Slow Motion Pictures Testify to Terrific Power of Firpo's Right-Hand Punch

Dempsey's Knees Sag After First Looping Wallop

Wild Bull Hits Champion Nine Times Before Putting Him Through Ropes.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The greatest battle in the history of pugilism was refought last night That great first round of the bout at the Polo grounds last night was shown to newspaper men in slow motion pictures, giving them a chance to re-observe every detail of the battle which, in actuality, went so swiftly and furiously that it was impossible to keep account of everything that happened.

The pictures showed that Jack Dempsey knocked Luis Angel Firpo down seven times in the first round. Once the Argentine was flat on his back for the count of nine; another time he was knocked to a sitting position, and the other five times he was either on his hands and knees or his hands alone touched the canvas. On these five knockdowns, Firpo didn't take a count. It was explained that he could not understand English and he was taking "no chances" on the referee reaching 10 before he was on his feet again.

Dempsey fought like a tiger in that first round, taking every advantage of his South American opponent. Scarcely had Firpo's hands left the canvas when the champion rushed in and pounded him with those terrific hooks that crashed again and again against Firpo's skull. When Firpo was knocked flat on his back he lay near a corner. The champion stepped over his prostrate form, waiting. As Firpo started to rise after the sixth knockdown, Dempsey darted around him like a great cat, keeping behind his adversary. As Firpo turned and tried to face Dempsey as he rose, Dempsey kept behind, then when he saw Firpo's hands had left the floor he sprang at his opponent, soon sending him crashing to the canvas again.

The pictures also showed the tremendous power that lay behind that right of Firpo's. The first blow Firpo hit Dempsey caused the champion's knees to sag. Firpo hit the champion nine straight times with his right just before Dempsey went sprawling through the ropes and into the laps of newspaper men. Those rights came one after another, relentlessly powerful, each driving the champion nearer and nearer to the edge of the ring. As the eighth crashed into Dempsey's jaw his head dropped and his knees wobbled.

From the pictures it appeared that the eighth blow had finished Dempsey. Many of those who saw them believed that had Firpo let the champion go on the canvas after that blow he might not have gotten up. At least, they said, it would have given the challenger an excellent opportunity to let loose with another smashing blow that could have written finis to the struggle when the champion was on his feet again.

But the ninth blow sent Dempsey into the realm of the spectators, and it was agreed that a newspaper man's lap is softer than the floor of a prize ring. There was much controversy after the fight as whether it was a push or punch that sent Dempsey, with his arms and legs flying in the air, out of the ring. It was hard to tell, even from the slow pictures. It was not a swift, decisive blow, such as the others that had come in contact with the "man killer." Yet it was not a shove. To the average man it would have been swift and decisive enough, but to Dempsey—it may have been a shove.

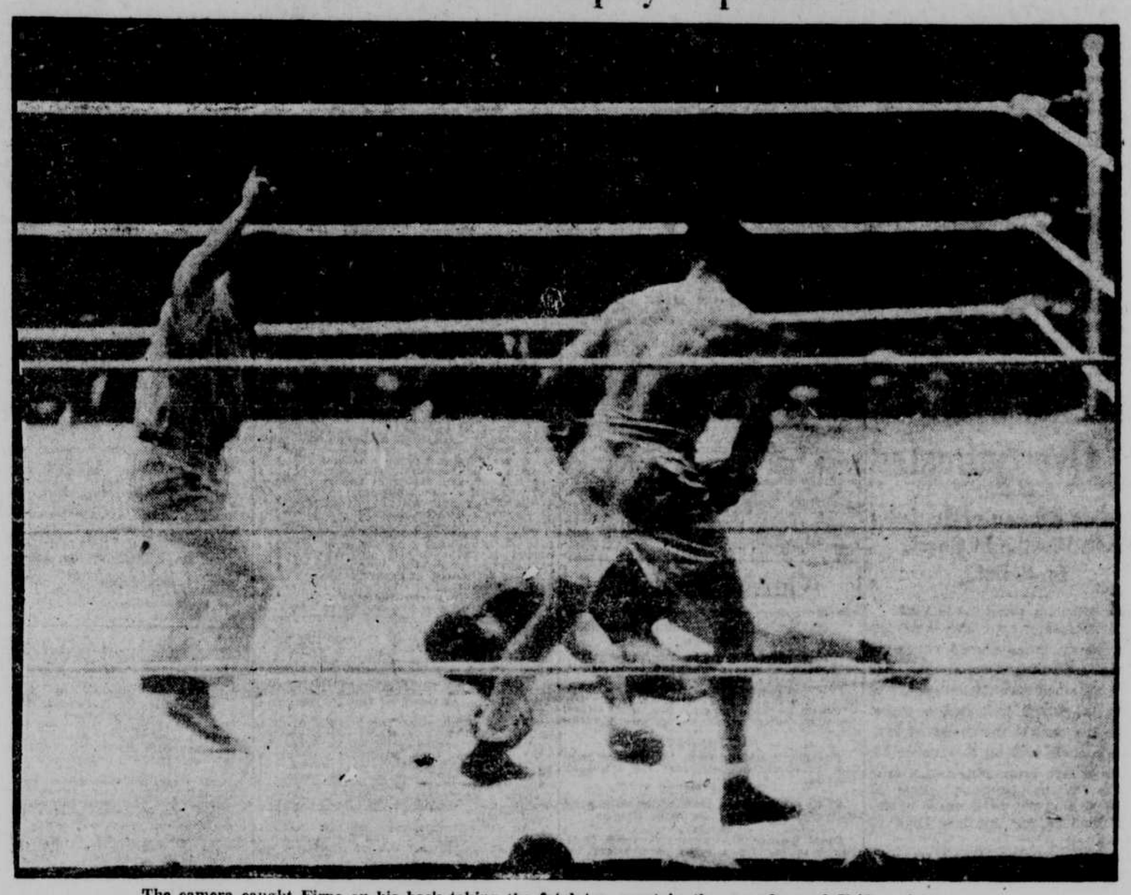
The real shoving came as Dempsey struggled back into the ring. He half crawled through the rope and the newspaper men who sat with their heads just above the level of the floor, pushed him through.

Once in the ring again and facing the wild bull, Dempsey took thirteen straight blows before he was able to return one. Firpo sent one after another at the champion, who finally fell in a clinch, and swung rights and lefts until the gong sounded to end that memorable round.

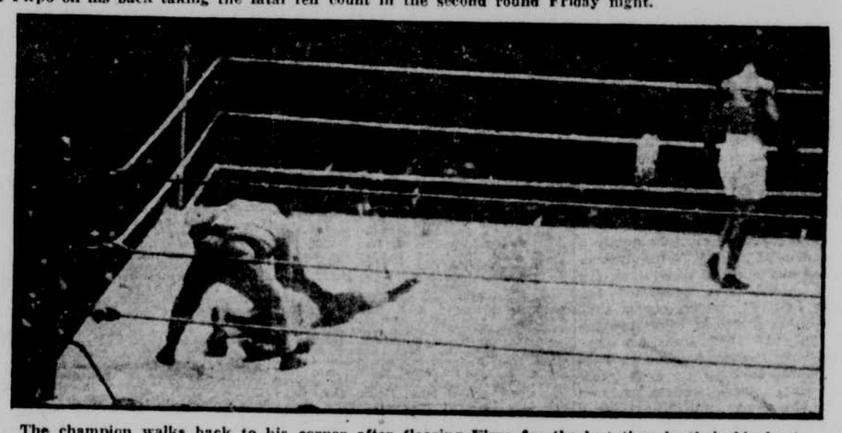
In the seven times that Dempsey knocked Firpo down in the first round he used his famous left hook for the job five times. On the fourth knockdown he used a left uppercut to the body and on the fifth he delivered a powerful right swing to the head. All the left hooks conected wtih Firpo's head.

Slow pictures of the second round were not shown, but the regular speed film showed how the champion tore into his opponent from the start, sending him to the floor once and then again for the count. As the referee brought down his arm on the final count the huge South American was trying to turn over. He was on his hands and knees, his head drooping, and he was about to give up and topple to the floor again. Dempsey caught him as "ten" was called and helped him to his corner.

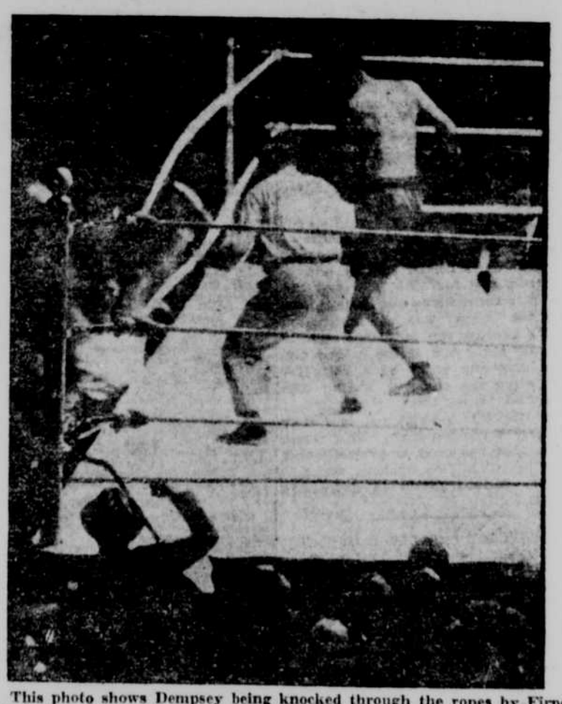
Photos of Recent Dempsey-Firpo Battle



The camera caught Firpo on his back taking the fatal ten count in the second round Friday night.



The champion walks back to his corner after flooring Firpo for the last time in his big bout.



This photo shows Dempsey being knocked through the ropes by Firpo. Critics say that if Firpo knew enough about the ring game to follow up his advantage in this round he would be champion this morning.

Rain Stops Games at League Park

By RALPH WAGNER.

Ed Konetchy's Omaha Buffaloes and Howard Gregory's Wichita Witches didn't get a chance to do their "stuff" yesterday in the doubleheader scheduled for the Fifteenth and Vinton streets park.

Crying, on the part of Ol' Jupiter Pluvius, that started in the morning and continued throughout the afternoon, ruined what chances the Buffaloes and Witches had of playing two games. It was the last Sunday double-header of the season in Omaha, too.

The Witches were all primed to take a pair of victories from the Buffaloes. George Boehler was on the mound for the herd and in the very first inning the enemy scored a run. Boehler allowed three hits and hit a batsman in the first, but you couldn't blame a pitcher for allowing hits under such weather conditions as were evident at the park yesterday.

When the Wichita half of the first inning ended, Umpire Gaffney called the games because of wet grounds, damp weather and an all-around bad afternoon.

Tulsa invades Omaha today, but the Oilers will not arrive in town in time to open this afternoon. So the Buffaloes and Oilers will be idle today. A double-header is on tap for Tuesday and the final game of the season in Omaha will be played Wednesday, flag-raising day.

Dundee Refuses to Fight.

Cleveland, Sept. 16.—A 12-round boxing bout scheduled to take place here last night between Johnny Dundee, featherweight champion, and George Chaney of Baltimore was declared off after Dundee refused to go on because he had not received the promised financial guarantee.

A crowd estimated at close to 10,000 gathered to see the contest.

Runners Fill Up Track Program

The harness horses have retired from the Ak-Sar-Ben oval and from now on, until September 29 the runners will hold full sway. Of all the drivers of the pacers and trotters, Marvin Childs, Omaha, left the largest winner of purses.

In the past week Childs drove eight horses that were in the money and collected purses amounting to $4,730. The second man was Henry Thomas with $3,070 in purses.

Now come the running events and today has a card replete with good races. After the rains of yesterday the day promises to be made to order for the mudders, but there aer some of the contestants that run almost as well on a track slippery with mud as on a fast one

There are seven races scheduled and many of the old friends of Omaha will be at the barrier. There is Noon Hour and Old Sinner in the first race; Flossie F, Bon Box and Indianola in the second; Bess Welch and Brozos in the third; Carlos Enrique in the fourth, and many more. Besides the old friends many new horses promise to make the art of picking winners even more difficult than ever before.

Nebraska Starts Football Practice

Lincoln, Sept. 16.—Nebraska University football players held their first practice in the new stadium yesterday. Forty men turned out and worked on the fundamentals of the game under the tutelage of Head Coach Fred T. Dawson while workmen swarmed over the partially completed stands, hastening to finish the work before the big games of the season.

Although Captain Verne Lewellen anda handful of players have been doing some grid work all week, today was the first formal practice of the 1923 season. On the field were the following letter men: Lewellen, H. and R. Dewitz, Hartman, and Noble, backfield; Bassett, McGlasson, and Berquist, guards; and McAllister and Thompson, ends.

Assisting Dawson with the coaching were Backfield Coaches Owen Frank and Hartley, and Line Coaches Day and Leo Scherer.

Tilden Golf Course Nearing Completion

Tilden, Neb., Sept. 16.—Citizens of Tilden are promoting a country club which will include a nine-hole golf course, tennis courts, bathhouse, and a place for recreation for the community. Plans are being made so that all amusements will be available next spring. Saunders, golf professional from Norfolk, laid out the golf course in August and the grounds are almost ready for use at the present time.

Gurley and Sidney Tournament Finalists

Gurley, Neb., Sept. 16.—Gurley defeated Kimball, 4 to 1, and Chappell defeated Sydney, 6 to 1, at the Western Baseball tournament at Sydney yesterday. Gurley and Chappell play for the championship today.

Cleveland Drops Both Games to Flying Yankees

Ruth Gets 37th Home Run to Tie With Williams and Wins First Contest.

New York, Sept. 16.—Home run drives enabled the New York Yankees to defeat the Cleveland Indians in both sections of today's double-header, by scores of 4 to 2 and 3 to 2.

In the first game Ruth tied the score in the sixth inning with his 37th homer of the year and again tying Cy Williams of the Philadelphia Nationals for the season's home run record. Score:

Boosters Divide Two Weird Games

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 16.—Des Moines and St. Joseph divided a double-header here today, the locals winning the first game, 13 to 7, and the visitors the second, 18 to 5. Both contests were marked by free hitting and by many freak hits. Iron Man Joe McGinnity, 52 years old, and famous years ago as a pitcher for the New York Giants, started the second game but was jerked after he had been found for 13 hits with none out in the third inning. Lewan hit two home runs, two triples, a double and two singles in the two games. Horan hit two home runs, a double and a single. The second game was called at the end of the sixth inning on account of darkness.
