Kistler-Bothwell.

Rev. and Mrs. James Millward Bothwell announce the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Mr. J. W. Kistler of Mexico, Mo., on Wednesday, August 29, at 10 o'clock. Only the family and a very few friends witnessed the ceremony.

According to the old tradition, "something old, something new, etc.," the bride carried a duchess lace handkerchief which Mrs. Bothwell had carried at her own wedding. The bridal gown of ivory crepe de chine was simply made and beautifully set off by the shower bouquet of white roses. An unusual addition to the lines of the wedding ceremony was a part of the 16th and 17th verses of the first chapter of the book of Ruth, repeated by the bride.

Miss Lila Wright sang "At Dawning" and Miss Leulah Pullen played the wedding march as the bride came down the stairs to the reception hall, which was decorated with tall vases of gladioli banked with pink and white cosmos, where the marriage lines were spoken by the father of the bride. The ring ceremony was used.

Immediately after the wedding breakfast the couple left for Omaha, St. Louis and points south, and will be home after September 13 in their new home at 1229 East Promenade, Mexico, Mo., where Captain Kistler is one of the faculty of the Missouri Military academy.

Mrs. Kistler is a sister of Miss Jean Bothwell, who went in India last November and many other friends will remember that Rev. Bothwell was pastor of Dietz Memorial and also of Grace church, South Omaha.

You'll Get Rid of Blackheads Sure

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads that is to dissolve them. To do this get two ounces of calomel powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little blackhead wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The calomel powder and the water dissolve the blackheads—wash them right out, leaving the pores free and clean in their natural condition—Advertisement.

Mother Has Noisy Home—Should She Repress Her Children?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX. Dear Miss Fairfax: I used to think when my children were young that our home would be quieter when they were older, but I find I still have a noisy home. My youngest boy is 10. I have a girl 12 and a boy 15. Do you think I should be severe with them? They are good children but seem too full of what they call "zip." I will thank you for a reply. MOTHER OF THREE. You have touched on a point of great importance, that of repression. It is usually a tragic mistake for parents to repress their children's natural emotions. It accounts for the defeat of many young people when they get into the battle of life. Natural expression is a good thing. If your 10-year-old boy comes in from school and calls up stairs, "Hello, mother," I would be very, very happy if I were you. A boy couldn't do that and at the same time be deceiving you about anything. That boy, no matter what the financial status of his family, would be able to mingle with people when grown, and feel himself an equal. He would not be embarrassed about expressing an opinion. He would not shrivel up with sensitiveness. Now understand, what I am talking about is the natural, normal noise of an enthusiastic young person. I wouldn't advise letting a son make a bidhouse or a footstool for his manual training in his kitchen. Nor would I allow the children to run a talking machine all day Sunday, playing jazz tunes ceaselessly. Those noises are not their noises. They are the noises of hammer and machine. Don't you see there is a difference. Regulate the noises that are mechanical; but encourage the noises that are natural outlet of youthful spirits.
