with the knowledge and consent of the socialist Prussian minister of the interior, Herr Severing.

Hostile to J. C. Kinsler

That the Ku Klux Klan was desirous of having James B. Nickerson, now in the office of U. S. Rohrer, prohibition enforcement officer, appointed United States marshal, while he was chief deputy, and acting marshal after the resignation of James C. Dahlgren, is charged in one of a series of articles exposing the operation of the Ku Klux Klan in politics written by Norman Hapgood for Hearst's International magazine.

The article declares also that every effort was made to prevent James C. Kinsler from being appointed United States district attorney.

In support of these statements a number of facsimiles of telegrams, said to have been sent from F. E. Maxey, realm of Nebraska, to H. B. Terrell, grand goblin, in Washington, are reproduced.

Norris' Influence Sought.

One of the telegram facsimiles reproduced in the article by Hapgood in Hearst's International magazine, alleged to have been written by Maxey to Terrell is as follows:

"Use your influence with Senator Norris in behalf of J. B. Nickerson for United States marshal. He is O. K. and has been lots of help to us in our work in this realm."

The date of the telegram is given as July 22, 1921.

Another telegram said to have been sent from F. A. Crippen, grand goblin of the Missouri Valley territory which (Turn to Page Two, Column Two.)

Federal Agent Says Newspaper
Reports of Situation at Port Arthur Accurate.

By Associated Press.

Port Arthur, Tex., July 21.—The federal government today took a hand in the J. W. W. situation.

Special Agent A. C. Sullivan arrived this morning and spent the entire day investigating conditions and causes leading up to the alleged mistreatment of James Holland, I. W. W. organizer.

"So far as I can find from interviewing peace officers," said Sullivan, "the press reports have been very accurate."

He is continuing his investigation.

Sidney Terry, district organizer here, said today that John McCollister of New Orleans, who is saying that the trek toward this city has not been interrupted, does not speak with authority.

"He is only a recording secretary and does not even have a vote," said Terry. "I am advised that there will be a change on his job at an early date." He further stated that Charles Skuskie of New York is correct in everything except the extent of the strike.

"It will take three months to get all of our members off the ships," he said.

Arguments in Browning
Murder Case Set for Monday

Salt Lake City, July 21.—Arguments on the defense motion to quash the charge of first degree murder against Martin A. and John M. Browning, Jr., in connection with the slaying of the latter's brother-in-law, Benjamin F. Ballantyne, were set to be heard in the district court next Monday by Judge L. G. Iverson today. The case was continued by stipulation of counsel for both sides because of the absence from the city of District Attorney Rogers.
