

St. Paul Loses First Place to Blues

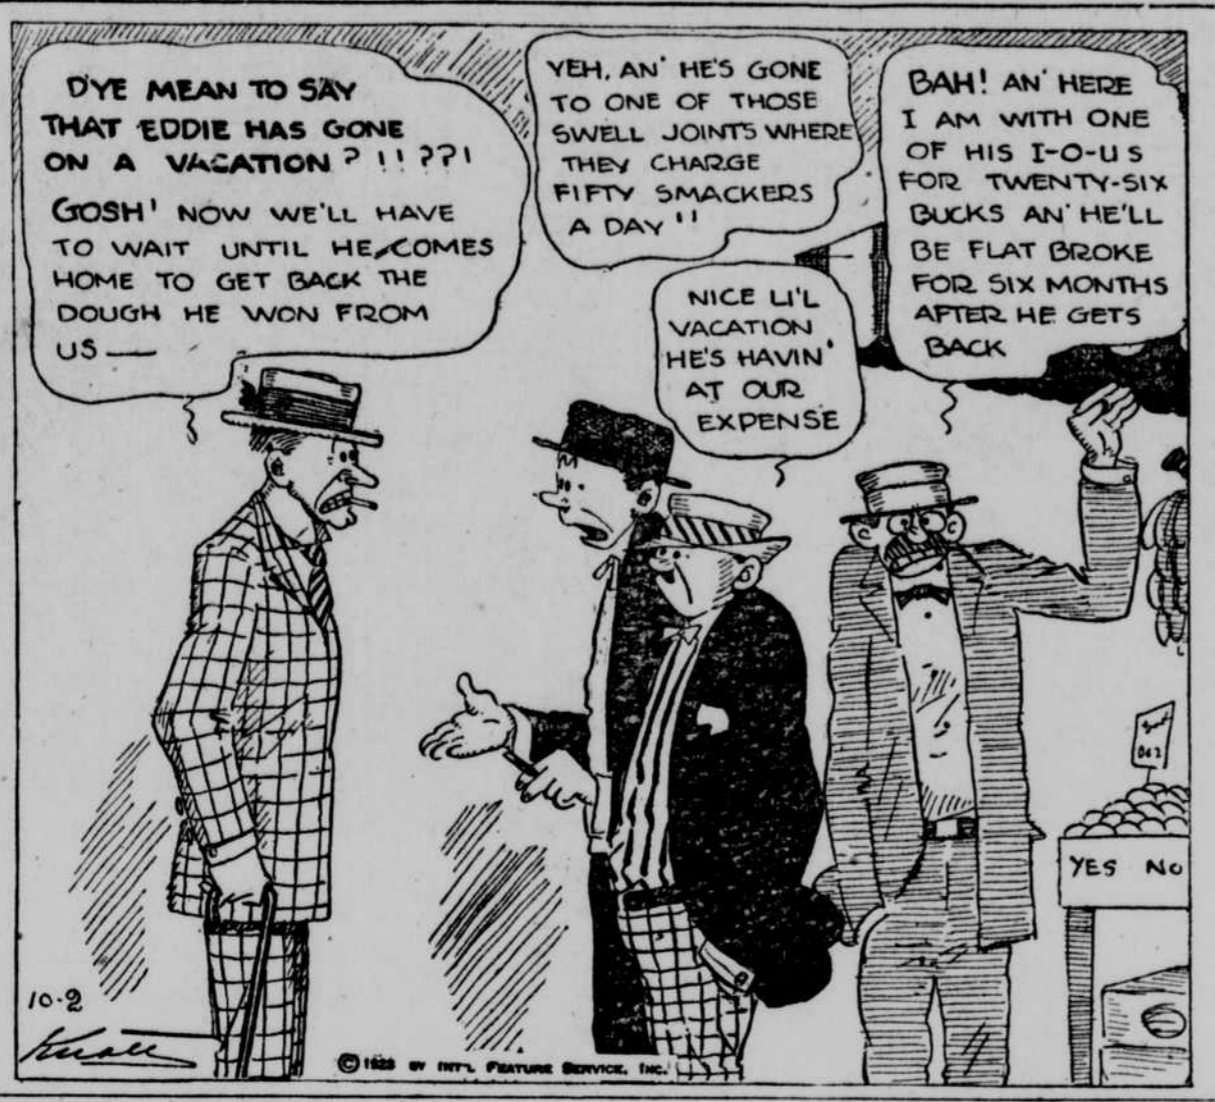

Columbus, O., Oct. 1.—Kansas City today stepped ahead of St. Paul in the American association pennant race when they defeated Columbus, 11 to 3, and St. Paul lost to Indianapolis, 5 to 0. St. Paul has been sitting in first place for a long time and has felt unassailable in that position. A loss Sunday resulted in leaving them with only a one game lead and a second loss yesterday, with the Kansas City aggregation winning, took that small margin away.

EDDIE'S FRIENDS

Picking World Series Winner Indoor Sport

By GRANDBAND RICE. Advance chatter concerning the outcome of the world series is already under way. Parties of the first part pick the Giants again, upon the theory that, having beaten the Yankees twice, they have shown such clear superiority that no doubt can exist as to which is the stronger team. Parties of the second part are inclined to place their bets on the Yankees because they figure the Yankees are now just about due. There is a certain amount of logic in each camp, but logic and box scores are not always booked together.

Army-Notre Dame Game Nearing

Football's first major engagement will come when the Army tackles Notre Dame. This contest is now less than two weeks away and it should be one of the greatest battles fought this fall. Knute Rockne's great Notre Dame outfit has had a habit of whaling the Army, but Captain McEwan has the material at hand now to offer a yearful of competition. The Army team will be one of the best in the east, and Notre Dame will be a much stronger organization than the young eleven of last fall.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

By THORNTON W. BURGESS. Life is very like a race. Some are chased while others chase. —Old Mother Nature. Peter's Exciting Race. Peter Rabbit was going to get his wish for a race this cool October morning. There was no doubt about it. A strange dog was yelping on his trail and Peter knew that that dog's nose would lead him straight to where he, Peter, was crouching.

hedge. He had hunted along it many times. He knew that there was only one small hole in it big enough for a Rabbit to get through. He guessed right away that Peter knew about that hole and was running for it. "He thinks that if he gets through that hole to the other side of that hedge he will be safe," thought the dog. "He knows I can't get through that hole, but I'll fool him. Yes, sir, I'll fool him. That is just what I'll do. He has forgotten that I can jump over that hedge. Once we are both on the other side I'll catch him, for there is no place for him to hide."

Blacky flew in a circle so as to watch.

I am afraid he will be disappointed. My, but he can run fast! I'm glad it isn't any farther to that hedge than it is." But I mustn't run too fast. I want him right at my heels when I get there."

It was a pretty race. Blacky the Crow says so, for he saw it. He happened to be flying over the hedge when...

Blacky flew in a circle so as to watch "Goodness!" said he to himself, "I do hope that dog won't catch Peter. I don't know how we ever would get along without Peter Rabbit. It doesn't seem to me that he is running his fastest. He'll have to do better than that if he wants to get away from that dog."

Lipperty-lipperty-lip, ran Peter. "Yelp, yelp, yelp!" ran the dog at his heels. The dog didn't have to put his nose down to the ground at all. All he had to do was to keep his eyes on Peter's white tail just in front of him. With every jump they drew nearer to that hedge. It was clear that Peter was making straight for that hole in the hedge, just as the dog had expected he would. The dog began to run a little faster. So did Peter.
