Augie Ratner Wins Over Ted (Kid) Lewis

By Associated Press.
London, July 30.—Augie Ratner of New York tonight defeated Ted (Kid) Lewis, former middleweight champion, on points in a 20-round fight which the first 10 rounds were uninteresting, there was considerable infighting and Lewis was warned frequently for hitting low. In the 12th Ratner forced the fighting, punishing Lewis severely about the head. Lewis hooked Ratner in the 14th and the blood flowed from the corner of the eye where the blow landed. Ratner, who has been in the 17th, Lewis tried for a knockout with three rights but they fell short of the jaw. Ratner countered with a hard straight right which staggered his opponent. Ratner showed greater advantage in the 18th, landing a number of hard smashes, but the last two rounds were light, with honors in Ratner's favor.

Rhoads Winner of Central State Shoot

Hastings, Neb., July 30.—The third Central Nebraska Trapshooters' league shoot was held at Hastings Sunday, with 71 taking part, and some high class shooting took place. E. L. Rhoades of Kearney, Neb., broke the program of 100 targets straight and was an easy winner, followed by W. H. Lemburg of Boelus and Frank Peterson of Red Cloud for second with 97 each. The day was light for target shooting. The race for first place is a hot one, with Holdrege, Dannebrog and Kearney tied with 703 each in the three league shoots to date. It is any one of five clubs race yet, and each club will go their best September 9 at Hastings, when the final season's shoot is held and winner declared.

Schlaifer and Tiny Herman Easy Winners in Fistic Mills

OMAHA fighters, two of 'em, came through their Monday night fights with flying colors.

"Kid" Schlaifer, who many thought to be on the down grade, put on a little steam in his 10-round bout with the veteran Jimmy Clabby at East Chicago last night and won by technical knockout out in the second round.

"Tiny" Jim Herman, Omaha's entry in the heavyweight division, put Jack

McCarthy to sleep in the first round of a scheduled 10-frame affair at Butte, Mont.

In knocking out Clabby Schlaifer ended the ring career of a once prominent boxer. The Omaha writer won the first round and in the second started after Clabby. He rushed the Hammond, Ind., fighter to the ropes and sent a right cross to the jaw. Clabby took the count of 8, regained his pins and took a right to the jaw. The veteran went down for a count of 9, got up and fell down again. The referee then raised Schlaifer's hand in token of victory.

This Herman-McCarthy fight was short and sweet. Herman scored a knockout over his opponent in the first round. It was "Tiny's" third knockout victory over that batter.

Scrambled Sports

Y ES, we have no Omaha Western league ball club.

Those Omaha Buffaloes of ours slipped another notch in the standing yesterday when Tulsa trimmed them, 9 to 4, in the first game of the series. It was a tough blow, mates.

Des Moines, by its 11 to 3 victory over the St. Joseph Saints, crawled up into the first division of the standings. The Buffaloes flopped down into the second class, being four points below the Boosters in fifth position.

Can't understand the Buffaloes. At the start of the season the club looked like a sure thing for second place. Even up 'til a month ago the Buffaloes were right in the race for second place, but now 'tis a different story.

Somehow or other the club isn't hitting and fielding like it should. Of course, the herd isn't getting the pitching it deserves. Maybe this is the cause of the team's slump. Some days Omaha gets enough hits to win two ball games, but the Buffaloes fall down on the bases. Yesterday they collected 10 hits, enough to win, but they left nine men stranded on the sacks.

With the addition of George Boehler, leading hurler in the Western league last season, and the purchase of Frank Wetzel, new outfielder, things may pick up. But the herd must travel mighty fast if it expects to overtake Tulsa, let alone Wichita, for first place. Don't know much about this bird Wetzel. His record isn't in the book. Oakland of the Pacific Coast league recently released Wetzel.

The Buffaloes and Tulsa meet in another game today. So do the Des Moines Boosters and St. Joseph Saints. Now, if the Buffaloes win today and the Boosters lose, then Omaha will go back into the first division, but if they lose, well, they lose, that's all.

Eddie Hazen to Join Washington

The good news bird has returned to Omaha to twirl in the ears of Thomas W. Hazen, 4502 Florence boulevard, father of the renowned Eddie Hazen, formerly prominent on local sand lots, and who will from now on be heard of under the colors of the Washington baseball club of the American league.

Eddie sent word "back home" of his sudden rise and surprised the old bird. Hazen was playing stellar ball with the Laurel, Mississippi, club of the Cotton States league early this season, but recently took a minor rise to the Memphis club of the Southern league. While patrolling the right field garden for the Laurel organization, Eddie led the league in hitting, pounding the apple for an average of well over .360. Besides working well with the willow, Hazen led the Cotton States with stolen bases.

Two weeks ago the Laurel club sold Hazen to the Memphis club and the cash consideration netted the Omahan a neat sum of "berries" for himself. During his short performance with the Southern league the sports scribes of the southern dailies lauded him as the find of the season, praising his fielding as well as his big league-leading tendencies in hitting and sack-pilfering.

"DEMPESEY will make short work of Firpo."
"That bird hasn't got a chance with Dempsey."
"Firpo can have my money when he fights Dempsey."
"His name will be Flopp and not Firpo when he meets Dempsey."
These were some of the remarks that flew into our ears over at the Business Men's gymnasium when Luis Angel Firpo, the "Wild Bull of the Pampas," worked out for his coming bout with Homer Smith. Firpo, as you all know, is going to greet Mister Jack Dempsey within the hempen strands September 14.

Firpo took a short workout yesterday. He didn't overwork himself by any means. He punched the bag for about six minutes and managed to knock the bag across the room a couple of times, just to show the crowd that his right hand was still in working order—the right that felled Willard some few weeks ago.

When it came to skipping the rope Firpo was pretty graceful for a husky chap. He seems to favor his left foot a lot, just like his factors his right hand when punching the bag.

After skipping the rope Luis Angel crawled into the ring and shadow boxed for two rounds. He didn't impress those present with his footwork. Maybe he didn't want to. Maybe he couldn't. He hooked his right and left mitts through the ozone and shot uppercuts into the air. Very seldom during his shadow boxing did Firpo use a right jab, a jab Jimmy De Horatio Lavalle, an amateur boxer and sportsman, will sail Thursday for New York from Buenos Aires to aid Luis Firpo in his coming match with Jack Dempsey.

Sailors Face Tropic Terror in Open Boat

Two Portuguese Fishermen, Fatigued and Hungry, at Mercy of Elements for 65 Hours.

Honolulu, T. H., July 31.—Half mad and echoing in its every word the stark terror of the open sea was the story told here by Manuel De Mello Pereira and John Piezai, Portuguese fishermen, on their return to port after 65 hours at sea in a small open boat, with a quart bottle of water and a half loaf of bread as their sole provisions.

The return of the two men—one in a delicious condition and each so severely sunburned and hunger and thirst-stricken as to make their recovery doubtful for a time—ended a search which had extended throughout the waters of the Hawaiian group.

Pereira and Piezai left their homes in Honolulu on a Saturday morning, telling their families that they would return that afternoon. They took a small boat and started fishing near Quarantine island, at the entrance to Honolulu harbor. They fished for several hours, when they noticed that the boat was drifting farther and farther out from shore. Pereira attempted to row back inside the reef, but a strong wind carried the small boat farther from shore, and by daylight on Sunday morning they were out of sight of land.

Wind Opposed Them.
"The wind was so strong I had no chance to bring the boat back to shore," Pereira said through lips that were parched and swollen. "Every time I pulled on the oars we drifted farther from land. Sunday morning, I think it was, I tried hard to make shore, but it was no use. The sun was so hot and we only had one bottle of water. We had a loaf of bread, but it was hard to eat because our throats were so dry—and the sun was terrible."

"All day Sunday we drifted. Many times the waves almost upset our boat, and I thought the end had come. I saw a ship, a big ship, Sunday some time; but they didn't see us. I waved my arms, and Piajai cried for help, but it was no use."

"Our water was soon gone, although we tried to drink only a little drop at a time. That night we saw many fishing sampans, but none of them saw us. I tried to paddle close to them, but the wind kept the boat going farther away. Sunday night we were close to the Island of Kauai, and then the wind shifted and carried us in the other direction."

One Man Crazed.
"Piajai got crazy and kept yelling all the time. It was terrible—no water, and I thought maybe the boat would tip over. One time I thought maybe it would be better for me to jump overboard. There were many sharks in the water, but it would be better to have a shark kill me than

Elsie Ferguson Wins Divorce Suit in Paris

Paris.—The "swift and silent" divorce mill of Paris operated Thursday, July 26, for Elsie Ferguson, handing down to her an absolute decree from her second husband, Thomas Benedict Clarke, Jr. of New York, son of the well known art collector.

Miss Ferguson charged Clarke with "wounding indifference" and also with non-support for the last several years.

The suit was uncontested. Clarke appearing only at the beginning when he formally recognized the jurisdiction of the French courts, permitting Miss Ferguson to obtain her liberty in the simple and inexpensive Paris fashion.

to stay another day in that boat. And then the following day we drifted and drifted, and the next morning we made out Diamond Head, at the approach to Honolulu harbor. Then I started to row hard, and finally we got inside the harbor."

Pereira managed to bring the boat within 10 feet of one of the piers in the harbor before he collapsed completely.

Reward of $2,500 Offered for Payroll Bandits
Scranton, Pa., July 31.—Police throughout northeastern Pennsylvania last night were searching for seven bandits, who yesterday held up an electric car between Moonic and Avoca and shot and killed one passenger, wounded four others, one a woman, and robbed the paymaster of the West End Coal company of $70, 125 in cash. Three persons were arrested at Wilkesbarre on suspicion and another at Duryea. None had been identified late tonight, and the man taken into custody at Duryea was released.

A reward of $2,500 for the arrest and conviction of the highwaymen was offered tonight by a local bonding company.

Plans for Feteing of President Abandoned—School Holiday Called Off, Children at Classes.

By International News Service.
San Francisco, July 31.—Everywhere today in San Francisco were evidences of the hastily abandoned plans for feteing President Harding upon his arrival, which had been scheduled to take place at 11 a. m.

In the harbor the great fleet of merchant marine vessels that had gathered for a gala review this afternoon was quietly dispersing. Some proceeded to wharves and to loading, others cleared for sea, while the smaller crafts took up tasks that had been dropped to do honor to the nation's chief executive. In all more than 300 vessels had assembled for the review.

Thousands of school children who were to have had a holiday to greet the president en masse at the civic center upon his arrival heard the school bell as usual this morning, plans for dismissal of classes having been concluded as soon as the serious nature of the president's illness became known.

the merchant marine review today forbidding aircraft except that of the army or navy to fly over the harbor were extended to the city itself today. Chief of Police O'Brien gave notice that during the stay of President Harding no planes except those in the government service—army, navy and airmail—would be permitted to fly over the city.

Wounded soldiers at Letterman General hospital, who had looked forward to a visit from President Harding, were glad by the announcement that Mrs. Harding would pay them a visit just as soon as her husband's condition permitted her to leave his bedside. She sent word to the wounded veterans through Maj. Joseph Rohr, Jr., that it is the president's desire that she visit them as his personal representative.

Cosgrave Denies Liquor Coming to U. S. From Ireland
By Associated Press.
Dublin, July 31.—President Cosgrave of the Irish free state last night denied that big ocean liners are smuggling liquor to America from Ireland.

"If representations about liquor smuggling from Ireland are made to me by Washington, I will issue imperative orders that smuggling, if there is any, be stopped. I do not believe there is any."
