

Northwestern College Men Save Many From Drowning Chicago, Aug. 19.—More than 3,000 lives have been saved by students of Northwestern university in the last 10 years as the result of swimming and life-saving instruction, according to an estimate given out by Coach Tom Robinson. Fifty members of the university's life-saving classes made more than 500 rescues last summer.

Coach Robinson declared. Most of these took place in the Great Lakes region. Ninety per cent of last summer's rescues were made within 20 yards of the shore, and in most cases only a few yards were separating the drowning persons from shallow water. Very few of those rescued were college people, because most colleges and universities require students to be able to swim at least 25 yards before being graduated, the coach said. One student's feat was especially noteworthy. He dived to an automobile covered by six feet of water and rescued a boy who had been severely caught.

Bible Reading for Schools. Columbus, Ind., Aug. 19.—Columbus schools will open their daily study with the reading of a verse from the Bible next term.

Hospital Mixup Brings Son and Dad Together Chicago, Aug. 19.—A 20-year separation of father and son, neither of whom had any news of the other in that period, was ended in a hospital here recently when the son and father's cards were exchanged. The father was E. Chapman, 54, and the son is A. Chapman. They were separated 20 years ago when domestic affairs scattered the Chapman brood.

H. C. L. in France. Paris, Aug. 19.—France's cost of living index, based on 20 articles of food and 25 industrial commodities, is steadily increasing. Represented in June, 1922, by the index 375, it has increased in the year by almost 100 points, being 472 in June, 1923.

When the young Chuck looked out from the bushes at the head of the Long Lane over to Farmer Brown's barnyard and saw the hens running about there, they had not looked so very big. That is because they were so far away. But when, having against Old Mr. Toads advice, ventured up to that barnyard, the young Chuck poked his head out of the long grass he was quite unprepared for the size of those birds. You see, they were just birds to him, not hens. He knew nothing about hens.

It happened that he poked his head out of the grass right in front of a hen, and not more than a foot from her. Biddy was startled. She was more than startled—she was frightened. You see, she didn't take a good look at the young Chuck, and she mistook him for some one else. She mistook him for Robber the Rat. She gave a frightened squawk, and ran. Now hens are sometimes rather silly. All the other hens right near began to squawk and run. They didn't know what they were squawking for, and they didn't know why they were running. It was just because that first hen had done these things. So the hens were scared and made a

THE NEBBS---

EVERY CLOUD HAS A SILVER LINING.

Directed for The Omaha Bee by Sol Hess

BARNEY GOOGLE---

Sparky Shows Barney Just What He'll Do.

Drawn for The Omaha Bee by Billy DeBeck

BRINGING UP FATHER---

SEE JIGGS AND MAGGIE IN FULL PAGE OF COLORS IN THE SUNDAY BEE

Drawn for The Omaha Bee by McManus

JERRY ON THE JOB--

BIG-HEARTED GIVNEY IS AT IT AGAIN.

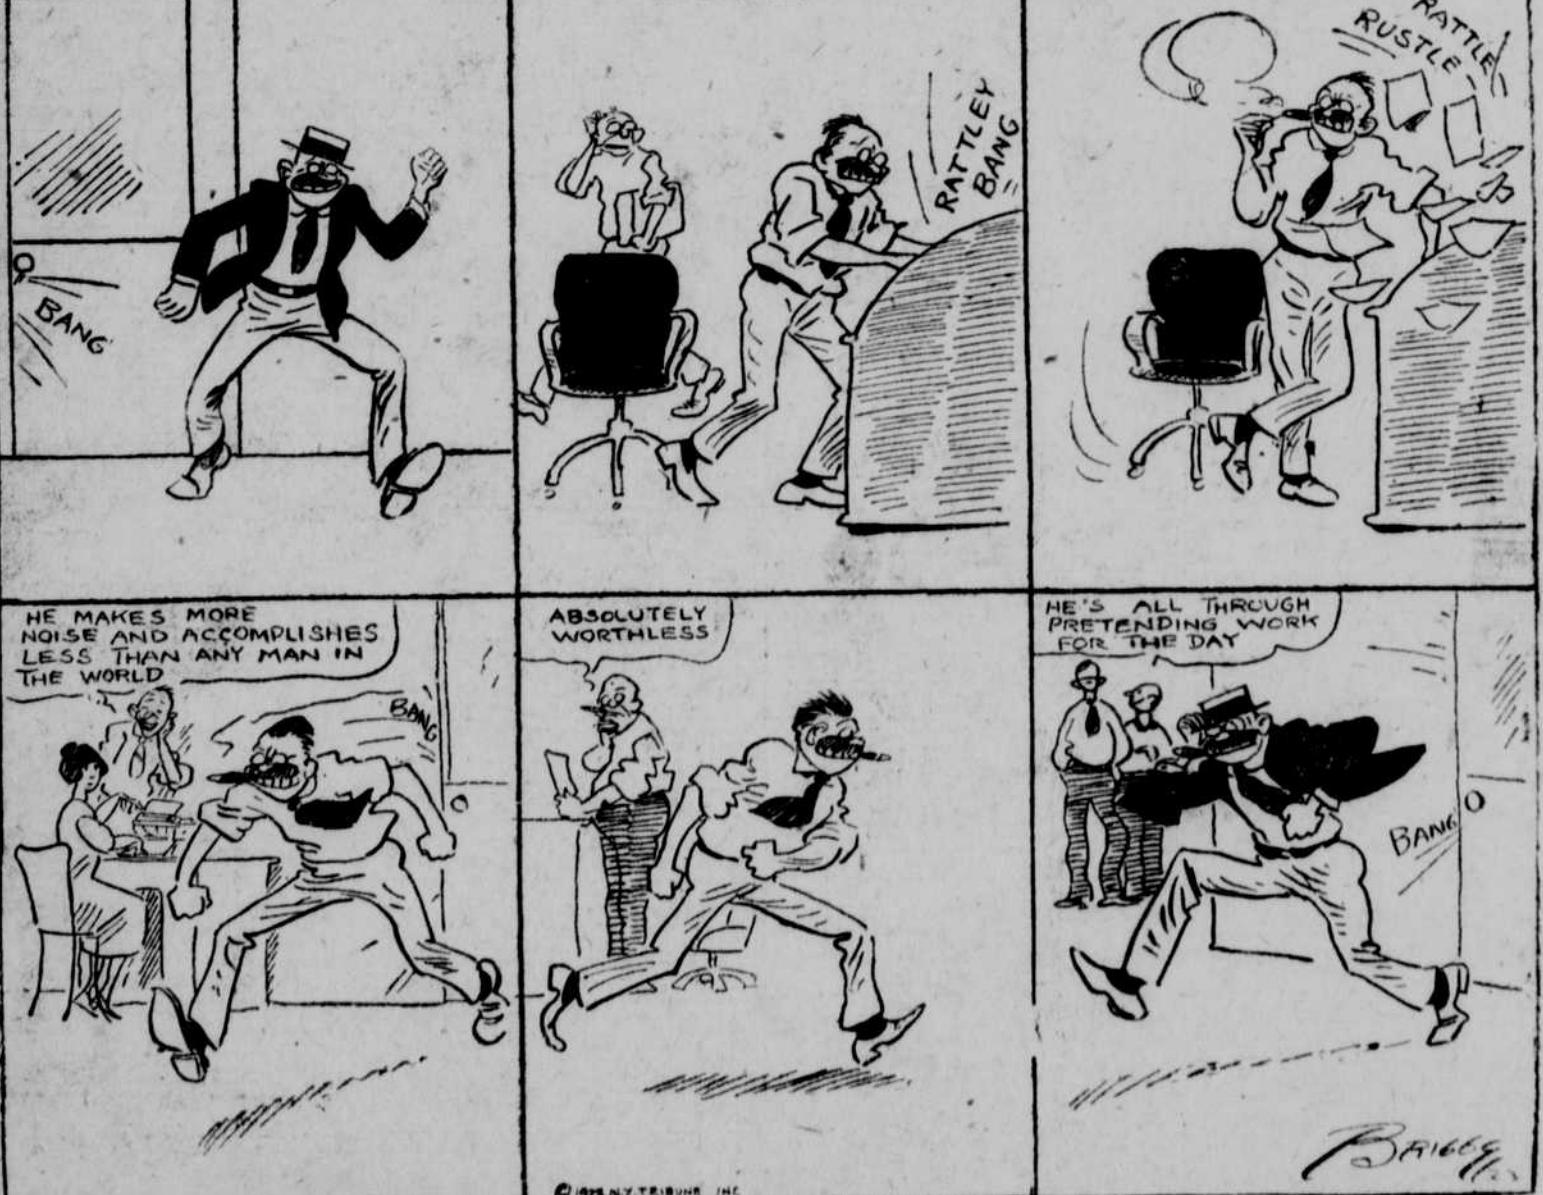

Drawn for The Omaha Bee by Hoban

There's at Least One in Every Office.

By Briggs ABIE THE AGENT ---

Drawn for The Omaha Bee by Hershfield

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS. Fear is catching. Often men are quite as silly as a hen. - Old Mother Nature. The Young Chuck Sees and is Scared. When the young Chuck looked out from the bushes at the head of the Long Lane over to Farmer Brown's barnyard and saw the hens running about there, they had not looked so very big. That is because they were so far away. But when, having against Old Mr. Toads advice, ventured up to that barnyard, the young Chuck poked his head out of the long grass he was quite unprepared for the size of those birds. You see, they were just birds to him, not hens. He knew nothing about hens.

After him ran that big rooster. great fuss, and the young Chuck didn't know what to make of it. When he had first seen that hen close to him he was scared himself. But as soon as he saw that she was afraid of him, he lost all fear. To him those hens were just great, big, foolish birds, and so he didn't run back into the grass to get out of their sight. Instead, he began to move toward them.

Those silly hens crowded together and began to make a great racket. It rather tickled the young Chuck and made him feel very big. It would give him something to boast about. He longed to tell his brothers and sisters how he had made these great birds afraid of him. He wanted to frighten them some more, and so he kept on toward them. And then from around the corner of the barn came a bird bigger than any of the others. This big bird came with his head held high and in Father's stately way to see what all the fuss was about. But the instant he saw the young Chuck a great change came over him. My, my, my, I should say so! He suddenly lowered his head and made all the feathers on his neck stand out. Then he ran, but he didn't run away. No, sir, he didn't. He ran straight toward that young Chuck! Of course, you know who it was. It was Farmer Brown's big rooster.

The young Chuck took on a good look, and that he took in his head. He was as badly scared as the hens had been. After him ran that big rooster. That rooster was lord of the henyard, and he didn't intend to have any of his subjects frightened. The young Chuck ran straight for an opening under the barn. It looked dark in there, and he wanted to get out of sight. The rooster was right at his heels, and he didn't get under that barn any too soon. My, such a scared Chuck as he was! (Copyright, 1922.)

No Rest for French. Paris, Aug. 19.—Members of Premier Poincaré's cabinet have no time for vacations this summer. The premier himself forbade his government department heads to leave their posts for more than five days at a time on pain of being dismissed.

H. C. L. in France. Paris, Aug. 19.—France's cost of living index, based on 20 articles of food and 25 industrial commodities, is steadily increasing. Represented in June, 1922, by the index 375, it has increased in the year by almost 100 points, being 472 in June, 1923.

Advertisement for 'MAIN STREET' featuring 'THE TALK OF OMAHA' and 'SINCLAIR LEWIS'. It includes a list of the cast: MONTE BLUE, FLORENCE ULDOR, HARRY MEERS, LOUIS FAZENDA, NOAH BERRY, and 'And a Host of Others'.

Advertisement for 'RIALTO' featuring 'HARRISON FORD in "Bright Lights of Broadway"'. It lists other acts: 'America's Greatest Syncopators, WARING'S PENNSYLVANIANS', 'LARRY SEMON in "No Wedding Bells"', 'KINOGRAMS Visualized News', 'ENLARGED RIALTO ORCHESTRA', and 'Harry Brader, Conducting Rialto Mammoth Organ Widener at the Consul'. It ends with 'You'll Never Forget This Big Week'.

Advertisement for 'SUN' featuring 'Legally Dead'. It describes 'The story of a man who came back ALSO SHOWING CHARLIE CHAPLIN in "Caught in a Cabaret"'. It notes 'Not a new one, but twice as funny'.

Advertisement for 'WORLD' featuring 'The Talk of Omaha'. It describes 'America's greatest impersonator of the fair sex, FRANCIS RENAULT "Slave of Fashion"'. It also mentions 'STYLE MATINEE TOMORROW $25,000 wardrobe of Renault on display SOUVENIR Autographed pictures of Renault presented to all the ladies.' and 'World "Road Show"'

Advertisement for 'MOON' featuring 'RODOLPH VALENTINO in "The Four Horsemen"'. It says 'It will be your last opportunity to see this production as the picture is being withdrawn after this showing.' Below it is an advertisement for 'NEIGHBORHOOD THEATERS' featuring 'GRAND' and 'Elaine Hammerstein and Conway Tearle in "ONE WEEK OF LOVE"'