

Wets in Favor of Hitchcock for President

National Liberty League Seeks Candidacy of Former Senator on Platform to Repeal Dry Law.

The National Liberty league, which is working for the repeal of the prohibition law, is for Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Omaha for president. Don E. DeBow of Omaha, secretary-treasurer of the organization, has sent the following communication to Mr. Hitchcock:

"As there seems to be a free-for-all presidential race now on, we believe that you have a good chance to be elected to this high office as anyone who has announced his candidacy so far.

"Do you believe now as you did when you said in your speech in the senate, 'there should and ought to be a way found to have legalized beer and wine, also in Paris, that the Volstead law will probably be repealed or modified'?

"As President Harding stated in his message to congress, December 8, 'most of our people assumed the adoption of the 18th amendment meant the elimination of the question (prohibition) from our politics. On the contrary it has been so intensified as an issue that many voters are disposed to make all political decisions with reference to this single question.'

"The National Liberty league believes that the people demand the most formidable candidates for this and other offices in the coming election, as the league is very much encouraged by the generous contributions from all sections of the country and the rapid growth in membership and growing sentiment in support of the principles of the league. If you believe now as you did then, we hope that you consider making the race on the above principles. If you do, you may be assured of our heartiest support and endorsement."

Omahan Heads U. S. Bankers

Walter W. Head Named President of American Bankers' Association.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 26.—Walter William Head, president of the Omaha National bank of Omaha, Neb., today was elected president of the American Bankers' association, which is holding its 49th annual convention here. He was formerly a vice president of the association and succeeds J. H. Puelcher of Milwaukee.

Born in Illinois.

Walter William Head, who advances from first vice president of the American Bankers' association to president, was born in Adrian, Ill., December 18, 1877. He is president of the Omaha National bank.

Mr. Head, who received a normal school and business college education, was for several years a country school teacher, later being principal of public schools in DeKalb, Mo., from 1901 to 1903. In the latter year he gave up a salary of $75 a month and entered banking at $40 a month. He became cashier of the De Kalb State bank, serving in that capacity until 1906.

From 1906 to 1908 he was state and national bank examiner, and in 1908 he became cashier of the American National bank of St. Joseph, Mo., remaining there until 1917. In that year he was elected vice president of the Omaha National bank and became president in 1920. He is also president of the Omaha Safe Deposit company and the Omaha Trust company, and vice president of the American National bank of St. Joseph and of the St. Joseph Life Insurance company.

His diversity of interest in civic activity is shown by the fact that he is a member of the Nebraska State Capitol commission having in charge the erection of the new $5,000,000 state capitol; he was major of Omaha battalion, Nebraska Home guard, during the war; he is a member of the board of directors of the international committee, Y. M. C. A., and president, Omaha council, Boy Scouts of America, and vice president of the national organization.

In the American Bankers' association he was president of the national bank division, 1919-20; second vice president, 1921-22, and first vice president, 1922-23.

For many years Mr. Head has taught a men's Sunday school class in the First Presbyterian church, with from 50 to 60 attendants. It is, with one exception, the largest men's Bible class in Omaha.

Practical Farmer.

The further diversity of interest of the new head of the American Bankers' association is also shown by his activities as a practical farmer.

He has a 2,500-acre farm near St. Joseph, Mo., that he personally directs, and the technical methods pursued under his supervision are credited with remarkable results. He raises as specialties Hereford cattle and fine Poland-China hogs that are frequently prize winners at the stock fairs. His practical farming experience has won him the sobriquet of "practical farmer" of the American Bankers' association, and it is declared, has particularly fitted him to aid in bringing about continued improvement in the relations between agriculture and finance.

Mr. Head married Della Thompson of St. Joseph, Mo., and they have one daughter, Miss Vernelle Head. His home is at 3722 Dewey avenue.

Women Urged to Fight Crime

"Too Many Arm Chair Saints" Cause of Lawlessness, W. C. T. U. Told.

"Too many arm chair saints" are the cause of lawlessness today, declared Mrs. Loren C. Banner to the Omaha Women's Christian Temperance Union Tuesday afternoon at Willard hall, in reporting the recent state convention of the union at Columbus.

There are too many women who sit snug and satisfied with themselves on their porches and talk about dreadful conditions, but have not courage enough to get out and fight for the right, explained the speaker. Mrs. Loren defended the modern girl.

"Girls are not a bit worse in their morals and manners now than they were 25 years ago. People talk about the flapper and getting parties, but we know at heart that our girls are good."

The next congress will be the driest in American history, it was prophesied at the Columbus convention, declared Mrs. Banner. She asserted that it is the duty of all women, whether they want to vote or not, to use their vote for law enforcement and to wipe out the use of tobacco and dope.

Fillmore County Teachers Institute at Geneva

Pouchard of Tekamah and Craig Thomas of Sibley. Miss Amy MacOwan, Red Cross nurse, and Miss Edith M. Come, home demonstration agent of Geneva, will also be on the program.

Minden, Neb., Sept. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Meredith celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home in Lawrence, Neb.

Both came to the state while they were quite young and were married at Spring Ranch. They have lived almost continuously in Nebraska since their marriage.

They can recall many troublesome times during the early days of the state.

Franklin, Neb., Will Have New Well for City Water

Franklin, Neb., Sept. 26.—The Kelly Well company of Grand Island has workers and tools on the ground and has started work on a new well which, it is thought, will supply the city with all the water needed for years to come. While water is only 35 to 40 feet from the surface here, the city has had trouble keeping a sufficient supply on hand on account of inadequate storage facilities. The new well will overcome this trouble and it is planned eventually to buy a large storage tank, to be used in case of emergency.

Six Inches of Snow in Sierras

Reno, Nev., Sept. 26.—For the first time since early last spring not a transcontinental automobile tourist passed through Reno yesterday. The highway association officials said six inches of snow on the summit of the Sierras is holding back eastern travelers, who are expected to continue by cars on their way to their homes. Unless a warm spell follows, the highway association secretary said, the season is over for 1933.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Need advice of those who know? You will save much trouble so—Brownie the Thrasher.

Brownie Soothes a Friend.

For several days after that shiny band was put on his leg Brownie the Thrasher kept away from that wire trap in the Old Orchard. But at last he ventured up there. As before, a lot of dainties were spread inside. He looked at them with longing eyes. His common sense told him to keep out. But the temptation was too great. Brownie ventured in and soon was filling his stomach. Then the same thing happened that had happened before—down came that trap and he was a prisoner.

But this time he was no more than startled. Farmer Brown's boy promptly entered the little cage at one side. Then Farmer Brown's boy took him out, gently stroked him a few times and set him free. Nothing more was done to him. No band was put on his other leg. He was just simply allowed to go.

After that Brownie had no fear of that trap. He found it was the same way with Chippy the Chipping Sparrow. He happened to be around when the latter was caught for the third time. Chippy didn't seem to mind it at all. No sooner was the trap reset than Brownie walked into it. This time it didn't drop. He ate his fill and walked out again. The next day he was back there. Presently he was joined by Kitty the Catbird. It was the first time that Kitty had been in there. Down came the trap and both were caught.

Kitty the Catbird was frightened almost to death. Brownie knew just how Kitty felt. Brownie calmly kept on eating. He wasn't excited at all.

"There's nothing to be afraid of," said he to Kitty when the latter had become a little bit quiet. "No harm is going to come to you. Farmer Brown's boy is going to get you free. Here he comes now."

At once Kitty the Catbird became quite frantic with fear. "You follow me," said Brownie, "and I promise you no harm will come to you."

At first Kitty the Catbird was too frightened to do anything but try to find a way out. But presently, when he saw that Brownie was not at all frightened and seemed to take things as a matter of course, he became more quiet. "Now follow me," repeated Brownie the Thrasher.

Brownie led the way through the little opening into the little cage adjoining the trap and Kitty the Catbird followed. Then the little door fell behind them and once more Kitty was dreadfully frightened.

"There's nothing to be afraid of," Brownie kept saying over and over. "There's nothing to be afraid of. Just lie quiet in the hands of Farmer Brown's boy when he takes you out."

So Kitty, seeing that Brownie really was not at all afraid, wisely did as he was told. Farmer Brown's boy lifted him out very gently, and with equal gentleness stroked him. Then he fastened one of those shiny

Drilling for Oil Will Start Soon Near Campbell

Oklahoma Geologist Says Wells Will Be Flowing in Vicinity Within Six Weeks.

Red Cloud, Neb., Sept. 26.—William John Ross, geologist, who arrived in Campbell from Tulsa, Okla., made the following statement: "This week a start will be made in drilling for oil in the vicinity of Campbell, and in six weeks oil wells will be flowing."

"The scene of operations will be three miles south of town. Mr. Ross, who is 77, has been actively engaged in geological work for 52 years, four of which were spent in government service. He is enthusiastic over the prospects for oil in this neighborhood, as the soil formation gives every indication of oil being present.

Mr. Ross estimates that it will be necessary to drill to a depth of 1,300 to 2,000 feet. This lies within the belt of the Stamford oil well, which has been in operation for several years, and the product of which were on display at the Harlan county fair in Alma. An oil well is also being drilled 15 miles south of Beaver City. A depth of 750 feet has been reached, but operations have been temporarily suspended until necessary funds can be raised.

Child-birth

WHEN the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than most have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend," Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had no trouble. I was not in bed a day and my baby was as healthy as a new-born child. I had no pain and no suffering. I was up and about in ten or fifteen minutes. I felt only about ten or twelve hours' labor. I felt like I had just had a walk. I was as healthy as ever. My friends and neighbors all start today, and mean while write to Bradford Regulator Co., B.A., Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. 'Mother's Friend' is sold by all drug stores."
