

Today

Be Thankful We're Out. Europe Must Settle. Then Another War. Lloyd George Will Tell You.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Unless the powers of Europe, organized for the protection of society and its laws, change their methods, disorders and anarchy will take charge over the world. France tells Germany what it must do, how many billions in gold it must find somewhere. Poincaré delivers his usual patriotic Sunday speech. Little Holland, wiser, places extra guards along her frontiers, that trouble from Germany may not cross over.

While France tells Germany how many billions she must pay, Germans spend today shooting each other. Catholic south Germany is nearer than ever to breaking away from Protestant north Germany. Prince Rupprecht is hailed king of Bavaria.

Paris, unable to see the real danger in Germany and Russia, worries about a few thousand "reds" at home and is strict about foreigners.

Sixty thousand men in Vienna, parading in military formation, denounce France.

England pays out billions to the unemployed to keep down discontent. It taxes its rich men as no other European nation would dare do, and as this nation could not do if it tried. (Because the rich men would not allow it.)

But even England is far from safe or happy. Her unemployed daily increase in number, with other nations unable to buy from English factories. It is estimated that 1,500,000 men will be idle at Christmas.

With paper money in the trillions, with false rainbow promises about reparations in tens of gold billions, the evil day has been put off. But Europe must settle for that war. No nation is going to pay the losses of any other. Germany has succeeded in making it impossible for France to collect what it might have collected with common sense at first. And Germany has ruined itself in the process of thwarting France. These things Lloyd George will soon be telling you in his speeches here.

China threatens to back out of the league of nations, which lends a comic opera touch. We should have sense enough to thank Divine Providence that we are safely out, despite the efforts of many idiots. And we should know enough to stay out.

What will happen eventually? The usual thing. Tens of millions of men cannot be kept in perpetual economic slavery. The British empire, with all its power, unable to keep Ireland down, had to grant freedom after a 700-year fight.

Tens of millions of trained men in Germany, Austria and Russia will overflow western Europe. There will come another shifting of cards, of boundaries and of powers.

And the proceedings will be complicated by communist and other social troubles and experiments and by the use of fighting machinery new to the world, making victory depend on chemistry, on builders of gas engines and on poisonous gas, heavier than air.

The world is in a state of discord and international hatred, made worse by scientific knowledge misapplied.

The business of this country is to protect its own, keep ready to repel trouble from over the two oceans, and deal with its own problems.

We have our problems. You see the governor of one state calling out 100,000 men to keep the citizens from voting the Ku Klux Klan into power, after the state's highest court authorizes the election.

This is no time for sloppy theorists urging this country to save Europe when Europe declines to save itself.

The Rev. Arthur Wilde, Swedenborgian, says the Garden of Eden was a state of mind. So is everything else, including happiness and misery. Epictetus, deformed, and a slave, was happy. Croesus, rolling in gold, miserable, worried. Nothing is real. All wealth, gold, diamonds, the sun and stars, our bodies, represent nothing more solid than electrons and orotons, made of negative and positive electricity, locked up in atoms that vary in construction, according to the element composed.

The elements are interchangeable. Matter has no existence, mind and its states are the only real things, the real universe. There is no big, no little, no beginning, no end. In fact, it's all quite confusing.

Too many unselfish patriots are working for the people. For every 12 taxpayers there is one man or woman on a national state or city payroll; 3,400,000 is the total number of workers for the public. Their salaries amount to four thousand million dollars a year.

In 50 per cent of cases public service would not suffer if the principal were dropped and his assistant put in charge. And the principal would be a better man out of a sinecure.

Prof. Snow, teacher of psychology at Northwestern university, says it is impossible to judge character or ability by the face or the shape of the head. "Psychological fakery," he calls those who pretend to read character in faces.

Yet the professor would probably not deny a considerable difference between the face of Richard Wagner and that of an African bushman, or between the head of Abraham Lincoln and that of the average poor human rat sent to the electric chair. To claim too much for the study of phrenology or physiognomy may be psychological fakery. To go too far the other way is psychological silliness. The face is the map of the mind back of it. But reading the map is not easy.

Norfleet Gets His Last Bunco Man

Winds Up 4-Year Mission With All of 6 Who Fleeced Him Accounted for.

By Associated Press. Salt Lake City, Oct. 2.—J. Frank Norfleet of Hale Center, Tex., who for the last four years has devoted practically his entire time to the seeking out of men who fleeced him out of $45,000 in Fort Worth, Tex., in November, 1919, slept soundly and peacefully in Salt Lake City last night—his chase over and the last of the bunco men in the toils of the law. M. P. Hunt, a salesman of this city, just at present but formerly known as W. B. Spencer of Texas, is the man identified by Norfleet as the last of the bunco men. He is held here by the government on three narcotic charges and will have to stand trial on these charges. Hunt, or Spencer, "had quite a chat with Norfleet and admitted he was one of the men who got that $45,000," according to a statement made by George Chase, superintendent of the identification bureau.

Indictments charging the breaking of the narcotic laws caused the arrest of M. P. Hunt on September 20. While Hunt was in custody Mr. Chase of the identification bureau, comparing Hunt with a picture and an identification card sent out by Norfleet, charged that Hunt and Spencer were the same men, and notified Norfleet of his discovery. Norfleet arrived here yesterday and immediately identified Hunt.

By Associated Press. Dallas, Tex., Oct. 2.—J. Frank Norfleet of Hale Center, Hale county, Texas, the most successful amateur detective of his age, so officers here say, has at last got his man.

Fleeced out of $45,000 in Fort Worth, Tex., in November, 1919, Norfleet covered this country and others tracking down and causing the arrest and conviction of 75 confidence men.

Veteran officers and detectives here declare the Texas ranchman has done more to break up operations of confidence men in the United States than any other man in the country.

With the receipt of a message from Norfleet yesterday evening telling of the finding of the last fugitive along his trail, the Hale county man, single handed, has apprehended all six who were in the original group who fleeced him.

"I caught my man today in Salt Lake City," this was the brief message to Chief Charles Gunning here, with whom Norfleet has conferred from time to time.

Norfleet has at times taken assumed names and traveled in disguise when nearing neighborhoods where he believed some of his quarry were hiding. He has been, on their trail far into Mexico, in many parts of Canada, in every state in the United States save one, and in Cuba.

Of the original six who were accused of staging the fake stock game by which he was fleeced, the Hale county ranchman says that two are now in the penitentiary, one was acquitted, one committed suicide, one died of an illness, and the sixth is now in prison awaiting trial.

Mr. Norfleet has considerable land holdings in Hale county on the plains of Texas. He has at various times served as a deputy sheriff in that region.

Body of Louisville Woman, Drowned in Flood, Is Found. Special Dispatch to The Omaha Bee. Louisville, Neb., Oct. 2.—The body of Mrs. Will McCarver, drowned during the rain and flood here Friday night, was recovered at 2:30 this afternoon at the bottom of a creek, about two blocks from the spot where she lost her life.

Recovery of the body brings the total known dead to 19, with two more bodies missing.

Cupid Pays Profit in Council Bluffs

Because of the increased marriage licenses business following the passage of Nebraska's new marriage law, the office of the clerk of the district court in Council Bluffs is paying a profit for the first time in its history.

Receipts now exceed expenses about $300 a month, in spite of the fact that an additional clerk has been employed to handle the increased business. Always, heretofore, a deficit has existed at the end of each month. Last year this deficit totaled $1,056.53. Total expenses for the year were $3,644.82. Receipts for last month were 2,360, according to Roy Hardesty, clerk of the court.

ZR-3 to Cross Ocean in 2 Days

Will Be Put in Mail Service Between New York and London.

By Associated Press. St. Louis, Oct. 2.—Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics of the United States navy, announced today that when the ZR-3, under construction in Germany, was completed, it would be put in mail service between New York and London on a schedule of two days. He added that the next long flight of ZR-1 would be from Lakehurst, N. J., to Panama and return via Cuba.

Civilian aviation must be increased to insure a sufficient number of naval aviators in case of war, Admiral Moffett declared in a paper prepared for the annual meeting of the air institute of the national aeronautical chamber of commerce.

Admiral Moffett asserted that "if war were declared tomorrow we would be in a pitiful plight as regards numbers of effective air craft, and said that the navy has under way plans for the creation of reserve naval aviation units in each of the 13 naval districts of the country.

The United States is far behind in aviation progress, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service, declared in an address at the annual banquet of the National Aero congress, being held in conjunction with the international air races, here last night.

"America was once first in the air when two of her gifted sons, the Wright brothers, taught the world to fly," he said. "But now we are woefully behind and other nations are taking the place in the development and progress of aviation that we should have and rightfully deserve."

Referring to the American Legion's proposal for a limitation of air armament, Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, chief of the naval bureau of aeronautics, declared that such a proposal would hamper the development of a vehicle useful to civilization. He said that the matter was considered by both the army and navy at the limitation of arms conference at Washington and it was decided that if this were carried out it would sound the death knell for American aviation.

Widow Fears Mate's Slayer

Story of Feud Told on Stand in Council Bluffs Murder Trial.

Mrs. W. E. Zimmerman, widow of W. E. Zimmerman, farmer, formerly living near Neola, Ia., who was slain June 6 by Walter L. Bardsley, living across the road, has always been afraid of the Bardsleys, and is still afraid, she testified Tuesday morning in Council Bluffs district court.

Bardsley is on trial for the alleged murder of Zimmerman, pleading self-defense. Mrs. Zimmerman was the first witness to be called by the state. She testified that on the morning of the shooting, Bardsley came out of the woods across the road from the Zimmerman home with a rifle in his hands.

Zimmerman was in the front yard of his home. "I've got you now," Bardsley said, according to Mrs. Zimmerman's testimony. She called for her husband, and Bardsley fired. Her husband dropped.

She tried to get a doctor by telephone, but was unsuccessful. She ran to the home of a neighbor named Pody, she said, and made the call there. Zimmerman was dead when the physician arrived.

Picks Up Pistol. Mrs. Zimmerman testified that her son picked up an automatic pistol from beside the body and handed it to her. She took it in the kitchen of the farm house, where the sheriff later found it. She admitted that with the aid of her son, she moved the body a few feet from the spot where it fell, before the sheriff arrived, to get it out of the sun.

She also admitted searching for shells, but said she found none, and denied that her husband fired a single shot.

E. E. Cook, civil engineer, took the stand to identify maps and plats of the spot where the shooting occurred. W. R. C. Myster, photographer, identified photographs of the spot.

Members of the jury which is trying the case, include Emil Hayden, W. C. Gallup, C. E. Fellingham, V. E. Cooney, M. E. Grout, Erwin Chambers, F. H. Wallace, Charles Johnson, Fred S. Gray, Harry Pfeiffer, R. A. Ellsworth and Bert L. Sheeley.

W. E. Mitchell is assisting Frank E. Northrop, county attorney, in the prosecution of the case, while Harry L. Robertson, his son, Paul Robertson, and John G. Bardsley of Neola, uncle of the defendant, are counsel for Bardsley. Opening statements to the jury were made yesterday afternoon and the first state witnesses will be introduced this morning.

The jury will be kept together during the course of the trial, according to instructions of the court to Bailiff Lee M. Shubert. It will be quartered at night in the Grand hotel, where L. H. Bird and W. A. Tittsworth, deputy sheriffs, will assist the bailiff in guarding the members.

Three-Year Feud. The death of Zimmerman followed a three-year feud between the two families, which began in April, 1920.

Throng Mourns Shotwell Death

Brothers Are Pallbearers at Rites for Omaha Lawyer at All Saints.

One of the largest funerals in Omaha in many years was that of Franklin Shotwell, prominent attorney, held at All Saints Episcopal church Tuesday afternoon.

Both rich and poor attended. State, city and county officials and employees were also present. In the throng could be seen many faces of laboring men, many whom Mr. Shotwell had befriended.

Mr. Shotwell, who died Saturday of cerebral apoplexy, was carried to his final resting place in Prospect Hill cemetery by his brothers, Abe V. Fred W., Kiever B., Charles E. and Ross L. and a brother-in-law, W. C. Lambert.

Bishop E. V. Shaylor conducted the church services while the Omaha Elks took charge at the grave. The beautiful gray casket was banked high with flowers.

The Shotwell family has received telegrams of sympathy from persons throughout the country. Honorary pallbearers were John E. Djer Kiss double compact with new dimming mirror, $1.50. Coty's perfume, Paris or L'Origan, each, $2 a bottle. Women's canes in bright sweater shades with leather strap handles, $1.75.
