The Baby Mummy.
"But Not for Love."
How Many Thoughts?
Dempsey Studies Spanish.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Three morals in this news: "Mr. Sterling, a United States ethnologist, digs up a mummy Indian baby in South Dakota. For one full grown Indian found, there were three dead babies. Show that to friends who advise you to 'bring up your child according to nature.'" That's how Indian children are raised and killed.

The baby mummy wore copper ornaments, dug up just as fresh as when they were buried, thousands of years ago. If they had put iron ornaments on that baby, nothing would be left. Use copper instead of iron, when you can.

Finally, what would that baby Indian mummy have said if told that the governor of South Dakota was selling gasoline to the people at 16 cents a gallon to break down monopoly? It would have said: "That's wrong, it's paternalism." Some white men know, now, as little as that Indian baby knew.

David Belasco says Franklin Sargeant, successful dramatic teacher, killed himself for love of a Mary Anderson. She married somebody else years ago; he hadn't seen her since. None the less he grieved, mourned, died.

So says Belasco. Shakespeare says "Men have died, and worms have eaten them, but not for love." Dante lost Beatrice; she also married somebody else. Dante was satisfied to give her the most important place in paradise next to the Trinity and the queen of heaven, while he lived on.

Shakespeare probably was right. Mr. Belasco wrong. Men are too selfish to kill themselves for love. In addition, they enjoy contemplation of their devotion, and sorrows. "Nothing is so daintily sweet as lovely melancholy."

Our rising and falling generation, in July, last, smoked almost 6,000,000,000 cigarettes. The war killed off beer and wine, through prohibition enthusiasm and established the cigarette on a permanent, respectable basis. Our heroes were rolling their own, or buying them rolled. It was unpatriotic to criticize them.

Young gentlemen tell you: "I think better when I smoke." How many original thoughts went with the 6,000,000,000 cigarettes, do you suppose? One for every 10,000,000? Doubtful.

But don't criticize tobacco. Men must be foolish, and tobacco is the east harmful folly.

Jack Dempsey is studying Spanish, to compliment or insult Firpo, according to circumstances, when they meet in the prize ring. Firpo can already say "knock your block off." Nothing like education.

An old saying goes: "Spanish is the language of heroes, Italian of lovely women, French of diplomacy, English and German the language of horses." That was a Latin opinion.

Dempsey will be amazed at the power and the beauty of Spanish, and he will find Cervantes' Knight of the Mirrors a most amusing character—and not unlike a modern prize fighter.

Gifford Pinchot offers an eight-hour day and 10 per cent increase for coal miners. The public will approve. It means less than 60 cents increase per ton. The United States coal commissioners report that between the mine and consumer there were "four wholesale purchasers and profits," in addition to the profits of mine owners, retailers and railroads.

The Call, New York's only socialist newspaper, printed in English, gives up the ghost and is taken over by union labor. Socialist newspapers are not exactly "newspapers," propaganda being mixed with each news item. For instance, "Mr. Astorbilt is dead. He gorged himself on the tears of the women and children." The statement is not true, exactly, and besides, when Astorbilt dies, the ordinary man wants to know how much money he left, how many times he was divorced, who gets his money. Newspapers that can't keep news and propaganda separate suffer.

Paul Frauen, Pioneer of Merrick County, Expires
Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee.
Grand Island, Neb., Aug. 31.—Paul Frauen, 77, pioneer settler of the western part of Merrick county, and for many years a director of the First National bank, this city, died last night.

He came here without means from Germany early in the 60s, earned his first money as day laborer in helping to build the Union Pacific road-bed, took up land, later became one of the state's most successful cattle feeders, and was one of the first men of the region to construct a fine modern farm home. He leaves two sons.

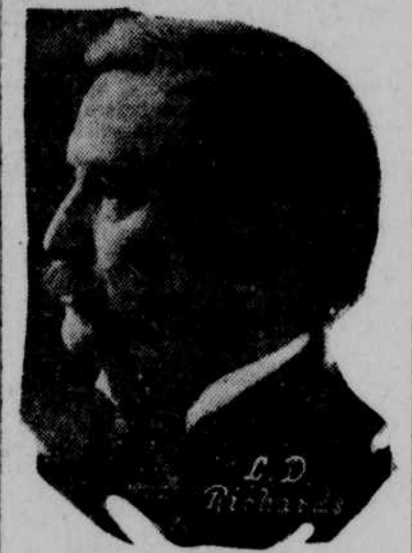

Coolidge Club Is Organized

First in State for New President Formed at Fremont.

By EDWARD BLACK, Staff Correspondent The Omaha Bee.
Fremont, Neb., Aug. 31.—The Dodge County Coolidge for President club, the first organization of the kind in Nebraska, was launched here tonight at a regular meeting held in the courthouse.

L. D. Richards, prominent in political and business affairs here for nearly 40 years, was named temporary president, and J. N. Hanson will serve as temporary secretary until a permanent organization has been established. It was the sense of the meeting that the president shall name a committee of seven to arrange the details of the permanent organization, the personnel of the committee to represent the towns of Dodge county. Another meeting will be held within two weeks.

Charter Members.
Among those who signed the charter roll were: L. D. Richards, T. L. Mathews; H. L. Webb, president of a wholesale grocery company; A. J. Eddy, merchant; A. W. Murphy, county commissioner; C. D. Marr, head of a foundry; C. S. Reynolds, insurance agent; J. P. Hanson, administrator of estates; William Hausenater, former republican state chairman; M. Harry, shoe dealer; B.

L. D. Richards

E. Miller, councilman; Mrs. T. L. Mathews; Mrs. G. A. Bushnell, C. V. Roberts; C. D. Stevens, L. L. Fitzsimmons; Mrs. Laura A. Wickwire; Mrs. Edith Mohney; Grace M. Hanson; Miss Helen Marr; Rodney S. Dunlap; Clara J. Hughes; Mrs. J. M. Perriego; Mrs. A. R. Sanderson; Mrs. Mary Wintersteen; Mona C. Spath; Dagmar Christensen; Etta Hendrickson; Alice M. Cooley; Mrs. J. A. Van Andrews; Mrs. Anna Spreigel; Mrs. E. Peggan; Mrs. E. Thielon and Mrs. C. Bogard.

The club adopted the following declaration of principles:

"Believing emphatically in a representative form of government, as clearly set forth in the constitution of the United States, and believing that nothing is so needed at this period of our national life as a full measure of confidence in our government, in our institutions, in our leaders, in our country, in our republic and in the goodness of its principles and in the wisdom of its principles of government; and believing that such confidence can only result from keeping at the head of the government a man whose every public act has inspired confidence in his ability and determination to safeguard the public welfare and uphold the constitution, we the voters of Dodge county, believing no man in public life is better equipped than Calvin Coolidge to lead us into an era of confidence and co-operation which will result in the fullest measure of prosperity for agriculture, labor, manufacturing and commerce, and we do, with confidence in Coolidge, pledge ourselves to do all in our power to bring about his nomination

A Simple Eye Test for School Children

Cut this ad out and pin on a wall on level with your eyes. Measure off 10 feet. Stand at this distance with light to your back, avoid side light on the ad. Test each eye separately by covering left eye first with a small card. Don't close either eye. If you can read the above letters with each eye separately, your eyes are normal for practical purposes. If one eye is stronger than the other it shows an unbalanced vision, which should be promptly corrected by properly fitting glasses. That's our business. We have a special shell spectacle frame and lenses for school children for $6.00 unless special grinding is required.

American Legion "Sweetheart" Says She Likes All "Buddies" the Same

Greeting Legionnaires With Smile and Finding Jobs for Them Is "Diversion."

"The sweetheart of the American Legion," is the title of Miss Esther Perkins, secretary to Adjutant Harry C. Hough, and "sweetheart" has become her official designation. She won it, as Mary Pickford won her title, by being about the sort of person every man dreams of for a sweetheart.

Her smile and greeting in a remarkably soft voice have a way of brightening up the somewhat bare legion rooms in the court house, the boys say. She knows the men in the legion by name. She hunts up jobs for them when they are out of work and hunts them up when the job puts in an appearance. She laughs with them when they are happy, hears their troubles and cheers them when they are blue. And the ex-boy who takes her out to a legion party thinks himself extremely lucky. She doesn't like one better than another, she says, she is just sweetheart to them all.

Miss Perkins has been at the legion headquarters for a year. Before that she taught school in Nebraska City, although her home is in Orleans, Neb. She likes school teaching, too, she says, but being sweetheart to the legion is "a diversion."

Iowa Grain Damaged More by Rain Than Hail, Buyer Says

A number of livestock raisers were at the Omaha stockyards yesterday looking for stockers and feeders. Among them being Ole Jensen of Kimballton, Ia., who came in after a load of stocker cows.

According to Mr. Jensen rain damaged small grain after it was in the shock more than hail did while it was in the fields. He said a lot of grain escaped the hail and afterward rotted in the shock due to the heavy rainfall.

"Old corn is pretty scarce," said Mr. Jensen, "and although quite a bit of corn is down, there will be an enormous crop if the frost holds off awhile longer. Much livestock will be turned into the cornfields and many hogs have already been turned onto the corn land."

Bids Sought for Bonds on Fairbury Paving District

Fairbury, Neb., Aug. 31.—The Fairbury city council has decided to ask for bids for the fourth paving district, leading from the square to the Rock Island and north to the new $200,000 school house. This district covers 11 blocks on the highway leading east on Fourth street and north on K street.

Eleven blocks, constituting district No. 3 are now under construction.

Burlington Rushes Work.

Lincoln, Aug. 31.—The Burlington railway company now has about 400 men and 200 teams, with steam shovels, tractors and other grading and road building machines at work on the seven miles of new road east of Bonneville, Wyo., where the flood of July broke the central Wyoming line, General Manager Flynn said on his arrival here today. The force of workers is being increased daily, he said, but so great was the flood damage that with the best of conditions obtaining from now on he estimated it would be the first of October before through service on regular schedule could be restored.

Wallace Left Life Insurance Worth $45,000

Clai Against Estate Filed by Council Bluffs Contractor Over Mortgage Deal.

Life insurance policies amounting to $45,000 were held by Robert B. Wallace, Council Bluffs real estate man who committed suicide last Wednesday. These will be paid.

A petition against Wallace, the Metropolitan Life Insurance company and the United States Trust company were filed in district court late yesterday by George A. Hubbard, Bluffs contractor, and his wife, Maude E. Hubbard.

The petition alleges that on March 1, 1923, a mortgage upon property at 2506 Avenue E and a promissory note were executed by Hubbard and his wife to Wallace in consideration of a loan of $4,500. It charges that this mortgage was never recorded and that shortly after a new agreement was reached for a reduction of the loan to $3,000 and that a new mortgage and note in this amount were executed and duly recorded.

Says Mortgage Not Cancelled.
Hubbard charges in his petition that the original $4,500 mortgage was to be cancelled and destroyed, according to the agreement, but that he believes Wallace either sold or assigned it to the United States Trust company.

The plaintiff alleges that upon July 3, 1923, the new $3,000 mortgage was assigned to the United States Trust company for face value, but that Wallace only paid him $500 of the amount and that he subsequently refused to advance Hubbard any further installments of the loan.

Hubbard further charges that the amount of the loan was to be advanced in installments, as work upon the construction of a new home at that location progressed. He alleges that Wallace represented to the United States Trust company that the house was completed at the time he assigned the mortgage, but that construction work had not been completed.

Mechanic's Liens Filed.
The plaintiff alleges that the entire transaction was a fraud and he asks cancellation of the note and mortgage to clear the cloud upon the title of the property. He offers to return the $500 which he says represents the total amount he received in the transaction and which it is alleged the United States Trust company has refused to accept.

About 25 mechanic's liens were filed at a late hour yesterday afternoon against various properties in the city, construction of most of which were being financed through the Robert B. Wallace company.

Omaha Man Honored by Bar Association

Bar Convention Near Its Close

Minneapolis, Aug. 31.—The annual convention of the American Bar Association was in its last hours today, with election of officers, place of meeting for 1933, committee reports on the world court and other big matters to be debated and decided in the short time remaining before evening.

The association was asked this morning in the report of a committee to take steps to secure the enactment of an amendment to the federal constitution to bring congress into session immediately upon the election of a new house, and to change the date of inauguration of the president from March 4 to some time in December or January.

Urges Codified Rules.
The committee on aeronautics called attention of the association today to the international problems connected with aeronautics, particularly to the necessity for the codification of rules governing aerial warfare.

The committee recommended enactment of state and federal legislation "which will encourage the development of commercial aeronautics in the United States."

The chief speaker of this morning's session was William Draper Lewis of Philadelphia, director of the American Law Institute. Debate on the world court and other committee reports to follow Mr. Lewis' address.

To Simplify Law.
Mr. Lewis declared that the work of the institute is to promote the clarification and simplification of

Parents Lose Fight for Child

Court Unable to Take 2-Year Old Girl from Adopted Parents.

A struggle between the real adopted parents of Margie Ward, 2, was checked Thursday. Judge Day denied the real parents a writ of habeas corpus for possession of the child.

Mr. and Mrs. Vince Wardyn a month ago signed papers of adoption turning over the little girl to Mr. and Mrs. Fred O. Mueller that time the child's parents having domestic troubles. They settled their quarrel with a petition asking that the adoption be annulled and the child returned to them.

The parents say they were not familiar with the English language and had not understood at the time of the adoption that they were giving up all rights in the little girl.

Judge Day denied the writ, saying that the story of the plaintiffs that they had not understood the adoption was incredible, and that to grant the writ would be to reward perjury. The court, he said, was obliged to consider the legal aspects of the case before the welfare of the child.
