

Oregon Trail Celebration at Gering

Old-Time Ox Team, Covered Wagons, Mule Trains and Stage Coach to Reappear in Parade.

Gering, Neb., Aug. 24.—Gering is all ready to celebrate the first Oregon Trail day anniversary, which occurs Tuesday, August 28. Combined with the celebration is a pioneer's picnic, and the interest exhibited in this feature promises a large attendance of early settlers in the North Platte valley.

The historical parade promises to eclipse anything ever before attempted in western Nebraska. An ox team, with the old-time yoke, will draw a Conestoga wagon, loaded just like it was in the old days, with the usual chickens on behind and a couple of cows trailing. Pack mules with the old pack saddles and diamond hitched wagons are all ready for the parade. A small army of cowboys and cowgirls will be in the line.

An old stage coach that formerly operated between Sidney and Deadwood has long been in seclusion near Bayard, and it has been resurrected, greased up and made ready for the celebration.

The industrial floats in the parade will be numerous, and the prizes offered for the best decorated automobiles are liberal enough to insure a fine section in the parade. A big picnic supper in the city park is an outstanding feature of the day's program, and hundreds of the early settlers will take part. Dr. Link of the University of Nebraska, Harry Landis of the board of regents, and W. W. Bayard, assistant commerce counsel of the Union Pacific, will be speakers. After the evening band concert Dr. George Condra will exhibit motion pictures covering the later developments of the valley. All the riders, ropers and bad horses from the Banner county roundup at Wright's grove the week before will be exhibited during the day.

Police Tracing Ransom Notes

Letters Demanding Cash Received by Father of Kidnaped Infant.

New York, Aug. 24.—Police today were attempting to locate the writers of two letters received yesterday by Peter McKenzie, father of 3-month-old Lillian, who was kidnaped from Manhattan street last Saturday. Each letter—one from Brooklyn and one from Rutherford, N. J.—asked for $1,000 ransom for the return of the baby.

Police do not attach much importance to the Rutherford letter, which appeared to have been written by a lunatic, according to Mr. McKenzie, but they seemed greatly interested in the note from Brooklyn.

This letter declared Lillian had been stolen "just because of all the dirty tricks you did me." The father said he knew of no one whom he had injured in any way.

The other letter, written in purple ink, was signed "K. K. K." It said that Lillian was being well cared for and fed on the special diet which was published in the newspapers and which is necessary to keep her alive.

De Valera Is Held at Arbour Hill

Dublin, Aug. 24.—Mrs. Eamon De Valera announced today that she had received a telegram from the adjutant general saying her husband was detained in the Arbour Hill barracks. The whereabouts of the republican leader had been kept secret heretofore.

Mrs. De Valera said she was told at the barracks that she could not write to her husband without submitting her letters to Free State censorship.

Goodspeed, chairman of the New Testament department of the University of Chicago, it became known today.

Brookhart Glad of Suit, He Says

Offers E. T. Meredith Profits from 240-Acre Farm in Lieu of Damages.

By Associated Press.

Jewell, Ia., Aug. 24.—Declaring that he would be "only too glad" to go under oath to "tell the farmers of Iowa and the United States what I have learned about the financial schemes to drive them back to peasantry," United States Sen. Smith W. Brookhart, addressing an American Legion picnic here today, renewed his attack on E. T. Meredith, former secretary of agriculture, with whom he has taken issue on the financial condition of the farmer. It was Mr. Brookhart's first public reference to Mr. Meredith since the latter announced his intention to file a suit for alleged libel against the senator.

Mr. Meredith too, would be under oath, said the senator and "we will find out from his own mouth whether he made a fight against the deflation of the farmers or whether he sat mat in the Wall street game."

Senator Brookhart attacked Mr. Meredith's figures and statements on war finance corporation loans to Iowa farmers, and told his audience that "the time has come when the farmers should kick the Merediths out over the dashboard and figure their own business for themselves."

The senator declared he would "like to offer" Mr. Meredith the profits from his 240-acre farm in settlement of the proposed 30 cents libel damage suit. If Mr. Meredith should accept, under the condition that he pay the operating costs, interest and taxes, said Mr. Brookhart, "I would be several hundred dollars ahead."

His address followed in part: "My speech at Radcliffe seems to have offended Mr. E. T. Meredith very grievously and now he proposes to sue me for 30 cents damages. I am glad that he has been so considerate in the amount, for if he beats me that is about all that I can get out of my salary after paying this year's deficit on my farm."

"But Mr. Meredith does not want to settle. He wants to put me on record under oath. This I welcome. I will be only too glad to tell the farmers of Iowa and of the United States under oath what I have learned about the financial schemes to drive them back to peasantry."

"The Manufacturers' Record says the deflation policy cost the farmers of the United States $2,000,000,000—$13,000,000,000 in reduction of land value and $14,000,000,000 upon the crops of 1920 and 1921. The Department of Commerce put this last item at $17,000,000,000, but Mr. Meredith in his statements intimates he never heard of these deflations."

"He says the issue between us is whether all American farmers financial condition is worse this year than last. There is no such issue with me. The only issue with me is whether or not the farmer is getting a square deal this year, last year and every other year. And I deny he is getting it. He was behind in 1921, he was more behind in 1922 and he is going more behind in 1923, in spite of the 15-12 per cent so-called 'better off' of the Agriculture department."

Timbuctoo Men Work Best When Beaten, Peers Says

London, Aug. 24.—If you ever go to Timbuctoo and find that the natives are shirking on the job, just grab the first hairbrush you can get. This is the recipe for getting work out of the Timbuctoos brought to London by Lady Dorothy Mills, who has just returned from that country. Lady Dorothy declares she was told that she was the first Englishwoman to journey there.

"The natives," said Lady Dorothy, "are inclined to be very lazy, particularly when employed by a woman. So I used to beat them every day, sometimes with my hairbrush, in order to keep them working. But even that would not always suffice, so I used to bribe them by promising them a sheep or a kola nut in order to induce them to work. When they had a sheep they gorged and gorged and then worked willingly."

Among the quaint customs of the natives observed by Lady Dorothy is that of "pointing" their teeth so that they can eat their chiefs when they die. Once when the French authorities protested over a prospective feast the natives replied that they hadn't eaten a man for six months and that it was essential that they should eat the man in question as he "wasn't a great chief, anyway."

"I arrived in Timbuctoo about the middle of February," Lady Dorothy said, "and was there about a fortnight. It was intensely hot, the temperature being about 130 degrees in the shade, and I had to place wet cloths at the side of my bed in order to save myself from being burned by the side of the boat in which I traveled from Bamako to Timbuctoo. At times we ran short of food, as it was dangerous to go into the villages owing to the prevalence of yellow fever."

"On arriving at Timbuctoo I saw a motor car—modernism in the midst of complete barbarism."
