

8-A To Exhibit Famed Old Bell through generations of an old Indian family, a historic bell which is known as "Indian Lou," a medicine salesman. The bell, which is more than 200 years old, still retains its pure tone. The most important events in its history was when it was used in warning of the "attack of 1780," when the French and Indians met in St. Louis. St. Pierre used the bell during his parts in the early history of the city. The bell will be placed on exhibit in the Jefferson memorial soon. Omaha Bee Want Ads are quick in action; they save time and money and they spread their message broadly.
