He Sleeps and Rests. Socialists, Please Note. Tired of Unhappiness. A 100-Billion Idea. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

President Harding will be buried on Friday, with 3,000 soldiers heading the crowd at Marion. The day is set aside for mourning, but the national banks will not close. The law forbids it, as the burial day is not a national holiday.

Warren G. Harding is far away from it all now. The mourners will gather, sermons will be preached all over the country, but not for his ears. He has begun the sleep that rounds our lives. Sleep and rest come at last to all those that know what a burden rests on a president of the United States would not call him back to take it up again.

The socialists cast a solemn vote of censure condemning President Coolidge as a friend of capital, then wisely let the resolution die.

Calvin Coolidge is president of the United States. His boy, 15 years old, is spending the summer vacation working on a tobacco farm, rolling tobacco into bundles, for $3.50 a day. There is a lesson for some socialists and others. Friends of capital or not, the Coolidges seem to be friends of hard work, father and son.

"Dear Mother and Father, forgive me for what I am doing. I am so tired of being unhappy."

That note was found beside the body of Amy Brown, 19.

How huge the list of suicides would be, if all those that get "tired of being unhappy" went out of life, instead of struggling through. Few successful men escape a leaning toward suicide at some time. Luckily a majority win the fight on the side of courage.

In five years the boll weevil has cost the United States $1,500,000,000. It is probable that thoroughly developed use of flying machine spraying may solve the problem.

That being the case, from the point of cotton growers alone, the Wright brothers' invention would be worth, with interest, two hundred billions in a hundred years. Enough to pay for the war.

Mr. Bertelli, that brilliant correspondent of Universal Service, describes a "beautiful, mysterious American woman, Mrs. James Brown, starting, pale, clad in black lace" winning from $20,000 to $60,000 a night gambling at Aix. Each time when she "rakes in" a big pot of gold, she kisses a large emerald ring on her engagement finger.

Extremely interesting, but those that have been gambling longer than the beautiful, pale and mysterious Mrs. Brown will tell her that if she keeps at it she will, some day, give that ring a farewell kiss.

It will go with her other property—let gamblers make a note of that, whether at Aix or in the stock market.

By special scientific process, Henry Ford will get $2 a ton more of byproducts out of coal, besides getting the heat. They have been doing that for a long time in Germany. Our specialty in America is waste. Every ton of coke, made in the old way, wastes twice the value of the coke.

Here's food for the superstitious. Five different presidents died, as regards their election, at 20-year periods. They are: Harrison, elected in 1840; Lincoln, elected in 1860; Garfield, elected in 1880; McKinley, elected (second time) in 1900; President Harding, elected in 1920.

Superstitions have been built up on less of a foundation than that.

Lamborn, Hutchings & Co., brokers, rise to remark that "the lamentable death of our beloved president should have a sobering influence upon the radicals."

This firm thinks that before congress meets "all fears of radical legislation will undoubtedly have been entirely dispelled."

The conclusion is that the stock market will do better. The stock market certainly needs it, although just what the radicals have had to do with the exposures of bucket-shop dishonesty it is difficult to say.

Plea for Electrification of Farm District Heard

Lincoln, Aug. 7.—Hearing was held this afternoon before the state railway commission on the Scribner-Dodge City rural electric district request for permission to issue $50,000 worth of bonds to construct a distribution system that will make electric current available for the farmers of two townships and parts of other townships.

The proposed district will take in about 80 sections of land, which was said to represent a value of $5,000,000 and the farmers were declared willing to bond themselves in the amount necessary.

Stable World Up to Science, Chemist Says

Increased Power to Produce Wealth Called World's Premier Problem; Must Find New Methods.

London, Aug. 7.—Upon mankind's "increased power to produce wealth" lies the future security of the world. Sir Alfred Mond, ex-cabinet minister and leading industrial chemist of Europe, asserts.

Sir Alfred Mond was addressing the students of Swansea University college. The necessity for the production of more and more wealth through the aid of science was his text. "The future prosperity of the world," he said, "the solution of its economic difficulties, the security of its teeming millions, depends far more upon its scientific progress, upon its increased power to produce wealth by the application of scientific thought and method to its industrial problems, than to any other form of human effort."

"If Britain," continued Sir Alfred Mond, "is to retain in the financial field what it lost in the war it must find new methods of enriching the world. It must increase its entire production, it must increase the production of raw commodities in relation to man power; it must have better methods of manufacture and produce at lower cost. The application of scientific invention and scientific methods, of new processes and new products, constitutes the avenue of escape from England's economic dilemma."

"Whole avenues of new approaches to industrial problems have been opened up by the theory of electrons, on which is based the modern process of electrolysis. The manufacture of chlorine and the resulting caustic soda is about the most striking instance of the substitution of electric for chemical action."

"Then there is the application of catalysis to industrial processes. "Take Prof. Sabatier's discovery in connection with the process of fat-hardening by hydrogenation, owing to the catalytic action of finely divided metals in turning soft, unsaturated fats like olein into hard saturated fats like stearin."

"Then there is the synthesis of ammonia from nitrogen and hydrogen under very great compression of both gases and at an elevated temperature in the presence of a catalyst of iron."

"This process enabled Germany to provide itself—after the blockade—with enormous quantities of ammonium nitrate, the chief explosive used during the war."

"These instances illustrate the necessity of scientific research, not merely applied to any one problem, but for its own sake. Far-seeing men of business today have no doubts on the point."

Cut in Wheat Yield Is Spur to Buying

(Continued From First Page.) ever, we are urging farmers to hold their wheat. "It now turns out, according to reports, the wheat crop will be much lighter than was expected in Nebraska. We still urge persons to buy wheat, as we did in our slogan, 'Buy a thousand or more bushels of wheat.' The farmers who hold and those who buy stand to win."

"That is a good argument to hold wheat back," Ward M. Burgess stated. Mr. Kennedy explained that one of the effects of the campaign has been to get farmers to hold their wheat and he outlined the possible profit to the farmers who hold and also to those who buy.

Market Is 'Bullish.' The grain men at the committee meeting described the present situation as "bullish" on account of the new estimates showing a decrease of the probable wheat yield.

Letters were received from the following: Gov. W. H. McMaster, South Dakota, who will help spread publicity of the campaign; public utilities commission of Kansas; Yankton Chamber of Commerce, endorsing effort to obtain lower export rates; Nebraska state railway commission, willing to help the farmers; Fort Dodge Chamber of Commerce; St. Joseph Chamber of Commerce, endorsing buying wheat and flour; Bellingham (Wash.) Chamber of Commerce; Helena and Des Moines Chambers of Commerce; Peoria Chamber of Commerce, stating that the campaign has been referred to a special committee; Ogden and Seattle Grain exchanges and Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce.

The committee wishes to explain again to prospective wheat buyers that the method open to them is to apply to any grain dealer at any grain exchange.

City Free of Crime Last Sunday Night

After a 48-hour checkup, police reported yesterday that Sunday night, the night that the funeral train carrying the body of the late President Harding to Washington, passed through Omaha, not a single burglary was committed.

Not only that, but crime of all sorts was at a low ebb. The underworld appears to have declared a temporary truce in its war against society.

Although 25,000 persons were assembled in the downtown district, not a single pocket was picked, so far as police have been able to learn. And although hundreds of homes were deserted while the occupants stood four hours to watch the passing of the funeral train, not one of them was invaded by prowlers.

Police declare the record is unique in the annals of crime.

Local Probes on Coal Are Urged

Federal Commission Says National Survey Would Cost $2,000,000.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Costs of retelling coal and profits made by dealers can best be explained by municipalities and state agencies in the interests of the communities concerned, according to conclusions reached by the federal coal commission. In a statement yesterday, the commission said it had found coal retelling inextricably associated with trucking and storage, and with the retelling of a variety of other commodities. The expense of concluding a national survey was estimated to be $2,000,000.

"There seems to be a lack of information as to how far the United States coal commission has gone in the anthracite and bituminous industry with reference to the retelling of coal," the statement said.

Appropriation Inadequate. "To see the matter right, the commission announces that it soon discovered more than 40,000 retail coal dealers in America, many of whom had their coal business complicated with other articles of merchandise, and the appropriation would not permit a presentation relative to the investment, cost, margin and profits of each of these dealers. The commission has done all that it could in many of the municipalities, and will present the result of its investigation to the country, but it has not gone, and cannot go, into an investigation of all the retail coal dealers of America."

"An investigation of such a character could not be made short of $2,000,000 and when made would not be conclusive as to whether the citizens of a municipality were satisfied to pay the prices charged by the retailer for coal. Therefore, the commission has concluded that except as to the general investigation of the retail trade, it will have done all it can when it furnishes the information as to cost at the mine. The railroad rate is easily ascertainable."

Must Act for Themselves. "Citizens and municipalities must do something for themselves. If they believe that they are paying to the retailer an exorbitant profit, they should supplement the work of the commission by local investigation of the subject."

"The commission heartily approves all investigations that are being made to ascertain the profits of retailers in individual municipalities, the margin of profits, and any suggestion that can be made for the bettering, if needful, of conditions disclosed in the investigation of the subject."

Bodies Removed

Harding Memorial to Be Held Friday

(Continued From First Page.) coat of arms of this or that foreign power. They carried usually ambassadors and ministers and the heads of diplomatic missions. Behind them came trucks carrying great wreaths or huge clusters of rarest blooms. The wall space inside grew crowded.

Message From the King. Among the floral pieces was one tall easel built of lilies of the valley. Easter lilies and China asters, with a simple white card bearing this legend: "With profound sympathy, George, R. I."

A huge wreath of tiger and Easter lilies and cypress leaves betokened the sympathy of the diplomatic corps. It was brought in person by Ambassador Riano, acting as dean of the corps in the absence from the United States of Ambassador Jusserand. There were other wreaths from the king of Spain, the king of Italy and the president of Argentina. One bore the name of the shah of Persia. Others came from "his Britannic majesty's government," the government of Italy, the dominion of Canada. From the legation of the kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, from Ambassador Riano in person and from many others of the diplomats, who speak for great peoples overseas, came still other silent tributes to the dead. The great, growing bank of flowers was a mere hint at what the morrow would bring to the capitol rotunda, when the state funeral takes place. But it served to make it sure that President Harding's last hours in the White House would be amid such scenes of quiet beauty as only do honors to the great dead.

Farmers Complain

Lincoln, Aug. 7.—Formal complaint was filed yesterday with the state railway commission by the Farmers' Union Elevator company against the Burlington and the Northwestern railroad companies because of alleged inability to have the two roads build a connecting track at Harvard whereby it can have access to both roads in spring grain.

It says if this accommodation was secured it would be enabled to pay higher prices than it is now enabled to do because it is compelled to make its shipments in a roundabout way to Kansas City and St. Joseph.

Stowaways Plan Trolley Trip From New York to Pacific Coast Points

New York, Aug. 7.—Six hundred Danes, Norwegians and Swedes, all farmers, most of them with families, arrived yesterday on the steamship Frederick VIII, en route to farms in the west, northwest and Canada. Some of them were said to have brought from $20,000 to $30,000 with which to purchase land. Three stowaways were found on board. All were from Copenhagen and said they had intended taking a trolley trip from New York to Minneapolis, thence to California and Alaska, all of which they thought were close to New York.

Ford Is Shallenberger's Only Choice for President

Lincoln, Aug. 7.—Former Governor Ashton C. Shallenberger, who was elected to congress as a democrat from the Fifth Nebraska district last November, was in Lincoln today and said he favored Henry Ford for the democratic nomination for president. "Ford is my first choice, my second choice and my third choice," Mr. Shallenberger said. "I will do what I can to help him get the delegation from Nebraska," he added. Mr. Shallenberger said his declaration was on the assumption that Nebraska would have no candidate for the nomination.

Queer Strangers May Be Escaped Lunatics

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Clark, S. D., Aug. 7.—Strange wanderers, giving their names as Albert Thomsen and Margaret Thomsen, and claiming to be brother and sister, are in custody here pending an investigation as to their sanity. They admit that they are from Illinois and may prove to be two of the escaped inmates of the insane asylum of that state who a week or two ago made their getaway. After being placed in cells in the county jail here Sheriff Sly searched them. The woman put up a hard fight against the removal of her purse, kicking the sheriff and calling him vile names. In the purse was found a gold watch, about 20 cents in change and a razor. The man had a dagger. No clue as to whether they are escaped insane inmates of the Illinois asylum was found. The two strange prisoners put in the first half of the night in their cells by alternately singing and cursing, the singing and cursing being interspersed with dire threats against everybody and everything, and especially against peace officers in general. Clark county authorities are diligently striving to find a solution for the problem.
