Assorted News.
Stocks, Drink, Flying.
Far Enough, Now.
Gold, Yellow and Cold.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Stock markets felt better yesterday. The patient sat up and took a little nourishment on the long side. Some think there will be no coal strike. Others think this country can't get along, Americans buying and selling to each other and to countries that escape the war smash.

Also, don't forget, when asked about general conditions, to take prohibition into account. Hundreds of millions that went into whisky every year now go to savings banks and to legitimate merchants. Time and energy, formerly devoted to getting over the night before, now go into real work.

What the final result of prohibition will be, time will tell. Whether northern races have succeeded in spite of alcohol, or thanks to it, we don't know. But there's no doubt that for a while at least, prohibition means marvellous prosperity. The Turks beat everybody when Mohammed took alcohol from them.

American army men broke the world's flying speed record yesterday—3,000 kilometers in 21 hours 11 minutes.

Germans are building flying machines for a 28-hour service between Hamburg and New York. Real flying is beginning.

The Irish free state wins the election, naturally. Only 60 per cent of the inhabitants cared to vote. Apparently that "distressing country" means to try an experiment in quiet government. Any more fighting in Europe certainly would seem unnecessary.

Belgium complains that it only got from Germany two million gold marks more than England got. England spent on the war that saved Belgium from the Kaiser at least two hundred thousand million more gold marks than Belgium spent. No complaint from England, so far.

Learned gentlemen of the Bar association want the United States supreme court removed from Washington, "far from the influence of congress," which means the influence of the people that elect congress and appoint supreme court judges through their paid servant, the president.

Some citizens think the supreme court is quite far enough away from the influence of the people already, that it would not do any harm to bring it back a little closer.

Placer gold is found in Alaska at Anchorage. That is the most pleasing kind of gold, for anybody—boy, girl, Chinaman or philosopher—can sit with his little pan and wash out dust and nuggets. Plenty of people will go there and waste four dollars for every dollar found.

More money has been put into gold mines than has ever been taken out of them.

Young Mr. Sutphin inherited $100,000 and took violently to drink while the money lasted. The police, taking charge of his corpse, said they were uncertain "it might be suicide, murder or alcoholism." A doctor, detecting a smell of almonds, said: "Cyanide of potassium, suicide."

How close together are those three words, "SUICIDE, MURDER, ALCOHOLISM" as close as three others, "POVERTY, DIRT, DISEASE."

A distinguished senator suggests buying one of the palaces in Berlin for the United States ambassador. Palaces in all capitals for our democratic ambassadors, to be paid for by the people, are suggested seriously. There are several second-hand crowns drifting around Europe at bargain prices. Why not get one of those for each American ambassador? If you must make an ass of yourself, do it thoroughly.

Bandits from big cities are pillaging farms in Germany, to get hoarded food. It will be worse in the next war. Then poison gas and explosives, dropped on cities, will send their millions of people stampeding, scattering through the country regions, to escape sure death aimed at great crowds. Only yesterday the country people crowded into cities and fortified places for protection in war. All changed now.

Mr. Bedford, head of Standard Oil, says the future will pay for foolishness in regard to oil matters now. That is right. For every bargain gallon of gasoline the public gets now below cost, it will buy two gallons later at double and triple price.

However, big oil companies need not weep, for the little ones are being killed off. In the end all will be for the best in the best possible of corporation countries. (Copyright, 1923.)

Fire Chief's "Polly" Says "Kiss Me" to Passersby; Nothing Worse, They Say

"Kiss me!" Many motorists, both masculine and feminine, believed the voice making this request came from the police pillbox station where Officers John J. Kinney and James J. Sullivan are on duty in Miller park. Some motorists even complained about it, charging the officers were insulting them. Investigation proved, however, that it was only the parrot owned by Fire Chief Salter, who lives at 6220 North Thirtieth street. And now the officers are endeavoring to teach the parrot to say more discredit things.

Mayor and Bryan Do "Goose Step" for Dakotans

Omaha Good Will Special Grooms Residents of Sister State—Dahlman Given Water.

By MORRIS E. JACOBS, Staff Correspondent The Omaha Bee. On Board "The Omaha Good Will Special" at Mitchell, S. D., Aug. 29.—Nearly all of Mitchell turned out at 7:30 a. m. Wednesday to welcome the South Dakota Omaha Good Will special with its 125 rip-roaring Nebraska boosters, headed by John L. Kennedy, chairman of the excursion committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

With announcement that the train would be a half hour ahead of time, many of the party got up earlier than they have in many a day.

It was a glorious morning, and as the special rolled by fields teeming with fine-looking corn and cattle the early risers realized what a great

While the Citizens' band of Parkston, S. D., struck up "How Dry I Am," Mayor Frank Isenhardt presented Mayor Dahlman with a tall glass of South Dakota pure water. The 125 boosters waved their umbrellas and more than a thousand town folks cheered.

Mayor Dahlman drank the water and said: "As mayor of Omaha and a member of the water board, I receive your gift with many thanks."

territory lies north of Omaha. Newly painted farmhouses and other improvements were another indication of the prosperity that surrounds Omaha.

Led by Dr. Waggener's jazz saxophone band, Mayor Dahlman and Governor Bryan doing the goose-step, the Omaha boosters marched through the streets of Mitchell. Every one carried red, green and yellow umbrellas and wore white hats with Ak-Sar-Ben ribbon bands.

All Boil Out. As the train neared Mitchell, Acting Commissioner Bill Ellis, generalissimo of the train, gave orders that every one must march. "Come on, Buck, get out of that berth," Mike Coakley of the M. E. Smith company roared into one of the lowers. Out rolled Everett Buckingham, of Union Stockyards fame. Ed Droste of the First National bank, Walter Klapp of the Klapp Printing company, A. F. McAdams of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company and George A. Marsh of Marsh & Marsh formed a quartet and sang "Oh, how we hate to get up in the morning."

The first out for the march through Mitchell were T. C. Byrne of Byrne-Hammer company, Ed Peck, grain man; Everett Buckingham, David Cole of the King Cole company, A. C. Scott of the Scott Tent and Awning company, F. H. Davis, president of the First National bank; O. T. Eastman of the Merchants National bank and C. E. Adair of the Adair Rubber company. They made up the first squad.

"I never saw so much enthusiasm on a trade trip," said Walter S. Jardine, who took part in Omaha's first trade excursion in the early 90s.

The worn brown kitchen chairs would be mighty pretty with a few coats of white paint.

Artist-Princess Dies With Sheriff at Door

New York, Aug. 29.—Princess Lwoff Parlaghy, an artist, who had been a protegee of Kaiser Wilhelm and who moved in the ultra-elite society of Europe and America, died in her house on East Thirty-ninth street where a sheriff had been sitting guard over her priceless art treasures listed as collateral for judgments totaling $219,000.

"This is more than a mere trade excursion, I believe. The building of the Yankton bridge is probably as important as any project developed since the Union Pacific railroad was brought to Omaha. We should do everything within our power to complete the Yankton bridge and open the great northwest territory to Omaha industry and business."

The great wealth of this country has its arms extended, pleading with us to come and get our share," said Mr. Kennedy. Everett Buckingham said he has boosted for 15 years for the Yankton bridge.

"I realize its importance to the whole state of Nebraska, especially Omaha," he said. "It will bring millions of dollars worth of business to our city."

F. H. Davis, president of the First National bank, said it should be an easy matter to get a railroad to build between Omaha and Yankton over the new bridge.

"Minneapolis and Sioux City are talking business out of the Yankton district which should go to Omaha. The bridge will do the work for Omaha," said Davis.

The Good Will special left Mitchell at about 10 this morning, journeying to Yankton, making short stops at Ethan, Dimock, Parkston, Tripp, Kaylor, Scotland, Tyndall and Taber. Large crowds met the special at each of these towns. A delegation from Yankton headed by Ben Katz, president of the Yankton Chamber of Commerce, met the Omaha boosters at Scotland, S. D., and accompanied them to Yankton.

The worn brown kitchen chairs would be mighty pretty with a few coats of white paint.

Court Order Padlocks 64 Houses in City

Biggest Injunction Suit Under Prohibition Act Ever Instituted Filed in Omaha Court.

The biggest injunction suit under the prohibition act ever instituted in the United States was filed in federal court here Wednesday when General Prohibition Agent Robert Samardick presented and Federal Judge J. W. Woodruff signed injunctions closing for one year 64 Omaha residences, soft drink saloons, restaurants, drug stores, shoe repair shops and barber shops. Forty more will be ordered closed within a few days. Injunctions will be asked later for 60 places raided by U. S. Rohrer.

Assistant United States Attorney Keyser prepared the injunctions. The suits involve places raided by Samardick within the last 60 days.

"Fines and jail sentences on tenants don't affect the owners of these places," said Samardick. "Closing the buildings will touch the purses of the owners and teach them not to wink at violations of law by the tenants. They will learn that it doesn't pay to have bootleggers for tenants even when they get bigger rent from them."

The injunctions signed by Judge Woodruff are temporary and allow the defendants 20 days in which to answer and give cause, if any, why their places should not be closed for one year. These cases will be heard and final order for one year "padlocking" made against those that fail to make a case. Then the tenants will have to move out and the owners will lose their rent for the period that the buildings are vacant.

Owned by Individuals. Six of the buildings ordered closed are owned by the Magic City Realty company, two by the Vogel Investment company, one each by the Independent Realty company and the Cassel Realty company, and the rest by individuals. Only five of the buildings are occupied by the persons who own them.

Cables Censored. New York, Aug. 29.—The Commercial Cable company announced today that messages to Cuba were subject to censorship until further notice.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Although no American official will discuss the imposition by Cuba of a cable censorship between that country and the United States, it is believed by those outside the official circles, but in close touch with the Cuban situation that the step was taken as a precaution against possible serious political developments.

Russian Pianist Admits He's Greatest in World

New York, Aug. 29.—Vladimir de Pachmann, Russian, admits that he is the greatest pianist living. "I am the great player—the greatest player," he told reporters who asked for his opinion on the subject when he arrived yesterday. "Nothing could be finer or more superb than what I play," he said. "It is marvelous. When I hear what I play, I say, 'It is finished—a perfect thing. Thank God.'" Coming for his second trip to America, de Pachmann said it was not until he was 70 that he had learned the real method of playing. He now is 75.

American Wife of Greek Prince Dies

Former Mrs. Leeds, Who Inherited "Tin Plate King's" Fortune, Expires in London.

London, Aug. 29.—Princess Anastasia of Greece died at 11:55 tonight.

Princess Anastasia, widow of William B. Leeds, the American "tin-plate king," from whom she inherited a fortune estimated at $4,500,000, received many proposals of marriage from royal and titled persons before she finally accepted Prince Christopher of Greece, son of the late King George and brother of King George II, who succeeded to the Greek throne upon the death of King Constantine in January 1923. They were married in 1920.

Princess Anastasia was Miss Nanette May Stewart, daughter of a wealthy Ohio banker, and first married George Worthington, of Cleveland, whom she divorced. Three days after the decree was issued, she married William B. Leeds. This was in 1900. Eight years later Mr. Leeds died in Paris, leaving his fortune to his widow and one son, William B. Leeds, Jr., who in 1921 married Princess Xenia, the 17-year-old daughter of Grand Duchess Marie of Russia and niece of King Constantine.

Princess Anastasia was seriously ill as the result of an intestinal disorder, and had undergone two major operations when she learned of her son's engagement.

Bar Association Meeting Opens

President of Organization Makes Plea for World Court in Address.

By Associated Press. Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 29.—Opposition to any curtailment of the powers of the United States supreme court was expressed by John W. Davis of New York in his address as president of the American Bar association at the opening session of its 48th annual convention here today.

In addition to this stand, which applies to decisions involving constitutionality of congressional enactments as well as departure from 5 to 4 majority decisions, the association president advocated the following: Congress should come into being immediately upon its election, and the president and vice president should be inaugurated without any unnecessary lapse of time.

Bar should demand without further delay the appointment under congressional authority of an expert commission to codify the federal statutes.

Adoption of a constitutional amendment permitting the president of the United States to veto specific items in an appropriation bill. Ratification of treaties with foreign countries by the senate by a majority vote, instead of the two-thirds vote now required.

Submission of constitutional amendments directly to the people of the several states or to the legislatures selected after and not before the amendment has been proposed.

Repeated hope expressed in association's resolution last year that "a way may be found by which the government of the United States may avail itself of the permanent court of international justice."

The address of Mr. Davis, who presided at the opening session of the three-day gathering, was preceded by the reports of Thomas W. Kemp of Baltimore, secretary, and Fred E. Wadhams, Albany, N. Y., treasurer, and was followed by nominations for the general council.

Boy Slays Playmate and Buries His Body

Henry Rossi, 12, Providence, R. I., shot down his little playmate, "Mickey" Kurgio, 9, and then dragged his body into a swamp, where he buried it. It was not found for several days. The boys quarreled over a lost fishing pole.

Man Is Held for Slaying of Brother

Shooting Is Staged in Sensational Manner While Parents Gave Lawn Fete.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 29.—Cyril Bishop, 18, is being held in jail here today pending a hearing next Saturday on a charge of slaying his brother, Frederick Bishop, 26, who was shot to death in the home of the Bishops' parents at Campo, 35 miles south of here.

The shooting of Frederick was staged in a sensational manner while the porch and lawn of the parents' home was crowded with neighbors at a lawn fete.

The two boys left the party for a moment, both entering the house together. In an instant shots were heard and Frederick's body was found lying across the threshold of the kitchen. Young Cyril made no attempt to escape.

According to the story told county officers, Cyril had become infatuated with the wife of Frederick and some months ago, it is said, the pair eloped. Later Frederick forgave his wife and she returned to Campo. Several weeks later Cyril again appeared at the family home and it is said displayed much jealousy over the affection of Frederick for his forgiven wife.
