Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee.
Fremont, Neb., Aug. 2.—Mrs. Roy Senter and children, Velma, 5, and Alice, 9, had a remarkable escape from injury when the auto in which they were riding, driven by the mother, plunged over a six-foot bridge, turning completely over and pinning the children beneath the wreckage.

The accident occurred four miles north of Fremont shortly before noon today. A plank on the edge of the bridge turned the wheels toward the edge, and the brakes, when applied, refused to hold. The machine slowly tipped over the edge and the car landed upside down in the bed of the creek. The mother, fortunately, was thrown clear of the car. Driven desperate by the cries of the children, held under the automobile, Mrs. Senter managed to lift one side of the car high enough to rescue Velma. She fought to lift the car still higher to free the other victim, but her strength failed her.

Her screams attracted farmers working nearby and help soon arrived. Both children were painfully bruised and cut, but their injuries are not serious.

Society Yellowstone Park Tourists Have Mud Battle

The story of a very exciting and unusual trip was told by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Potter, who arrived in Omaha at 1 o'clock Wednesday morning after driving 270 miles Tuesday on the last lap of their journey home from Yellowstone park.

When Mr. and Mrs. Potter with their two small sons, Billy and Jack, started out about July 1 for their trip they planned to go through the Black Hills and enter the park by way of Gardiner, the northern entrance, leaving via the Shoshone canyon and Cody. All went well and the Potters had no trouble getting into Yellowstone. It was in coming out their troubles began. They got only as far as Pahaska Tepee, Buffalo Bills' old hunting lodge, and were forced to stop. Because of terrible floods, the roads and bridges between Pahaska Tepee and Cody—all along the Shoshone valley—were washed out. Traffic was held up for what appeared to be an indefinite time, but was finally shortened to a day. Tourists entering Yellowstone by way of Cody were forced either to wait or to go by train to Gardiner and then into the park. And when finally the Potters did get started—

"We just plowed around in that slough of mud," Mrs. Potter said. "I had planned to drive part of the way, but my husband did practically all of it. We were thankful for our Ford. Five big cars traveling with us were having a dreadful time. If we had difficulties, there were much worse. In fact, we had to help pull a Cadillac out of the mud before we could get past ourselves. But after we got to Cody's road was as usual again—very steep, but very beautiful."

Kicking Up a Row in the Philippines

"He may be a brother of William H. Taft, but he ain't no brother of mine," ran the words of a once popular song supposed to indicate the attitude of our soldiers in the Philippines toward the "little brown brothers." And now comes the resignation of the Governor's native Council of State and Cabinet as a protest against Governor-General Wood's policies. The incident has aroused a storm of newspaper criticism pro and con in this country. Read the illuminating article in The Digest this week, which is illustrated with several good pictures.

Hiram Johnson's Opening Gun

"I went to Europe an American and I returned an American," said Senator Johnson in his speech delivered in New York City this week. The speech seems to be taken as a key-note of what Senator Johnson will discuss in the Senate at the next session. Senator Johnson "has been called a good many things, but no one has ever called him a 'stuffed shirt,'" remarks the Manchester Union; while the Pittsburgh Sun declares that "Hiram merely went over to supply a new stock of the old mental furniture."
