Lloyd George jumped in. Up Comes Golden Money. Not Exactly Teetotal. Zangwill Arrives. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Lloyd George is off to Canada, the most valuable jewel in the imperial crown of the British empire. Apart from intellectual wealth, all the intrinsic wealth of the British Isles could be duplicated a dozen times over in Canada with the greatest ease.

Canadians who sent 400,000 men across the ocean to fight for their king and their own safety under the mental leadership of Lloyd George, will welcome the great premier proudly.

Gone are the days when Lloyd George was hated by every Tory in England, and every liberal with more than a 1,000 pounds a year. In that day a story, much applauded in London ran thus:

"Tell us how you saved that poor chap from drowning."
"Why, I jumped in, swam out and turned him over to make sure it wasn't Lloyd George. Then I pulled him ashore."

Since that time Lloyd George has jumped in and pulled the British empire ashore, just as it was drowning. Quite a change.

The golden sun of money rises, the old bloody sun of fighting royalty is setting. You know it when Stinnes and other great money men form Germany's ruling power dragging the monarchists along behind them, as a little tail to their kite. When money becomes absolute power, it may want royalty as a useful figurehead.

Gone are the days when Caesar condescended to take with him as a humble follower the son of the richest man in Rome. And gone the days when that richest man went out and got himself killed, trying to be a hero.

Gone also are the days when Jacques Coeur, doing a bigger business than all the other merchants of France put together, with his fleets scattered all over the seas, was proud to lend his money to the French king, to accept in the end a heavy fine, disgrace and flight to Italy, whose great trading republic he had met and conquered in their own commercial battles on the seas.

All his power, money, services counted for nothing. That he had financed the fight that drove the English out of Normandy counted for nothing when the nobles that had never done a day's work in their lives conspired against him.

Two popes, Nicholas IV and Calixtus III, recognizing his power and honesty employed him after the French King Charles had imprisoned and robbed him on a false charge of poisoning his mistress, Anges Sorrel.

You can't treat big money kings in that way any longer. Instead of standing hat in hand in waiting rooms of the great, they sit in their large offices and the formerly "great" come hat in hand to see them.

And now in Germany the heavily bearded Stinnes, modern Jacques Coeur, allows the monarchist party of Germany to follow behind him as he might good naturedly let a little strange dog follow him in the street. "He hath put down the mighty."

Lloyd George asked, "Are you a teetotaler?" replies, "A teetotaler? Ah, not exactly that."
Amazing is the number of men that manage to go through life and achieve real results without being teetotalers. There was Gladstone, the late Pierpont Morgan, Pope Leo and Marshal Moltke, both lived to be very old, and Bismarck and Clemenceau, Wagner, Beethoven, Shakespeare, Theodore Roosevelt, Christopher Columbus, Joan of Arc and Woodrow Wilson. Not one of them teetotalers, yet how much they did.

What a wonderful world this will be when, to all its other powers, are added the stimulating and genius-creating effects of total abstinence.

Zangwill is here, to visit Nathan Straus, and address the American Jewish congress on "the problem of the Jewish people."

It's an old problem, far from settlement, as old as the problem of a cat with many dogs in the neighborhood.

It takes much education to teach a dog that there is no good reason for biting a cat. It's hard to teach a cat that it does not pay to scratch a dog's face.

Human beings hate each other like cats and dogs, because of slightly different racial characteristics, instead of realizing that a combination of all these characteristics has built the world and everything worth while in it.

Zangwill attacks Hilaire Belloc's book, "The Jew." That's waste of energy as foolish as that of the dog who chases a cat up a tree.

Zangwill has genius, real intelligence, Belloc has neither. His book is a cheap performance, well included in Lloyd George's sufficient description of anti-Semitism as "extraordinarily stupid."

Zangwill's intelligence shows in the fact that he sees and describes all sides of Jewish character, not confining himself to exclusive praise.

Jews like many others have been injured by those that consider themselves their best friends. To tell a child or a race that it perfect, is not kindness.

President Coolidge who hasn't made any mistakes thus far announces that he is opposed to the sloppy sentimental talk about cancelling Europe's war debts. He doesn't say, but probably thinks that Europe would spend more money paying what it owes the United States, instead of investing the money for killing its

Women Favor a Workhouse for Prisoners

Declare Idleness Breeds Discontent Among Persons Confined in Douglas County Jail.

Proposed plan for a workhouse for Douglas county prisoners is heartily endorsed by many Omaha women prominent in welfare and club work. The majority favor road work for the prisoners for the time being as expense of a new building for any prison manufacture would be too great a load on the taxpayers, they say. Other counties and states have work for their prisoners, and why shouldn't Douglas county have the same benefits, they ask.

"I certainly approve of the plan for a workhouse for the prisoners here," said Mrs. Palmer Findley, president of Omaha Young Women's Christian association. "All prisoners need work; idleness is a bad thing. There would be less discontent among them if they felt that they were doing something in the world."

The suggestion of a work house will be discussed at a meeting of the Omaha Women's Club, Tuesday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., said Mrs. Robert C. Uhlig, president. Mrs. Uhlig is in favor of the workhouse, but also thinks that the prisoner's side of the question should be looked into. Mrs. W. A. Ahlquist, secretary of the club, said that the prisoners need work; idleness is a bad thing. "The prisoners should have something to do," said Mrs. Ohn W. Gill, vice president of the Omaha Women's club. "Since the roads in the county need so much repair the prisoners could do this with little additional expense to the county. Idleness gets anyone into trouble. Employment is a good thing."

Favors Workhouse.
Dr. Jennie Callias who has done a great deal of prison welfare work in connection with the Omaha Women's club has been very much in favor of a workhouse for prisoners for many years. "In St. Louis where I used to live excellent work is being done by work of the prisoners," said Dr. Callias. "I certainly approve of such work and have been trying to interest the commissioners in such a plan for a long time. The women were all interested in the proposals but not the men. Road work is being done everywhere by prisoners and we certainly need better roads right here in the city."

Another prominent member of the Omaha Women's club, Mrs. C. W. Hayes, can find no reason why men who live on the county should not work for their keep. "I am in favor of insisting on the prisoners working," said Mrs. Hayes. "They are dependent on the public so they should be forced to do something."
"The taxpayer should realize that it is an injustice to the prisoner to let him be idle. This would remedy the evils that exist in an idle mind of a prisoner. Effective work has been done in so many states and counties. When they built the new jail I urged a workhouse but the county commissioners said that it would be too much expense. A work house is one of the best things possible in prison reform."

Big Demand Reported for Excursion Tickets

The ticket office at the Union station reported a heavy demand for Sunday excursion round trip tickets on the Great Western railroad yesterday. Round trip tickets are sold for $5, if purchased after midnight Saturday, are good until midnight Sunday.

The offer is more or less of an experiment and will be in force until October 14.

Banker Returns From East.
S. J. Weekes, president of the O'Neill National bank, was in Omaha Monday on his return from the east. He was a guest at a luncheon given at the Biltmore, New York, last Friday for David Lloyd George by the United Press associations.

B. Brewer, general manager of The Omaha Bee, was also a guest there, as was Norris Huse, formerly of Norfolk, now vice president of the United Press association.
"We all shook hands with Lloyd George," he said. "He is a man of marvelous personality and with a remarkable eye looking out from under his black and shaggy eyebrows."

TODAY'S BEAUTY HINT

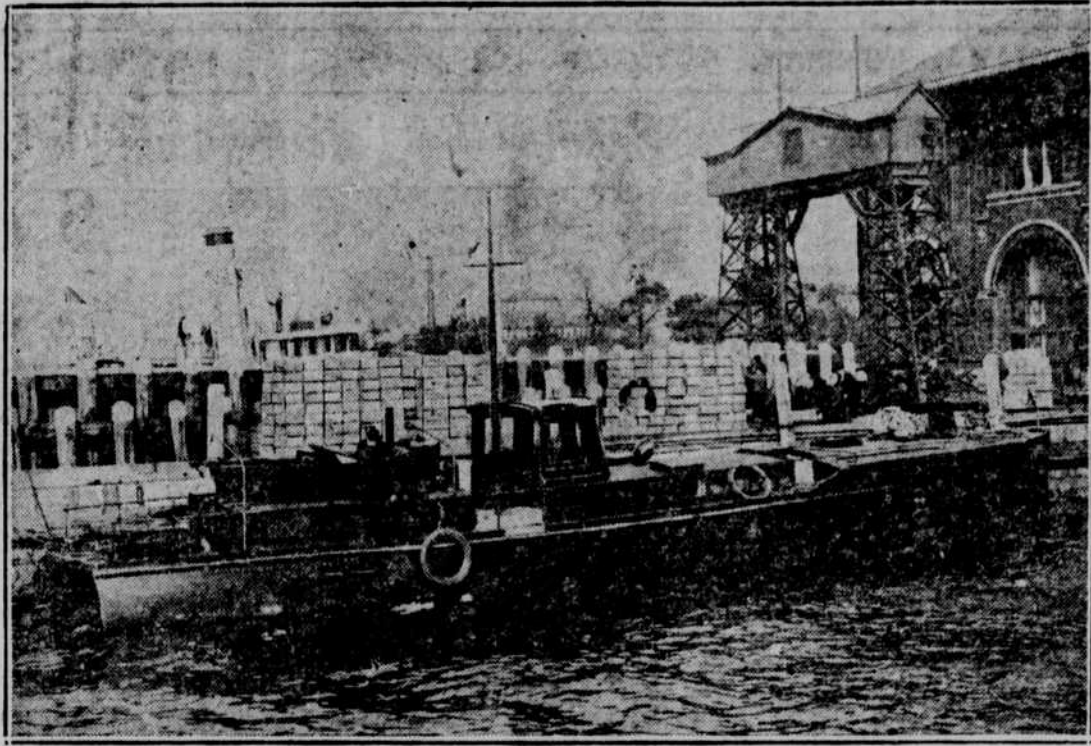

It is not necessary to shampoo your hair so frequently if it is entirely and properly cleansed each time by the use of a really good shampoo. The easiest to use and quickest drying shampoo that we can recommend to our readers is one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair and may be enjoyed at very little expense by dissolving a teaspoonful of carbox which can be obtained from any druggist, in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just to the top of the head. This, when rubbed into the scalp and onto every strand of hair, chemically dissolves all impurities. It is very soothing and cooling in its action, as well as beneficial to both scalp and hair. After rinsing out the lather so created, you will find the scalp is fresh, clean and free from dandruff, while the hair dries quickly and evenly, developing a bright luster and a soft fluffiness that makes it seem very heavy.

Former Gould Yacht Caught as Rum Runner

The Atlanta, a swift 71-foot motor yacht, once the pride of George J. Gould, was caught rum running in East river, New York, when its engines went wrong. Liqueur on board valued at $30,000 was confiscated. Built in 1917, the Atlanta was sold last July by executors of Gould estate.

Ex-Hotel Head Gets Year in Jail

Convicted on Fraud Charge in Federal Court at Lincoln.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 8.—F. L. Schauf, formerly head of the Nebraska Hotel company and the Nebraska Building and Investment company, charged with sale of stock in these companies under misrepresentation of the financial standing of the companies and with use of the mails in violation of federal statutes, was sentenced to one year in the county jail at Fremont by Federal Judge T. C. Munger here this morning.

Republicans Will Stir Own Party Cake

The republican party in that state will solicit Senator Johnson to be a candidate for the presidential nomination. Another result of this same Illinois situation is that when Johnson is elected by one of the factions it will instantly follow that Governor Lowden of that state will also be in the race; Mr. Lowden is not an avowed candidate and has no intention of making a fight against Coolidge.

But events in his own state are extremely likely to make him a candidate in the senate of the state of Illinois. Still further there is a situation rapidly developing in South Dakota which will tend to put Hiram Johnson in the field as a candidate. South Dakota is the first of the states to take any official action looking to the republican nomination. That action will be taken as early as next month in the shape of what is called in South Dakota "county assemblies."

In these county assemblies the names of both Coolidge and Johnson will figure and the prevailing political spirit of the state is such that the advocates of Johnson will be very numerous and extremely aggressive. In several other states it is becoming certain that the state delegation will go to the next convention instructed for "favorite sons" as against Coolidge. In practically every state there are always two factions. When one faction gets behind Coolidge the other faction gets behind some one else; and in the subsequent contests it is bound to happen in a considerable number of cases that the anti-Coolidge candidate will win.

The net of all this is that it is practically certain Coolidge will not have in the aggregate as much as a majority of the delegates on the first ballot.

Bandits Raid Ritz-Carleton

3 Armed Men Hold Up Night Manager, Take $5,000 in Gems.

New York, Oct. 8.—Three armed men early today held up the night manager and several other employees of the fashionable Ritz-Carleton hotel and robbed a jewelry store in the lobby of $5,000 worth of gems.

The robbery occurred at 2:30 a. m. Charlie Chaplin, who entered the hotel lobby 15 minutes after the bandits fled, was the first outsider to learn of it. Not until five hours later, after the hotel employees had tried to trail the robbers and failed, was the holdup reported to the police.

Entering the hotel at the main concourse the bandits, well dressed and armed, called for the night manager, and ordered his hands up.

Meantime, quite apart from any political efforts that may be under way on the part of Coolidge's friends, Coolidge himself is handling the business of his office and conducting himself in relation to the country in a manner which is the natural expression of his personality and of his past record. His course is one of sure-footed and careful handling of each problem as it comes up with complete fidelity to accepted principles.
For such a course of conduct and from events that have happened during the last week it may be inferred that while the administration will do everything possible to help the farmer those efforts will be kept safely within the field of accepted principles of government and economics.
Another reasonable inference from this line of policy is that there will be no juggling on the part of the executive with the existing status of freight rates and no attempt to help one economic group at the expense of another through any device of helping Peter at the expense of Paul. During the latter part of the week there was a marked subsidence of alarm about the condition of the farmer and an increase of confidence that farm conditions may improve of themselves through forces inherent in the general economic situation. Part of this hope received its stimulus from the rise of corn. The balance of judgment was to the effect that this rise will be maintained. It should be added, however, that some experts fear the price of corn will not continue at this present height.
Their reasoning is that much of the corn is being bought for the purpose of fattening hogs; that the number of hogs in the country is enormous and that when pork comes on the market a few weeks from now it will run into the same condition that was partially responsible for the slump in wheat, namely a lack of normal consumption and normal bidding power in Europe.

Cancelling of War Debt Wilson Plan

Letter From Lloyd George to Ex-President Showed Agreement.

London, Oct. 8.—The Sunday Express yesterday published a letter dated August 5, 1920, from Lloyd George to President Wilson showing that the British, French and American governments had practically agreed to settle the whole reparations problem when Lloyd George's government fell.

The letter shows that America and Britain had agreed to remit a portion of the British debt to the United States in consideration of France scaling down its reparations claims.

Wilson Refuses Comment.
Washington, Oct. 8.—Officials and diplomats here were stirred yesterday by dispatches from London to the effect that the United States under President Wilson was ready to accept a plan for reducing debts owed it by the allies in order to affect a reduction in the German reparations total demanded by France.

At Mr. Wilson's home here it was learned that the London dispatches had been noted, but comment was refused. It was indicated, however, that the former president might authorize some statement later.

Elsewhere, authoritative denials were made of the British implication that the American government in 1920 accepted the idea reducing the allied obligations if reparations demands on Germany were out accordingly.

London dispatches emphasized the assertion that Anglo-American debt negotiations at that time were dropped by Austen Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer, and Albert Rathbone, representing the United States.

Mr. Rathbone said last night that his negotiations with Mr. Chamberlain were "halted," when he was advised that the British premier desired to take up the matter with President Wilson personally. Mr. Rathbone emphasized that his negotiations were not abandoned. He said the discussion later was taken up by other American representatives with the British where he left off and led funding arrangements entered into with Great Britain.

It is pointed out, congress never took seriously the Wilson plan for taking questionable German reparations bonds in payment of Belgian obligations incurred prior to the armistice, November 11, 1918. Congress likewise specifically prohibited the debt commission from giving any consideration to cancellations proposals.

Your Own Pearls
Are the finest—pearly teeth
Millions find them by combating film

No pearls which hang about the neck compare with pretty teeth. Don't leave them coated by a dingy film.
Look about you. Note how countless teeth now glisten. Mark what they add to beauty and to charm. Then make this test and learn how people get them.
The cloud is film
You feel on your teeth a viscous film. Under old-way brushing, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That is why so many teeth lose luster.
Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyor hea.
This film is the greatest enemy of tooth beauty and tooth health.
Dental science, after long research, found ways to combat that
Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disinfects the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.
Some sad mistakes
Research also proved that soapy tooth pastes had brought undesired results. They reduced the alkalinity of the saliva, reduced its starch digestant. Pepsodent brings just opposite effects. It multiplies the alkalinity, multiplies the starch digestant. And they are Nature's agents for fighting acid and starch deposits.
