Killing With Food. More Fascisti. More Earthquakes. The Prince at Work.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

When you hear that a well known man is ill, observe the doctors and how they feed him. Many a man dies because doctors don't know enough to take food from a man fighting a high temperature. For your own sake, remember that the body cannot eliminate poisons and assimilate nourishment at the same time. Elimination and assimilation don't go together. While your temperature is above normal take nothing but water—plenty of it—and your temperature will come down probably.

The Spanish fascisti got to work later than the Italian fascisti, but Primo Rivera, Mussolini of Spain, proposes to make up for lost time. Labor organizations must not suggest strikes. Prominent people are leaving Spain without waiting to be pushed over the frontier. Primo Rivera announces an intention to make an immediate attack on those that are "the greatest enemies of the Spanish people." He will decide who they are. This takes you back to the days in Venice when accusations were dropped into the lion's mouth. It is a vigorous government, but not the kind that lasts.

It is one thing to start a national dictatorship by one man, as Mussolini did, and another thing to carry it through.

The Spanish temperament is different from the Italian. Some of the Spaniards predict a counter-revolution against Primo Rivera and Spanish "fascism." That might be bad for King Alfonso and his dynasty. It is sure to come eventually.

Earthquakes in Sicily and Malta, very violent in Malta. Few people to kill fortunately. A terrific storm in Yokohama, flooding the temporary barracks, erected for refugees, has swept over the distressed city and 5,000 more are missing.

The old style of thought would suggest a divine ruler saying to men: "If you are determined to fight and kill each other, I shall show you how to do it officially."

The prince of Wales, on his ranch, is helping to fill a silo with sunflowers chopped up, seeds and foliage. Packed into the silo, the vegetable mass ferments and produces an excellent milk-producing food, considerably stronger in alcohol than the beer that you can buy in the United States now. How do the cows stand it?

Many wise men since the days of "back to nature" Rousseau would have told the prince of Wales that if wise, he would stay out there, filling silos, milking cows, studying nice clouds in the sky, keeping away from Europe's problems, gaieties, responsibilities, and cornerstone laying. We are all creatures of habit. The prince will be back and take his chances.

The hard coal miners have signed a two-year agreement for a vote of 480 to 20, and work begins in the mines today. That's one trouble out of the way. The next problem is to get the coal for a fair price.

It is stated, on what seems good authority, that Governor Pinchot will run for president in 1924. He would not have run had President Harding lived, but the temptation to run now is strong. He will have plenty of company, including some of those that tried and failed in 1920. A list of those that had served campaign quarters in Chicago, assuming that the convention will be there in 1924, would surprise you. Black horse optimism is the hotel man's profit.

Big saw mills around Seattle work overtime, turning out the building materials that Japan chiefly needs.

Rodman Wanamaker, who cabled $25,000 to Japan, with an offer of further assistance, hears from Count Shibusawa, that Tokio and Yokohama have been practically transformed into great resorts of ashes. Japan asks public opinion to help in floating a great Japanese loan in America. There should be no trouble in getting such a loan, and the nation ought to make the loan. If we can lend money to Europe to help one nation tear down another, we ought to lend money to our friends in Japan to help them rebuild.

The Argentine will spend 9,500,000 gold pesos "to modernize the Argentine navy." That amount of money would buy about one-quarter of a first-class modern battleship, yet that sum is big enough to modernize the Argentine navy and make the Argentine quite safe from attack by sea if the money is all spent on modern fighting ships of the air built at a fair price.

Buckner Case to Be Reopened at M. E. Conference

Report Is That Former Pastor at Aurora Will Ask for Reinstatement and Transfer.

Lincoln, Sept. 19.—Souls and not dollars should be the cry of the church, was the unanimous sentiment expressed here today at the 11th annual conference of Methodist ministers of Nebraska. This sentiment crystallized following an address by J. R. Gettys, superintendent of the Nebraska district. Superintendent Gettys asserted that the next campaign waged by the church must be one of evangelism and not of dollars. The superintendent was cheered, loudly, when he said: "What is needed is to close a few office desks and put more people to work saving souls; to send less people around managing drives and more people spreading the gospel."

The conference will be astir over two important matters, the election of delegates to the general conference at Springfield, Mass., next May, and a re-hearing of the Buckner case, which has aroused interest in general church circles. It is reported that Dr. Buckner has accepted the pastorate of a Congregational church in South Dakota and it is expected that he will ask to be reinstated in the Nebraska conference and allowed to transfer to the Dakota church. It is expected that there will be but few changes in the pastorates of the Omaha churches. It is thought that W. N. Wallace will leave Leffler. It is certain that E. L. Geisinger will leave McCabe. There is much anxiety among the Walnut Hill church members lest they should lose their pastor, Victor West. It is known that Rev. Mr. West has been asked to take a prominent outstate church. He left the city yesterday without making any statement as to what his decision would be. He has been pastor in the city three years and in that time has made an enviable record. He is secretary-treasurer of the Omaha Ministerial union.

Other than these possible changes the pastors of last year will be returned. Rev. A. S. Buel has just moved into a new parsonage. Rev. M. A. Keith is in the midst of a debt and at total expenditure of $13,997 in improvements. He is expected to be moved. The McCabe Methodist church, Fourth and Farnam streets, is to be abandoned and a new church is to be organized in Dundee. The pastor will come from outstate and will be at his new duties here about October 1.

Superintendent Gettys reported that 300 new members had been added to his district in the year and a total of $64,900 expended for improvements, including a $20,000 church building at Endicott. Superintendent Bryan Howe of the Columbus district reported a decreased debt and at total expenditure of $13,997 in improvements. He is expected to be moved. The McCabe Methodist church, Fourth and Farnam streets, is to be abandoned and a new church is to be organized in Dundee. The pastor will come from outstate and will be at his new duties here about October 1.

Miami Is Center of Rum Industry

British Investigator Charges It Is Easy for Bootleggers to Enter States.

London, Sept. 18.—Countless daring plots for bootlegging and rum running are hatched in Miami, "one of the most mysterious little cities in the world," according to H. Dewinton Wigley, in his seventh "Bootlegging Article" in the London Daily News. Wigley charges that one of the foremost conspirators, who aids in rigging the southern states via Nassau and the British Bahamas through Miami, is a leading member of the Ku Klux Klan. Another is a prominent restaurateur, and somewhere in this thriving Florida town the king of bootleggers has his headquarters. He states that the scheme to establish a palatial rum casino on one of the rocky British isles has been abandoned, because it is so easy to smuggle liquor into America. It is declared that by knowing the ropes, and with the connivance of certain customs officials, it is possible to ship any quantity of liquor into America. The latest scheme is to ship liquor into the states through Florida in cans labeled tomatoes, peaches, or pears. Everybody in Miami knows of the traffic which is not interfered with because the big fellows among the bootleggers know how to distribute the goods. Wigley concludes his article by declaring: "While Washington and London are arguing about reasonable supplies of liquor aboard reputable liners going into New York harbor, a river of liquor from England and Scotland is pouring into the states by means of trickery, bribery and violence. Some dealers in Nassau insist that the trade is on the downgrade, but others say it is going to boom again in the near future. "Washington officials told me that

Papillion Girl Wins Legion Scholarship

Ivy Beeline, 19, of Papillion, has been awarded the nursing scholarship offered by Rose E. Buman (nurses) division of Douglas county post No. 1, American Legion. Miss Beeline is the sister of an ex-serviceman and finished the examination of candidates for the scholarship with colors flying. She is a graduate of Papillion high school, and had it not been for the scholarship awarded by the legion nurses would have been unable to complete her education. She starts her training course immediately at the University of Nebraska hospital training school of nursing.

The demand is lessening and that the back doors for rum running are gradually being closed, but I imagine that Nassau will not lose its trade. "Washington officials told me that Bee Want Ads produce results.

Water Board to Have Own Investigation

Counsel for Utilities District Says City Commissioners Have No Authority in Matter.

The Metropolitan Utilities district at a special meeting this morning passed a resolution to hold an investigation into the impure water situation during the past month, and further stated that the city council is without authority to hold a similar hearing. The opinion was based on a statement made by John Lee Webster, counsel for the board, who said that "the city council and mayor are without authority under the statutes to hold an investigation, because the water board is outside of their jurisdiction." The water board in the resolution invited the city council and Chamber of Commerce to join in the investigation, which would be conducted under the direction of the board sitting as a committee of the whole. Council to Go Ahead. Commissioner Koutsky, chairman of the city council subcommittee appointed to investigate the situation, said that his meeting will be held tomorrow afternoon in the city council without regard to the water board's resolution. "We are a subcommittee of the city council appointed to make this investigation," said Koutsky. "We must carry out the wishes of the council and make our report to the commission." Koutsky said personally he feels that impartial judges should conduct the investigation and that the water board could not do so because it may be involved. "The water board, under the statutes, has sole power, management and control of the water works system," said Attorney Webster. The board is clothed with power of investigation to compel the attendance of witnesses relating to its affairs, with the same authority as a court of justice. Board Wants Investigation. "This board, to a man, wants an in-

Alleged Forger Leaps From Train

Young Man Accused of Passing Bogus Check at Scribner Makes Getaway.

Freemont, Neb., Sept. 19.—Leaping from a Northwestern train between Clarkson and Leigh, Neb., a young man giving his name as Herman Barr, aged about 22, succeeded in eluding officials trailing him on the charge of passing a fraudulent check at the store of John Moller, at Scribner. Barr purchased a raincoat at the store and gave a check in payment. He had been gone but a short time when it was discovered that the check was worthless. Nearby towns had been notified to watch for Barr when it was learned that he had boarded an early morning passenger train. He was seen on the train at Clarkson but before reaching Leigh, Barr had disappeared.

Beatrice Man Injured in Corn Binder Accident

Beatrice, Neb., Sept. 19.—Eliem Davidson of Beatrice had his right hand and arm badly lacerated by getting it caught in a corn binder at the Joe Scheve farm northwest of the city. When he found he could not prevent the accident he shouted to his team which stopped quickly, preventing his arm from being torn to pieces by the machine.

Feed Supply Exceeds Demand in Wyoming

Charles Stubbs of the Hole-in-the-Wall country of Wyoming was among the shippers of cattle to the Omaha market yesterday, having brought in several cars he loaded at Barnum, Wyo.

According to Mr. Stubbs, there is more feed than there is cattle to consume it and most of the farmers have had difficulty in getting started in the cattle raising business after shouldering heavy losses in the market slump after the war. He said the banks were slow in assisting the farmers and are demanding the settlement of loans, which is compelling the stockraiser to send his stock to market before it is ready. "Cattle and sheepmen are gradually relieving themselves of their burdens," said Mr. Stubbs, "and conditions are getting better and they are slowly getting back to the live stock game on a heavier basis."
