Farm Price Hike Cure for Nation

Need of Placing Products on Same Cost Level as Other Articles Is Pointed Out.

Inflation Is Foreseen

By MARK SULLIVAN.
Washington, Oct. 1.—In Washington last week, we came close to determining whether the country is to go on toward a basis of higher cost of living because of government action; or to make further progress in the direction already taken by normal economic forces toward a reduced cost of living. In the presentation of the troubles of the wheat farmer last week, and the responses of government officials, probably the most significant utterance was a sentence in the latter part of a statement given out by Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture. He said:
"If, as seems evident, we admit ourselves to be on a permanently higher scale of industrial wages and consequently higher cost of production in industry as well as agriculture a normal relationship can be restored only by bringing agricultural prices up to somewhere near the level of other prices."
If we could know certainly whether this acceptance of a permanently higher level of industrial wages and cost of production represent the view and purpose of Mr. Wallace's chief, President Coolidge; and such of Mr. Wallace's cabinet associates as Secretary Mellon and Secretary Weeks, it would be possible for business men to make fairly definite calculations within their field and possible also for political observers to make fairly confident predictions within their field.
Washington seems just now at the point where it is going to decide whether to pass into a new period of phenomena having the same upward effect as inflation on the cost of living.

Living Costs Chapter.
As against the political forces which make for a higher cost of living the natural forces which have worked in the other direction have recently made much progress. In oil and gasoline the agencies of over-production and competition have brought about a reduction of something like 25 per cent in the price to the consumer. In the automobile work there has been the definite beginning of a reduction in prices. In the building trades, which have provided the most striking and stubborn example of high costs, it is believed by competent observers that the beginnings of reduction are in sight. Natural forces left to themselves would probably pass soon into a cycle of lowered costs of production and lowered cost of living.
But an old-fashioned person, slightly embittered at some things happening in Washington, said the other day that American politics consists of a competition between organized groups to raise the cost of living. The coal miners who already received the highest wages in their experience demanded an increase and by virtue of solidarity got it.
The soldiers demand a bonus and by virtue of their potency for political action through numbers and organization seem likely to be able to make the politicians give it to them.
Bonus Would Hike Taxes.
Regardless of the merits of the bonus it cannot be denied that the addition of $2,000,000,000 or $3,000,000,000 either to government indebtedness or to current taxation will tend to that extent temporarily raise prices and increase the cost of living. The farm bloc, the railroads and some of the tariff beneficiaries are additional examples of the groups whose organized purpose in politics is economic self-interest.
It is a common observation that every time any business group finds itself facing lower prices for its products it hurries to Washington in the full expectation that it is the business of the government to furnish relief. The government to furnish relief. The remark of the same old-fashioned person to the effect that what America needs is to disinvest its politics, separate the sheep of courage from the goats of expediency and put the best in the common American man, is a good hard knockdown fight on a simple question of clear principle.
It has been long since we have had such a fight. The past contest on the league of nations and the apparently coming contest on the immigration court do not meet the requirements, for they are too bogged by the prejudices and the ease of inclining to the side of the party which is attached to any foreign question.
There are some who think—and think without any fear of the outcome—that such an issue of principle may be brought up in the campaign next year in the shape of an agitation for currency inflation. They think it possible that the pressure for higher prices from this group and that, which so far has been happily short of the demand for cheap money, may be a good thing. It is the natural ending phase of a rising cost of living and inflation. Those who give concern to this possibility say that

More Than $3,000 Damage by Flood at Wilbur, Neb.

Blue River Has Risen Over Five Feet and Is Highest Ever Recorded.

Wilbur, Neb., Oct. 1.—The Blue river at this point is the highest it has ever been and is still rising slowly. According to several old residents there has never been a flood that reached the present high water level. There has been a total damage of over $3,000 done to property near the river bridge on the main highway leading out of town east, besides unestimated damage to crops. A raise of 13 inches is reported from Crete.
The water raised more than five feet at Wilbur since Saturday night, and is running 18 inches deep through the Zwonechek & Akers' power plant on the west bank of the river. The power house was surrounded by water. Employees built a dike of sacks of dirt and sand.
At the Wilbur Country club grounds five feet of water was running in a deep current. Water covered the piano and seats, half submerged the piano and seats, and it is said the floor, 100 by 140 feet, will be warped and ruined. Water also filled the cook and refreshment stands, ruining all utensils and supplies used for the picnic. Water covered the amphitheater of seats. One of three screened and furnished cottages used for camping in season, was washed down the river. The gateway and the high board fence surrounding the grounds and the baseball park were washed away. Water covered the highway east of the river bridge, five feet deep and two blocks wide, and overflowed a concrete retaining wall nearby. Five hundred new bur-lap sacks were rushed from the Zwonechek mill to the river and filled by workmen with sand and gravel. They were entirely covered with flood waters and washed down stream.
At the farm of Stanley Shmadrava water covered the feedyards and stock pens and was rising into some of the farm buildings.
The water did some several hundred dollars' damage to the machinery in the power plant, which furnishes Wilbur with light and sells surplus to the Beatrice Power company.
The river is running full of drift and a force of men are kept at the bridge. The Zwonechek power plant is trying to free the debris and save the property. A 160-acre field of wheat, just coming up, is flooded.

Violators of Parole to Return to Prison

Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee.
Lincoln, Oct. 1.—Conrad Debus of Lancaster county and James Wilson of Douglas county, who have been out on parole, will be returned to the penitentiary for violation, it was announced by the board of pardons today.
Debus, who was paroled April 12 after serving 11 months of a sentence of one to 10 years for auto theft, violated his parole by passing bad checks in this city. He fled before being apprehended, but was arrested by Scottsbluff authorities on information supplied here.
Wilson was paroled July 23 after serving part of a sentence for auto theft. The board of pardons learned of his violation when they received a letter from Chicago authorities stating that Wilson had been sentenced to 60 days in the house of correction.

South Dakota Man Killed by Fall on Pitchfork Handle

Volga, S. D., Oct. 1.—Funeral services were held here for Michael P. Mans, well-known farmer of this vicinity, who died from injuries received when he slipped and fell on the end of a pitchfork handle, which penetrated his body several inches.
He had just thrown down the pitchfork and was preparing to follow it from the hayrack on which he had been riding when he lost his balance and fell directly on the handle, the lines of the work having stuck in the ground, leaving it in a perpendicular position.

Berlin, Oct. 1.—A German parliamentary crisis is predicted today. Political circles say the socialists will withdraw from the government as a protest against the manner the party has been discriminated against in Bavaria, and that Chancellor Stresemann will form a purely bourgeois cabinet, retaining the premiership.

By Associated Press.
London, Oct. 1.—A revolutionary movement originated by nationalist organizations has broken out at Kuestrin, 50 miles from Berlin, says a Reuter's dispatch from the German capital.
The insurgents attempted to disarm the garrison and occupy the fortress, but the commander of the Reichswehr arrested the nationalist leaders and drove back the attackers.

Ernest Grainger Held for Trial, $5,000 Bond

Lincoln, Oct. 1.—Ernest Grainger, charged with manslaughter following the death in an automobile accident near Lincoln of Carl J. Springer and Edna Boorman, popular University of Nebraska students, was bound over to the present term of district court, after waiving preliminary hearing today.

Ernest Grainger Held for Trial, $5,000 Bond

Salem, Ore., Oct. 1.—W. M. Crosby, a convict turned from the Oregon state penitentiary, was lodged in the city jail yesterday to answer three traffic violation charges growing out of his manipulation of one of the prison trucks on a principal street here. Crosby is charged with speeding the truck at the rate of 30 miles an hour through traffic, driving without a license and careless and reckless driving. The latter charge is based on the statement of the arresting motorcycle officer, that when he commanded Crosby to stop, the convict tried to run him down.
