

WOMAN'S NEWS-FEATURES

Not Love, but Infatuation

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Dear Miss Fairfax: While on my vacation I fell in love with a man, although I knew that he was married. It seems that he just fascinated me. He seemed to be very attentive to me, and told me several times that he regretted very much that he was married.

I asked me if he couldn't call to see me after I arrived home. I didn't mean to spoil the happiness of others, but it seems that in this case I just couldn't help myself.

After being home for about one month I find that it is impossible to forget him, although I know that will be entirely hopeless.

DOWNHEARTED.

This isn't love, but infatuation. You are looking for someone to love, and have fastened the mantle of your dream prince on a person who doesn't carry it well. This man is a cad and a weakling—and you know it. You don't admire him nor trust him. You know nothing save misery can come from a continuation of this friendship. You need not be the victim of your emotions if only you will recognize that you have a right to dominate them and to rise above the hysteria in your own nature to your stature as a woman of fine ideals, pure thoughts and yearning for the best life can offer. Don't let a cheap substitute for love fool you. Look at this squarely, see that it is a poor imitation of what you really want—love, devotion, tenderness, consideration and the loyalty on which homes and families and contentment are built.

Dorothy Ann: Perhaps we of today have not a high standard of beauty. Paint and powder and darning clothes may so interest us that we do not analyze their appeal and recognize that it is a surface satisfaction of a mere physical reaction. But beauty comes from the mind and soul and speaks to them. The while to try for real beauty. Lipsticks and powder won't do more than coat the surface—but radiance and charm and eager sweetness will send out the glow which all truly beautiful things possess.

Ignorant: I have been unable to find any mention of buffalo moths. But I have found any number of remedies for moths in general which, I presume, would exterminate buffalo moths as well.

Liquid formaldehyde will remove moths. Turpentine spread over the floors of the closets and in the wood work will also exterminate them, also cedar oil and camphor balls. Two ounces each of clover, cinnamon, mace, black pepper, and orris root, powdered coarsely and mixed well together is a recipe for getting rid of moths.

Thank you: I'm sure I don't know what the sign of dreaming of rings would be. One would guess that it might be an engagement especially since they were mostly diamond rings and were being given to you. But on the other hand it might be a birthday. I don't believe much in signs or dreams anyhow.

Corn on the cob is eaten with the fingers. I have seen in restaurants, bunches of corn on the cob at the end of the ear, but these are never used in the home. If the ears are large, break them in two. Hold the ear with one hand.

Cherniss-Lipp

On Wednesday evening, August 22, the marriage of Harry L. Cherniss of Council Bluffs and Miss Cora Lipp, 2448 Burt street, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents by Rabbi Frederic Cohn. Over 100 relatives and friends attended the services.

The bride's gown was of white crepe Romaine, trimmed in silk Spanish lace, corsage of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Eugene Konecky, was gowned in blue crepe de chine trimmed in Venetian lace. The bridesmaid, Miss Clara Cherniss, wore a gown of orchid crepe. The flower girl, Miss Zella Cherniss, was in a peach-color georgette dress. Mr. and Mrs. Cherniss will make their home in Council Bluffs. They left Omaha Wednesday evening for Manitou, Colo., for an extended honeymoon trip.

Visitors Honored.

Mrs. W. H. Platner and daughter, Miss Roselind, entertained 12 guests at luncheon at the Field club Friday in compliment to Mrs. G. Carpenter and daughters, Mildred and Lucille, of St. Joseph, Mo., who are visiting Mrs. D. H. Hawk.

Doane College Couple Are Wed

Fifty relatives and friends gathered at the home of Rev. and Mrs. V. F. Clark of Diller, Neb., Wednesday afternoon to witness the marriage of their only daughter, Martha Leavitt, and William Whipple Bennett of Crete.

A trio, composed of Paul B. Taylor, violinist; Philip E. Taylor, cellist; and Ruth E. Taylor, pianist, opened the ceremony with a prelude, followed by the march, to the strains of which the bride and groom, preceded by Rev. V. F. Clark and President J. N. Bennett of Doane college, marched. One corner of the room was made into a green bower, with a gateway of two tall pedestals topped by baskets of Ophelia roses, and here the wedding party stood, surrounded by their friends. The father of the bride performed the ceremony and the father of the groom pronounced the prayer. Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Carl Boyce, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Bredette and daughter Barbara, Mrs. M. Anderson and daughter Margaret, all of Seward; Chancellor and Mrs. Samuel Avery of Lincoln, President and Mrs. J. N. Bennett, Mrs. J. H. Whipple, Prof. and Mrs. J. E. Taylor, with their three children, Paul, Philip, Ruth and Millard; Mr. P. K. Bennett, Prof. and Mrs. A. G. Heyhoe, Mrs. C. O. Carlson, Dr. A. B. Fairchild, Mr. N. J. Anderson, Miss Alice Anderson, Miss Myrna Jones, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Osterhout, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. George Blue, W. R. Ellis, Miss Evelyn Ellis, all of Crete; Mrs. Duncan, Miss Ruth Duncan, Dudley O. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Harden of Beatrice; Miss Ruth Denison, Mrs. Miss Sara Marshall, Douglas; Mrs. C. D. Kerr and daughter, Edith, of Council Bluffs, and Mr. Wegner of Chicago.

After a trip to Estes park the couple will go to New York City, where Mr. Bennett is an instructor in New York university and Mrs. Bennett is a research assistant in the biology department at Columbia. They have an apartment at 526 West Two Hundred and Eleventh street. Both Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bennett are graduates of Doane college, class of 1919. The groom is the son of President Bennett.
