

How to Get Coal Early, Cheap and Sure Is Studied

Nebraska Engineers Consider Possibility of Employer Helping Men to Get Fuel on Monthly Payments.

A committee of engineers will gather facts regarding consumption and storage of coal in Nebraska during the next several weeks, it was announced yesterday by K. R. MacKinnon, general superintendent of the Nebraska Power company, chairman of the committee.

Co-operation between employers and employees will be thoroughly investigated with the aim of disclosing if large employers of labor can enable their workers to obtain a coal supply during low-priced periods, making payment by weekly or monthly installments.

The engineers will gather facts regarding consumption and storage, spontaneous combustion, including loss of heat value and degradation and storage cost. The findings of the Nebraska committee will be transmitted to Washington to be embodied in the main committee's report, which is expected to be ready this fall.

A meeting of the main committee will be held in Chicago some time this month, and there will be a general discussion of the progress of the study at a meeting of the executive board of the engineering federation in Rochester, N. Y., early in October.

William Grant of Lincoln and A. C. Anderson of Omaha are the other members of the state committee. The Federated American Engineering Societies have requested the Nebraska committee to develop a comprehensive and authoritative report as circumstances permit. A questionnaire is to be placed in the hands of consumers of coal, selected in such number from a prepared classification as to give a reliable cross-section in each industry covered.

"This information," said Mr. MacKinnon, "is fundamental to a correct understanding of the problem and its solution. It is the purpose of the engineers to aid in finding a remedy for the nation's fuel difficulties, which this winter are likely to become acute."

Industries from which data is being gathered include electric railways, light and power, gas, steam railways, steel mills, smelters, automobile and accessory factories, electrical railway equipment concerns, paper and pulp mills, packing houses, flour mills, sugar factories, glucose and starch factories, office buildings, hotels, public-owned buildings and all schools and hospitals and coal dealers.

Other lines to be canvassed embrace foundries and machine shops, furniture, boots and shoes, clothing, chemicals, brick, tile and ceramics, cement and food products.

FADED SUMMER SILKS DYE NEW FALL SHADES

North Bend Fire Does $7,000 Damage

Theft of Gasoline Starts Motor and Spark Starts Fire to Battery Station.

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Fremont, Neb., Aug. 11.—Fire, causing a loss of over $7,000, destroyed the Newman battery station and badly damaged the First State bank and adjoining buildings at North Bend at an early hour today. Earl Bliss, 22, charged with stealing a quantity of gasoline from the garage just before the blaze started, is held at the Dodge county jail.

Bliss, former employe of the battery station, possessed a key to the establishment. Late Friday night, he entered the place and drained the gasoline pump. The vacuum started the motor on the pump, and it is believed that a spark from the motor ignited a can of gasoline nearby. The frightened youth escaped from the building and was seen by a pedestrian to enter his car and drive off. He was painfully burned in his hurried escape from the building. He was found at his home this morning, frightened and repentant, revealing the entire story to his parents.

The battery station was completely wiped out by the gasoline fed flames. Most of the bank building was badly damaged by smoke and water. A pool hall and restaurant adjoining also suffered loss.

19 Women to Receive "Tribly" Prize Hose

Silk hose for the women wearing the same size as Andrea Lafayette and registering at the Rialto during the performance of "Tribly" arrived in town yesterday and will be mailed to their owners Monday or Tuesday. The lucky size is 10 1/2.

Only 19 women out of several thousand registered will receive the silk hose. Most of those who signed wore sizes 8 to 9 1/2. Apparently the women who had seen the flawless feet judged them to be considerably smaller in size than they are.

Miss Lafayette is not a rival of Cinderella. She has an excellent understanding, whose perfection lies not in smallness but in shape, and in being well proportioned to her height, which is moderate.

The stockings are a special order made up by the Real Silk hosiery mills especially for these prizes. This explains the delay in their arrival. Women wishing them are:

Mrs. Zela Elliott, 2560 Ames; Miss A. M. Boleky, 5155 Leavenworth; Mrs. S. Johnson, 2202 North Nineteenth; Mrs. Agnes Foster, 2617 Chicago; Mrs. E. E. Sherman, 3709 North Thirtieth; Mrs. S. Ross, 4011 Leary; B. Small, 2222 South Fifteenth; Mrs. C. Bartol, 2222 South Fifteenth; Mrs. F. Calka, 2024 North Sixty-first; J. O. Johnson, 701 South Twenty-ninth; Mrs. N. Dow, 5649 Corby; C. Kerr, 1420 South Fifth; Mrs. Lulu Lindberg, 461 William; Sylvia Abrahamson, Drake Court; Mrs. Klins, 2746 Chicago; Ross Whitcomb, 2212 Cass; Francis Greenspan, 2627 Charles; Lil- lington Johnson, 2202 North Nineteenth; Katherine Worrall, 2889 Saratoga.

When Is Sumac Not Sumac? Health Officers Say "When It Is a Weed"—Webster Appears Confused and It Is Up to the Courts to Decide.

That a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, it has been said, and it also has been asserted that the redness of the onion cannot be changed by merely calling it a tomato or a watermelon. This is relevant to a pending situation in the health department with relation to the official status of a form of vegetation known as sumac, which turns a brilliant red and lends its flashes of color to the autumnal beauties of the woodland.

E. C. Patterson was summoned before the police magistrate last week on a charge that he violated an order from the health department, by failing to cut weeds on property at Forty-second street and Dewey avenue. He appealed on the ground that the growth on his property was sumac which he holds does not come within the classification of weeds.

The health department and the legal department are endeavoring to determine when a sumac is a sumac and when it is a weed, within the meaning of the ordinances of the city of Omaha.

Mayor Dahlman stated that he has a row of sumac in his yard at Twenty-ninth and Hickory streets. City Attorney Dana B. Van Dusen also has sumac at his homestead. These officials were not ready to classify their sumac as weeds.

The dictionaries define "weed" as any plant growing in cultivated ground to the injury of the crop or to desired vegetation, or to the disfigurement of the place; an unsightly plant; a plant that is not wanted. "There are therefore no species of weeds," a dictionary states.

"A plant that is a weed in one place may not be in another," is a dictionary reference.

One of the issues involved in the Patterson case, according to the municipal legal talent is the question "Are the sumac plants in the Patterson property really sumacs or weeds?"

The health department is ready to go to bat in district court on the grounds that these sumacs are weeds. Mr. Patterson insists that a sumac is a sumac, wherever it may be found.
