

Legion to Boost for Membership

Iowa Department Will Conduct Statewide Campaign Early in December.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 19.—A new form of membership campaign, in which prominent leaders of the national and state organizations will participate, is being planned by the executive committee of the Iowa department, American Legion.

The legion, in the past, has virtually gone out of existence the first of each year with the expiration of all memberships, and has been reorganized through the re-enrollments which were obtained in varied forms of campaigns.

To correct this situation, the executive committee has decided to start a statewide campaign early in December in the hope that the rolls for the coming year would be complete by January 1.

A pullman car is to be leased for 12 days, during which a party including all state officers and the national commander will tour the state, stopping in each congressional district.

In the afternoon a mass meeting will be held for legionnaires and ex-service men who have not enrolled and each evening will be devoted to a meeting open to the public of the aims of the organization and endeavor to install the veterans' body in a pace in each community, even higher than it now occupies.

Plans Complete for Transfer Day

Nebraska City Ready for Historic Event to Be Held There September 27.

Nebraska City, Sept. 19.—The various "transfer day" committees have completed arrangements for the parade, reception of visitors and decorations and other details in connection with the celebration on September 27. Arrangements have been completed for headquarters for the delegations from Omaha, Lincoln and other cities at the Masonic temple. Each committee reported progress and everything will be in readiness for the big event.

Thousands of former residents of Nebraska City are expected to be here and the committees will see that nothing is left undone for their entertainment during their stay. It is estimated that fully 2,000 Omaha people will be here and the event will be in the nature of a homecoming for many of them.

Special features have been added to the historic parade to be given and aside from the transfer ceremonies to be held at Arbor Lodge during the afternoon, this will be made the big event. Merchants have agreed to have floats in the parade and the city will be in gala attire when the visitors arrive here.

Girl Student Flies From Humboldt to Lincoln

Humboldt, Neb., Sept. 19.—Miss Esther Sneten, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sneten of this city, is reported to be the first student to have made the trip to the state university by airplane to resume her school duties.

The trip was made with Lieut. Errold Bahl as pilot, and 50 minutes were required to reach the capital city, about 90 miles. Miss Sneten is a member of the Phi Omega Psi sorority.

Congressman Simmons Off to Washington by Flivver

Grand Island, Neb., Sept. 19.—Hon. Robert Simmons, congressman from the Sixth district, was in Grand Island for a short period Monday en route with his family and automobile to Hastings, where he is attending the American Legion convention, at the termination of which he will proceed overland to Washington, D. C., in an effort to become acquainted with the ropes before the session of congress.

Grand Island Will Open New Hotel in October

Grand Island, Neb., Sept. 19.—Work on the new Yancey hotel has progressed so far as to enable the management to set an approximate date of the opening. This will be between October 20 and 30. Six carloads of equipment have been received and 15 additional cars are enroute.

Assistant Kindergarten Teacher at Red Cloud

Red Cloud, Neb., Sept. 19.—Owing to 42 pupils having enrolled in the kindergarten here, it has been necessary to choose an assistant teacher and Miss Jessie McCallum was elected by the board. The Bolens system of reading is being introduced into the kindergarten this year.

Hard to Find Which Cattle Pay Best, Iowan Declares

A load of short-fed yearling cattle was brought to the Omaha market by Charles Randall of Riverside, Ia., who said it had been a problem to figure out what kind of stock would bring the best price.

"It is hard to decide what kind of cattle to buy this fall for feeding," said Mr. Randall, "as the market has been so changeable. I think I will feed some yearlings and also some heavier cattle. I have found that it pays well to raise calves, but bigger steers pay better to let run in the corn field."

Atlantic Stockmen Hold Back for Higher Prices

C. H. Lilenthal brought a load of prime steers to the Omaha market from Atlantic, Ia., that were good enough to bring $9.75 a hundred for feeders.

"Most of the farmers have been holding on for a big fall market," said Mr. Lilenthal. "Consequently the run from my section has not been large until recently, which fact is explained by the market taking so many rapid jumps during the summer and the farmers looking for an extraordinary high scale of prices."

Farmers and Business Men Join in Road Construction

Plainview, Neb., Sept. 19.—The farmers south of Plainview and the business men of the town are co-operating in repairing and graveling the road for a distance of two miles. The business men of the town, which amount to County Commissioner Hoffart has promised to match with county funds, and the farmers have promised to donate their full share in labor. This co-operation of the farmers and business men will make it possible to put in an excellent piece of road at a minimum cost.

Burlington Employes at Wymore Raise $508 Fund

Wymore, Neb., Sept. 19.—Subscriptions by Burlington employes of Wymore to a petition circulated for the relief of the stricken Japanese have been turned over to L. D. Densmore, local secretary for the Red Cross, and the amount reached $508. This is in addition to the $165 collected from other citizens. Wymore's quota was $150.

Beatrice Company Offers $400 for Robbers' Capture

Beatrice, Neb., Sept. 19.—The Farmers' company, whose store and grain office at Pickrell were robbed of about $1,500 in cash and stock last week, has offered a reward of $400 for the arrest of the guilty parties, who are believed to be the same as those who raided the stores at Rockford and Bookwalter, Neb.

Arnold Boy Injured When Struck by 12-Pound Shot

Callaway, Neb., Sept. 19.—Charley Sell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sell of Arnold, was seriously injured when he was hit on the head with a 12-pound shot which school boys were putting in preparation for entering the track meet at Logan.

Overheated Oven Causes $1,000 Loss at Randolph

Randolph, Neb., Sept. 19.—Fire, due to an overheated oven, caused damage estimated at $1,000 at the Randolph City bakery. Both the building and contents were damaged. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

old wigwag. They drove 500 tons into a local coal yard, loaded the wagons with fuel and returned to the reservation, working, not as their forefathers did, as to whether there would be a supply of wood laid by before snow covered it, but as to what the coal dealer's bill would be. Judson Shook, who superintended the Indian's trip to town, stated that they bought about 100 tons of coal for their winter supply.

First Cattle From Sioux County This Season Here

Fifty head of fine 1,200-pound steers were consigned to the Omaha market by L. L. Ashbrook of Sioux county. The cattle averaged 555 pounds and sold for $6.75 a hundred.

"The cattle were given a finish on corn for the past 60 days and I find it was quite a paying proposition on the steers and about an even break on the heifers. My shipment is the first of cattle to come out of the Sioux county section so far this season and there are quite a few on the range that will be brought to market in a short time.

"Our crop of wild hay is about the same as last year and there is plenty of feed. The cattle are doing well and the farmers are waiting to let their finish before sending them to market."

Corn too Costly to Feed Iowa Cattlemen Believe

N. E. Kafer came in from Jefferson, Ia., with a load of feeders. He expressed the opinion that from present indications there would be a reduction of feeding operations this fall around his section.

"Our corn is good and there will be a lot of it, but some of the feeders are afraid it will be too high to feed. Present cattle prices are reasonable, but it is hard to tell when they are being bought right to pay for handling them. A large number of steers are being put into the lots at Glidden, but only a few around Jefferson so far."

Bill Instead of Using Coal

Gordon, Neb., Sept. 19.—American Indians on the Pine Ridge reservation, near here, whose forefathers found comfort around wood fires in the center of their tepees, recently chose a more modern method of heating the

Some things prove not just as they looked. And it's you know it you are hooked. —Spotty the Turtle.

Two Folks Are Much Surprised

Up, up, up Spotty the Turtle was drawn toward the surface of the Smiling Pool. By this time he was so tired that he could hardly struggle at all. And he blamed it all to the worm he held in his mouth and couldn't let go of. What would happen when he reached the surface? Where would that worm drag him to? How he did wish he knew!

Suddenly his head popped out of water, and he was dragged along on top, perfectly helpless. That worm was dragging him straight toward the bank of the Smiling Pool. He was half way there before he saw, standing on the bank, Farmer Brown's Boy.

If Spotty hadn't been so frightened and could have understood the expression on Farmer Brown's Boy's face he would have laughed. "Well, what do you know about this?" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "I've caught Spotty the Turtle and all the time I thought it was a fish that was on my hook!"

Of course, Spotty didn't understand this. He didn't understand anything that had happened. He knew nothing about fish hooks. He still thought it was the worm that kept such a tight hold on him, instead of which, of course, it was the hook on the end of the line with which Farmer Brown's Boy had been fishing.

Farmer Brown's Boy drew Spotty in to the bank, and then stooped over and picked him up. Then that dreadful pull on Spotty's mouth ceased. That was a relief, a great relief. But Spotty was no less frightened than before. What was this great giant going to do with him? He drew his legs and his head into his shell. That was the only way he had of protecting himself. Then he waited for what would happen next.

What did happen was that old pull on his mouth again. In spite of all he could do, his head was pulled out of his shell. "You poor little chap!" said Farmer Brown's Boy softly. "Of course you haven't the least idea what has happened to you, and you are frightened nearly to death. It is a good thing you haven't swallowed that hook. I don't know what we could have done if you had. It is only caught in the corner of your mouth. We'll have it out in a jiffy."

Farmer Brown's Boy was as good

Farmer Brown's Boy stooped down and placed him on the end of an old log.

as his word. Taking care to hurt Spotty as little as possible, he got that hook out. Then Spotty could withdraw his head into his shell again, and you may be sure he did this promptly. He thought that that worm had let go, for of course when Farmer Brown's Boy had taken the hook out he had taken the worm with it. His mouth was a little sore, but otherwise he was all right, though still very much frightened.

Farmer Brown's Boy stooped and placed him on the end of an old log which lay in the water. Then Farmer Brown's Boy stepped back. For a few minutes Spotty didn't move. Then very slowly and cautiously he poked his head out. He couldn't see Farmer Brown's Boy, for the latter was behind him. But he could see the water right in front of him. Out came his legs, and the way he scrambled off that log into the Smiling Pool was funny to see. He was free and safe again, and as surprised a turtle as ever lived. And without really thinking about it, he knew that he had nothing to fear from Farmer Brown's Boy. (Copyright, 1923.)
